

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. REPORT

OF THE

OF THE

INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Whether the war with Spain was a call of destiny to the United States may be a mooted question; but certain it is that this conflict brought to the Young Men's Christian Association an unprecedented opportunity for a mighty service to those young men who uphold the nation's honor on land and sea. Here was the call of God which could be unheeded only at gravest peril, for as Emerson well says: "Whatever the place allotted to us by Providence, that for us is the post of honor and duty."

In January, 1898, before there was any real belief in the possibility of war, Chaplain D. H. Tribou, U. S. N., in his annual report to the Department at Washington, suggested that in his judgment the Young Men's Christian Association could minister to the needs of the young men in the navy, and offered to take up the question with the International Committee. This he was instructed to do by the Department, and as a result the Committee received a communication from him dated January 27, 1898. In response to this a secretary of the committee went to Boston to confer with Chaplain Tribou about a feasible plan of procedure. A plan was outlined which required some investigation, and while this was proceeding the clouds of war began to gather.

A member of the International Committee, who was then in Washington, and from inside sources of information saw clearly the trend of events, feeling that in the event of war the association should be ready for the emergency, brought the subject to the attention of the Committee at its regular meeting in New York, April 14.

At about the same time a secretary of the Committee left an important engagement in his field and came to New York, with the same feeling, that in case of a conflict, immediate steps should be taken by the Committee to organize a definite work for the soldiers. Thus was Providence preparing the way for prompt action by calling the attention of men to the possibility of this special effort, and on Monday, April 25, 1898, three days after the President's first call for volunteers, the International Committee met in New York city to discuss the situation. At this meeting was present one who had taken part in the Christian Commission organized by the Young Men's Christian Association during the civil war, and as the story of that movement was retold, and the results of the work then undertaken recounted, all hearts were stirred, and it was clearly seen that to the new generation had come a similar opportunity.

By a unanimous vote it was decided to undertake a work immediately among the soldiers and sailors, and a special committee was appointed to outline a plan of operation.

The Need.

The need for practical and helpful restraining influence was manifest. "War is hell," whether in the army camp or upon the battle-field. The massing of any body of men from different vocations, away from the restraining influences of home and social life, is in itself, sufficient to create an environment appealing to the baser instincts of men.

The greater the crowd the less the sense of individual responsibility. Events which would shock a small community, pass almost without notice in a great city. Likewise with the great army community. Then, with no responsibility as to food or shelter, and with no control over the events of to-day or the plans of to-morrow, there comes to soldier and sailor a lessening of individual control.

"Most restraints," says one, "are gone from a soldier's life. Good name, family ties, social standing, the presence of pure women and of friends whose good opinion is desirable, and the usual conventionalities of life, are absent from camp. The greatest temptation of camp life is to relax ones manner of living, and to lower the ideals held at home."

Remove the safeguards, and add the idle hours of a waiting campaign, the discomforts of enforced camp life in a crowd, the disappointments of inactive service, together with trying climatic and sanitary conditions, and large bodies of men are predisposed toward evil. Then it is that profanity, gambling, intemperance and impurity flourish. One great curse of some of the camps last summer was the regimental beer canteen. In these army grog shops many a young man learned to take his first glass of liquor, for the temptation to drink was exceedingly strong.

With such evil tendencies clearly foreseen, it was not surprising that the well-disposed people of the land so heartily endorsed and aided in the plans for providing counter attractions for their sons who were going forth to battle.

The Army and Navy Christian Commission.

It was very natural that the thought of so many should turn to the Young Men's Christian Association, as the proper agency to do this work. Being interdenominational, all philanthropic and Christian people might unite in the effort.

Through its years of experience it had learned to adapt its work to the various needs of different classes of young men; those in college and on the railroads, as well as in the cities and towns; the colored young men of the south and the Indian young men upon the plains.

The association had learned to make use of preventative measures, just such means as would be greatly needed in this new crisis.

Its watchword was "work by young men, for young men," and on this line alone could success come in this army of 250,000 men, whose average age was under twenty-four years.

Moreover, there was experience in this kind of work, as several of the state and provincial committees had for a dozen years maintained an effective work at the summer encampments of the national guard.

This organization had the machinery necessary for the undertaking. In nearly 700 cities throughout the country were the local associations; these in the several states were united in state organizations with state committees and state secretaries, and were finally all bound together in an international organization with its International Committee, sub-committees and secretaries.

Accordingly, in order to promote unified effort and to secure effective co-operation, the International Committee appointed a sub-committee to organize and supervise the work, its official title being "The Army and Navy Christian Commission of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations." The Commission was composed of the following gentlemen:

The work of the Commission was divided into three departments : The Executive, for general supervision, with Col. John J. McCook as chairman ; the General Work, for the direction of the social, physical and regular religious effort, including the Bible classes, with C. W. McAlpin as chairman, and the Evangelistic Department for the promotion of evangelistic effort at the different camps, with D. L. Moody as chairman. Field Secretary W. B. Millar became secretary of the Commission for the general organization and supervision of the movement. W. E. Lougee became secretary of the business department. Secretaries H. P. Andersen, F. B. Shipp, J. F. Moore and W. A. Hunton of the International Committee force, rendered very efficient service at the different camps. The details of their work will be found in their several reports in the Association Year Book.

The vast growth of the Young Men's Christian Association is in no way more clearly marked than in the fact that while in 1861, although organizing the Christian Commission, its management passed out of the association's hands and adopted its own plans and methods ; in 1898 the Commission remained a part of the association organization, and association plans and methods were followed throughout the entire period.

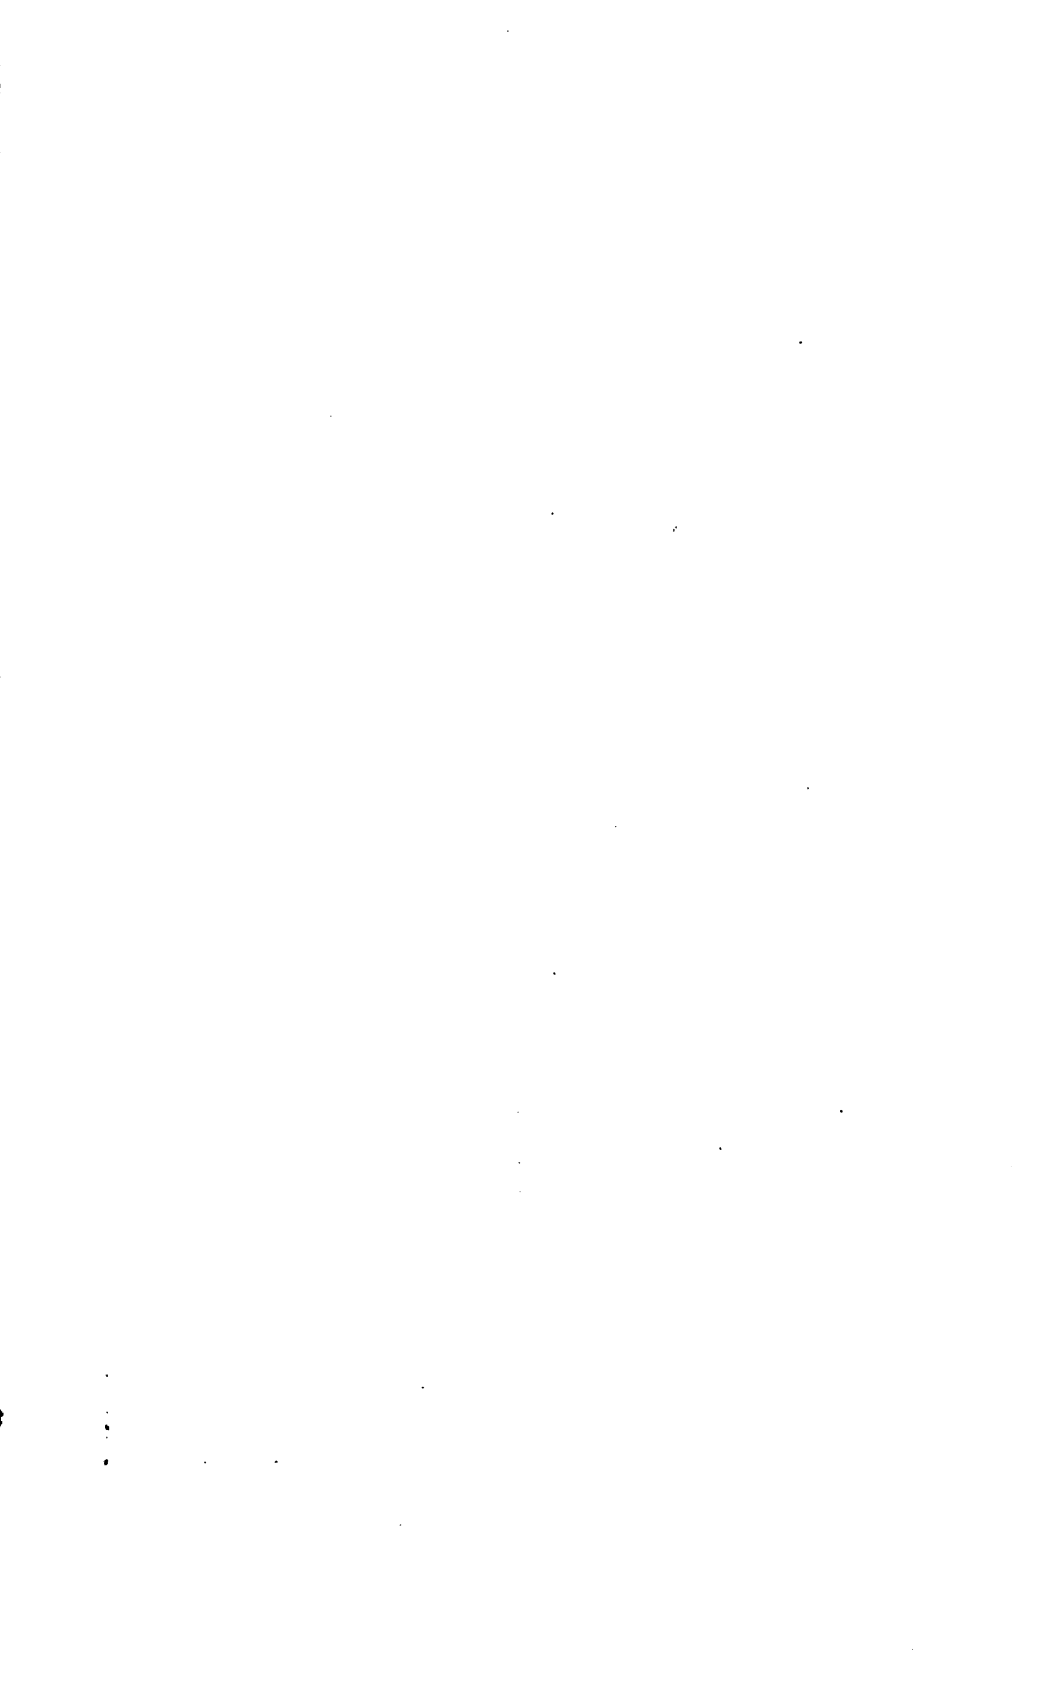

Initiatory Steps.

The following plan of effort to be undertaken at the several encampments was outlined : The location of large tents (40 feet by 60 feet) with the different brigades or regiments with experienced secretaries in charge ; the tents to be so equipped as to offer the soldiers a reading-room, with daily newspapers, magazines and other reading matter ; games of skill and recreative sports ; facilities for correspondence, entertainments, music, meetings, and as many other physical, social and religious privileges as possible, the aim being to make these places of resort homelike and attractive to the men, and to surround them with wholesome and uplifting influences, all of the work to be carried on in co-operation with that of the army chaplains.

On April 29th the secretary of the Commission went to Washington to secure the necessary permission from the proper authorities to undertake the work. From General Nelson A. Miles, Major-General commanding the Army, the following endorsement was secured :

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, D. C., April 30, 1898.

By direction of the Major-General commanding the Army, permission is hereby given the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations to locate their tent or tents, with any of the commands, subject to the supervision and direction of the commanding officers.

(Signed), F. MICHLER,
Captain and A. D. C.

The matter was laid before the Secretary of War in a communication dated April 30th, to which the following reply was received :

Sir :—The Secretary of War desires me to acknowledge the receipt of your communication to him of the 30th ult., laying before him a plan to locate one or more tents, to be equipped as reading rooms, etc., at each camp of the U. S. forces, now in the field, somewhat similar in aim to that undertaken by the Christian and Sanitary Commissioners during the Civil War, and in reply thereto to inform you that he approves of the scheme, and has directed that copies of your communication be furnished commanding generals of U. S. forces in the field.

(Signed), H. C. CORBIN,
Adjutant General.

The next step was the securing of the co-operation of the local Young Men's Christian Associations, and of the various state committees. Each association was asked to appoint an army committee, and suggestions as to its work were given. A communication was also sent to each state committee, urging the following of the troops to the state camps, with large tents and full equipment for doing a vigorous all-round work.

In the State Camps.

Already in many of the states plans had been outlined, and the ready response showed that the leaders in all parts of the country were alive to the need and opportunity. As the volunteers were temporarily gathered in the state encampments, the state committees instituted the work as indicated above, the local associations giving earnest support. The work was thus carried on in forty state camps by twenty-eight state committees, where seventy-six workers with seventy-four tents ministered to the needs of the men. The state committees reporting this work are as follows : Alabama, Connecticut, California, Georgia, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Mississippi, New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Nebraska, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Wisconsin.

In the National Camps.

The general government soon selected several points as national camps, to which the volunteers as well as the regulars were rapidly moved. A careful study of the condition of each of these points was made, and the association work organized as rapidly as possible. The work in these camps was carried on under the direction and supervision of the International Committee, although in some instances the state committees transferred the work with their state troops from the state to the national encampments. During the summer and autumn work was vigorously prosecuted at the following twenty-four national camps: Falls Church and Fredericksburg, Va.; Chickamauga Park, Savannah, Augusta, Macon, Albany and Atlanta, Ga.; San Francisco and Oakland, Cal.; Miami, Tampa, Fernandina and Jacksonville, Fla.; Mobile, Ala.; Montauk Point and Hempstead (L. I.), N. Y.; Lexington, Ky.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Middletown, Pa.; Summerville and Greenville, S. C.; Fort Macon, N. C.; Poplar Springs, Va. In these camps were placed and maintained ninety international and forty-three state tents, each a complete Young Men's Christian Association. In charge of these tents during the summer were a total of 173 trained secretaries employed by the International Committee and fifty by the state committees. That the soldiers appreciated the privileges offered in these tents is seen from the fact that at least fifty per cent of the men who had access to the tents visited them daily.

One feature particularly helpful and greatly appreciated was the facilities offered for correspondence. Long tables with benches were placed in each tent, accommodating from seventy-five to one hundred men at a time, stationery, ink, pens, etc., were supplied free, and in this way the link binding the boy to his home was kept intact. An average of from ten to twenty thousand letters were written weekly in each tent. During the summer and autumn eight million pieces of stationery were thus used. Some idea of the magnitude of this item may be gained when it is stated that it took between four and five barrels of ink to each million note heads. It is impossible to over-estimate the far-reaching, beneficent influence of this one privilege. The letters from the loved ones may come frequently, but when the soldier boy, far from home, must overcome great obstacles in replying, if he does not find this altogether impossible, there comes to him a painful sense of isolation. This in itself is distressing, but is apt to bring on a train of far more serious consequences. With little or no possibility of writing home, the soldier is cut off from one of the most vital home influences left him. His thoughts of mother and the other dear ones naturally are not so frequent as at first, and he gradually becomes more absorbed in the living realities about him, and less sensitive to his nobler feelings and impulses. What is too often the result? The subtle, almost imperceptible, but incalculably perilous influence of lowering companionship and degrading environment, without the counteracting influence of letters from home, is likely to do its deadly work more easily and quickly, and the soldier boy, almost before he is aware of the terrible danger, may be swept into a vortex of vice.

In another part of the tent were placed smaller tables for various games. Chess, checkers, crokinole, archarena, carroms, puzzles, etc., helped to while away many an idle hour that would otherwise have hung heavily, or been spent under evil influences. Facilities for outdoor games and recreation were also provided.

The reading-room feature in each tent was greatly enjoyed. Here were placed on file the daily papers, when possible those from the home, town, or state, magazines and illustrated weeklies, also religious papers, great numbers of books and pamphlets and other readable literature.

Around the organ in each tent would generally be found a group of soldiers singing, and it soon developed that "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Onward Christian Soldiers" were the prime favorites, and often for miles could be heard the sound, as the song was taken up by men in all parts of the encampment. Many instances might be cited of the return of the wandering boy, won by the song that had perhaps been learned and sung in the home church or Sunday School, but let one suffice: A private with two companions was passing one of the Young Men's Christian Association tents just as the last song was being sung. The hymn was "Onward Christian Soldiers." Pausing, he listened a few moments, then left his companions, went into the tent, and walking up to the secretary said: "That song you have just been singing has brought vividly to my mind my mother's last words as I was leaving home—'The only thing I have to give you as my parting word is that you remember your Creator.'" But in camp, as he confessed, he had done everything but remember his Creator. He was converted, and as a result of the work that night, three of his four tent mates were reached.

No feature perhaps did more to counteract the evil influence of the beer canteen than the barrels of ice-water kept constantly on tap in the tents. In some regiments the canteen disappeared entirely—in others the sales of beer were greatly decreased from the first filling of the ice-water barrels. So marked was this, that the associated press wired from one of the large camps: "The Young Men's Christian Association has made great inroads at the places where beer has been sold."

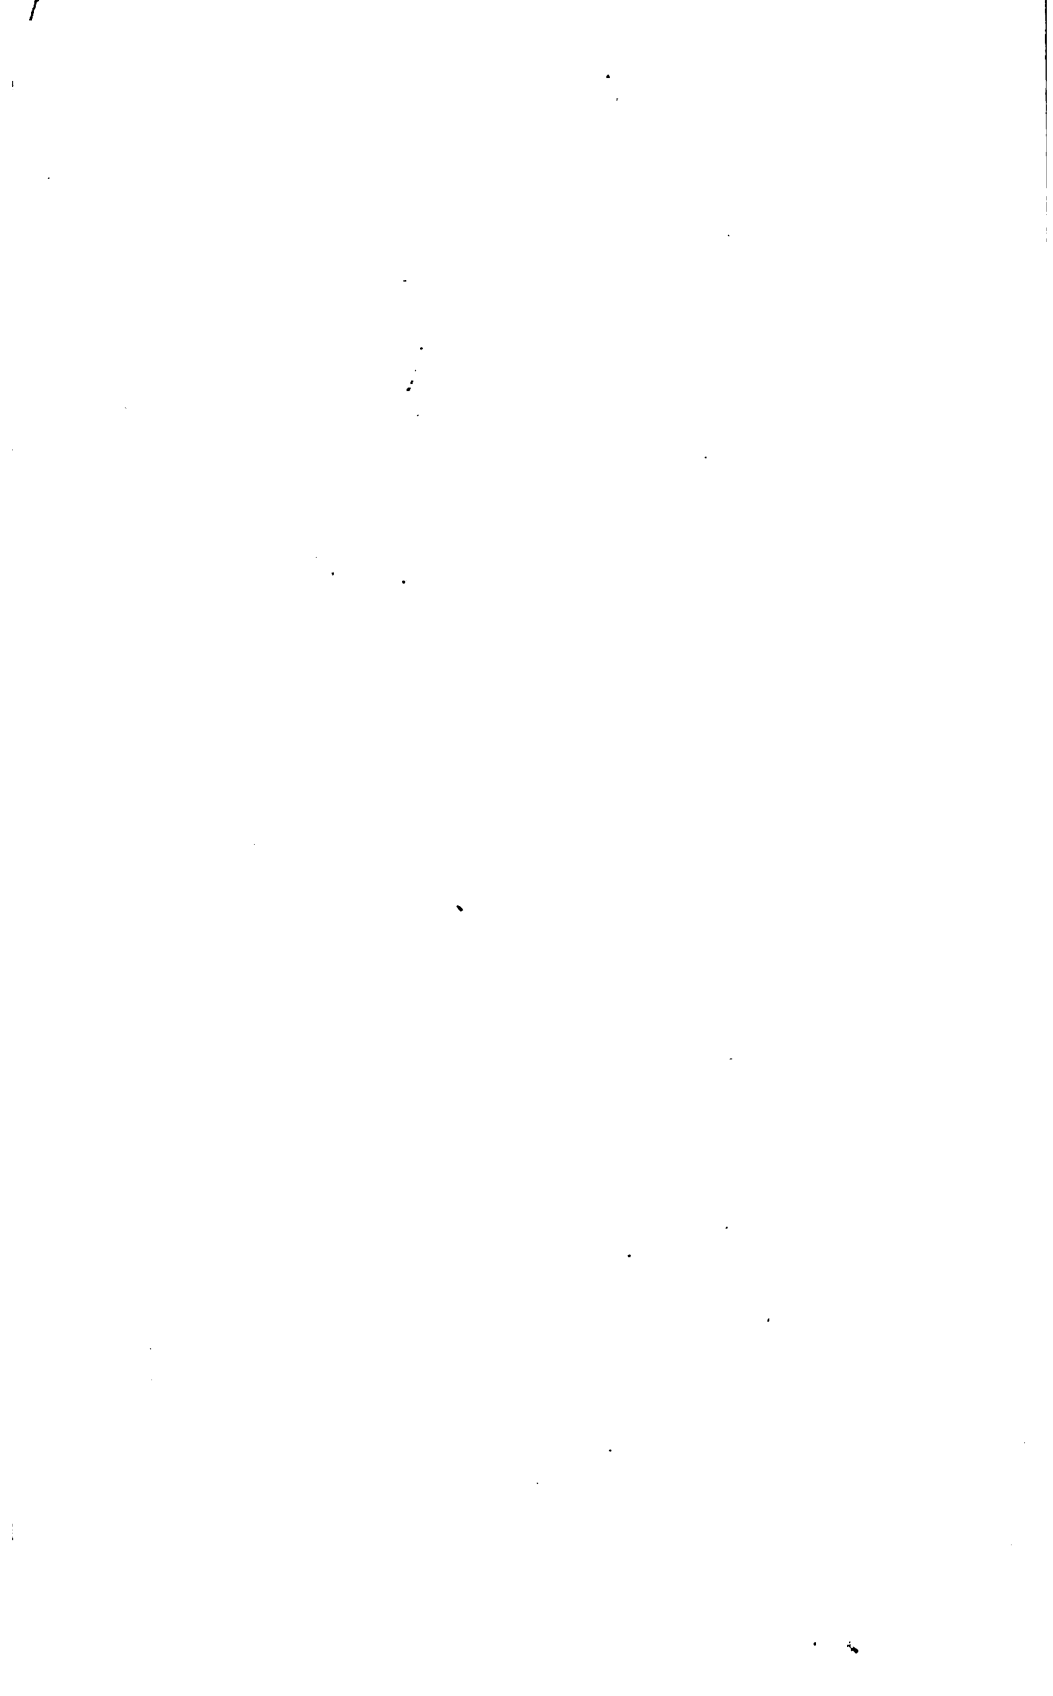

One or two evenings were given each week to informal talks or social entertainments, while on Sunday and the other evenings of the week, Bible classes, song services, and evangelistic meetings were held. These were always well attended, and untold good was accomplished. The evangelistic department, through its chairman, Mr. D. L. Moody, kept a force of clergymen and evangelists in the field co-operating with the regular religious work carried on in the tents. A careful and conservative estimate shows over 8,000 soldiers who publicly professed to accept Christ in all the meetings during the summer, while the number of those stimulated in their Christian lives cannot be estimated. An interesting fact in this connection is that the regiments that suffered most in the battles around Santiago were, with few exceptions, the regiments that when in Tampa, were encamped around the great canvas-covered tabernacle where were held nightly services, some of which were attended by more than 2,500 soldiers, and where many of these men became Christians. One of these companies went into the battle with seventy-six men, and the next day at roll call, only seventeen answered.

Among the Colored Troops.

The work was established in the regiments of colored troops at the various camps, with colored young men of influence and ability in charge. This work received the highest approbation of all students of the racial problem. A prominent colored minister after watching it carefully, termed it "the most practical and most helpful work I have ever seen carried on among the colored people," and in the judgment of another the work did much to break down the spirit of race prejudice and suspicion. The testimony of the officers was that it aided very greatly in the discipline by bringing to the men home comforts and influences, and filling their leisure hours with attractions that helped to allay any spirit of restlessness or discontent.

Hospital Visitation.

The service rendered by the Commission to the sick soldiers was of a varied character, as differing needs were presented. In all the camps visitation of the sick was carried on, both the camp secretaries and visiting evangelists taking part in this highly appreciated service. In the peculiarly tender mood that often accompanies sickness, many a soldier heard and received the Gospel message, and was restored a new man, or passed, in the new found peace, to his Maker.

BROOKLYN NAVAL BRANCH—SECRETARY'S OFFICE.

The following is but one of many incidents of this effort: A new ward was opened one day, and filled with sixty-six invalid soldiers fresh from the camp. Going through the wards and introducing himself to each soldier, the secretary came in contact with a sick boy from a Pennsylvania regiment. Stopping to talk to him he found the boy ready for the Gospel message. The boy said he came from a Christian home and had a brother in the missionary field, but that he had been a bad boy and had given his family much trouble. After talking with him awhile, he said to the secretary: "Do you mean to say that I can be saved now and here?" The secretary assured him that such was the case, and opened to him the simple way of salvation. Before the secretary left the boy joined him in prayer, praying for himself, and when he was leaving he said: "Now, remember, chaplain, I have accepted Jesus Christ as my personal Saviour, and in so doing you tell me I am saved." He exacted a promise from the secretary that he would return during the evening. Going back, the boy greeted him cheerfully, and said: "I am a very sick boy, but remember, whatever comes, I tell you now that I have accepted Jesus Christ and am trusting Him as my Saviour." The next morning as the secretary made his rounds the cot was empty—the soldier boy had entered into rest.

Often some delicacy needed by the sick men was furnished, and many times just the cooling drink longed for was gladly given and most gratefully received. The bringing of writing materials to the sick was deeply appreciated by them, and for the man too ill to hold the pen the letter was written.

One phase of the work at Leiter Hospital is indicated by the following letter:

Sir:—I have the honor to inform you that the proposition of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations to provide a house chaplain for the Leiter U. S. A. General Hospital, Chickamauga, Ga., is accepted by the Secretary of War, and that the surgeon in charge of the Hospital has been authorized to provide quarters for the accommodation of such chaplain.

Very respectfully,
WM. H. CARTER, Ass't. Adjutant Gen'l.

On the hospital grounds there was maintained also a tent with equipment for the comfort and entertainment of the convalescents, and of this one wrote:

"The day that sees the boy able to make his long-promised visit to the tent is memorable. He generally comes staggering out dressed in pajamas and slippers, with legs shaking, and ready to drop into an easy chair and take up a puzzle or some picture paper and rest a long time in the sweet air, before he ventures on the road back. To leave the fever wards, with their noisome odors and distressing sounds and sights, and get out on the lawn, under the big canvas, has helped many a man on his sure road to health and home. As they come to say good-bye on their departure, they speak often of the blessings and benefits they have had through our work here and their gratitude for it. And a 'God bless you and keep you' follows them as they go."

At Montauk Point there were peculiar opportunities of bringing aid and comfort to the sick just returned from the Cuban campaign. All these helpful services were performed up to the limit of resources, and were received with deep gratitude by the soldiers, whose hearts were tender in the joy of the home-coming. Often by this visitation of sick in the hospital wards were discovered the whereabouts of sick boys, whom the parents had been unable to trace, and many a letter and telegram bringing glad tidings were sent to the anxious ones at home. The seed thus sown by kindly ministrations, will surely spring up and bear richest fruitage in the lives of many; while to the unselfish workers who labored often at great personal sacrifice, discomfort and risk, there came untold blessings in the performance of these Christian duties.

In Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

Closely following in the wake of the army of invasion, the Commission pushed its work among the soldiers around Santiago de Cuba. The workers took tents and full equipments, and were enthusiastically welcomed by the men who had greatly missed the privileges. Extracts from a letter from one of the workers will indicate some of the conditions found upon their arrival: "Officers and men are using every conceivable thing to write on—hard tack, bark of trees, handkerchiefs, paper from beef cans—in fact, everything imaginable. We are getting letters from worrying relatives who have not heard from their soldier boys. Why? Because they have had no possible means of writing. Our stationery is greatly appreciated. On every hand we meet with 'God bless you' and 'God bless the Young Men's Christian Association.'"

An hour after the association tents had been erected, they were filled with sick and wounded soldiers, of whom there were many without shelter or physical comforts. "Nothing except a battle lost, can be half so melancholy as a battle won," said Wellington, and this was proven at Santiago after the surrender. One of the officers in writing about the work of the Commission, said: "The distribution of paper and envelopes, books and pamphlets, and ex-cutting commissions for the boys in Santiago, endeared both the men and the cause they represented to us all." As quickly as possible rooms were secured and equipped in the city, and from these headquarters the work was prosecuted among the troops in and about the city.

A letter from one of the workers that went to Porto Rico with the army of invasion, tells a somewhat similar story. In it he says; "Last Sunday when it was learned that General Miles would give our regiment the honor of leading the invasion, we got one of our boxes of paper out of the hold. Stationery was very scarce, twenty-five cents being offered for an envelope. When we distributed ours free, and broke the corner, the price fell. Each boy knew that it might be the last letter he would ever write, and it seemed as if everyone improved the opportunity. The thing that has done me the most good however, has been the heartfelt thanks of these soldier boys for the spiritual help they have secured from our efforts."

With the third expedition to the Philippines, workers and equipments were sent to render similar service. If in any place such a service was needed, it was here. The other points mentioned are comparatively near at hand, but in these distant islands the men were almost entirely cut off from every vestige of home ties and influence. A letter from home would be from one to three months old before its receipt. Here every privilege offered in the association tents was gratefully received. The writing paper was a boon; the reading matter distributed was eagerly perused, and the social and religious meetings largely attended. The following is an extract from a letter written to the secretary of the Commission by a United States surgeon at Manila:

"I would not close without saying one word in praise of the noble young men who represent you here. Their whole work has been without a doubt an honor to the cause and Master they serve. You may have heard of their work on the 13th of August, when they were up on the firing line with the 'first aid' packages, and one surgeon told me he does not know what he would have done without them, as the hospital corps men were not on hand."

Work In the Navy.

The most cordial co-operation of the Navy Department at Washington was given to the plans that were outlined, but from the nature of the case it was far more difficult to accomplish work on the vessels of the navy. The plan of placing a representative of the Commission on vessels having no chaplain, with an equipment of stationery supplies, reading matter, etc., was inaugurated, but owing to the shortness of the time and the difficulty of making connection with the vessels, only one vessel was thus supplied during the war period. The results of this experiment, however, show the feasibility of the plan and the value of such an effort. The methods and results of this work are shown in the following partial report :

The first thing of importance was to get the men. To this end I first went all over the ship with reading matter, such as old magazines, stories (only a part of them distinctively religious), books on Cuba, articles on the war, and all sorts of matter about the ships of our navy. When at times there was a mailing possibility, I distributed the letter paper and envelopes especially provided by the Commission. These I found to be peculiarly acceptable. As one sailor said: "It is the best thing they have done for us yet."

I also distributed all sorts of things, blank books, pictures, calendars, and even small pieces of clothing—everything I had which I thought they would like. Indeed, I returned to New York with almost no baggage at all. In this connection I wish to mention the surprising experience I had with the Testaments. At first, as I started to go over the ship with other things, I would fill my side pockets with copies of the New Testament—and give a copy away now and then, after a special personal talk with an open-hearted sailor or marine. As a matter of fact, I thought there would be no general eagerness for the books, and so great tact should be exercised in giving them out. I said to myself the first day, "these 300 Testaments will last through my entire service," but I was utterly mistaken. One day a marine said: "What are those little books in your pocket?" I replied: "Testaments." Then he quickly said: "Will you give me one?" I gave him one, and by that time there was about me quite a crowd of men who were off duty. (I was below in their quarters)—and they all wanted the books. From that time I gave away fifty books a day until they were all gone. One night I heard someone at my window. I sprang up, thinking it was a marine after a drink of ice-water; but to my surprise a sailor was standing there in the dark like Nicodemus. He said with some hesitation: "Chaplain, I am after one of those little Bibles."

Going about in this way all over the ship, touching the life of the men in all kinds of out-of-the-way spots, and giving to them freely these various things, opened the way to their hearts and made it exceedingly easy for me to talk to them at any time when they were not on duty. The ship was such a busy place, and the captain's orders required such haste, that I could not depend upon formal religious services; and so I made use of personal work very largely. Now and then I had a service, where I would gather ten or fifteen men; but for the most part I took one man at a time, talking to him about his home, about his life on the ship, about his plans for saving money, and oftentimes about his relation to God. Many a time our conversation would begin about the war and end with a deep religious appeal to the best part of the man. At last it was no uncommon thing for men to come to me themselves, and ask me for an hour of serious talk in my own room. Then in addition to all this, I visited the prison, and took close note of the ship's hospital, helping the patients to write to friends, and keeping them posted as to the war, etc.

The largest work undertaken for the sailors during the war, was that from Key West, Florida, as headquarters. R. E. Steele, of New Orleans, who had for a number of years been engaged in similar work, was secured to take charge. The Secretary of the Navy willingly gave the following permission :

Sir:—The Secretary of the Army Committee of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association having requested permission to erect a tent and hold services for the benefit of persons in the Naval service that may be in the vicinity of Key West ; you will please offer such facilities to the representatives of this Committee that may come to Key West as you may find practicable.

Very respectfully,
(Signed),

JOHN D. LONG,
Secretary.

Key West became the headquarters for the vessels of the navy during the summer ; here they came when in need of coal, ammunition, repairs or supplies of any kind. To visit these vessels, to distribute magazines, papers, song books, testaments, and varied literature ; to gather the men together for a brief religious service, and to invite them when ashore to the rooms of the Commission, were important features of the work.

At this point was located the General Army and Navy Hospital, to which were brought many of the sick and wounded from the vessels and Cuban campaigns, 350 being brought on a single transport from Santiago. The agents of the Commission visited the hospital daily, bringing consolation and cheer, and personal comforts to the sick men.

There is nothing more tedious than blockade duty, as day after day the vessel rolls lazily on the long swells, with the sun beating down fiercely, and the hours dragging out their weary length. It was in this tiresome duty that so many of the vessels of the navy spent the long weeks of the summer, and here the Commission found a vantage ground for effective service. Arrangements were made so that nearly every dispatch boat leaving Key West for the front carried large quantities of all kinds of literature, secular and religious, for distribution among the men. On many of the vessels one of the officers, sometimes the captain, became the agent of the Commission to attend to the distribution.

But perhaps the most telling work was that done ashore. After being confined on shipboard for perhaps two or three months, it is not surprising that when the men came on land for a few hours of liberty so many of them fell a prey to the harpies and land sharks lying in wait, and found their way into the saloon, the dance house, and the house of infamy. These places provided some form of amusement to attract, and as drifting about in a strange and uninteresting city is a weary task, the sailors were often allured in with no deliberate intention of getting drunk or spending the hours in dissipation, but rather to find entertainment. A worker writing from Key West said that until the association quarters were opened, there was no place except the saloon and like places, where the hundreds of sailors coming ashore daily could go. The rooms at first secured by the Commission soon became too small and accordingly they were abandoned, and a large empty cigar factory was rented and fitted up for use, with reading, game, correspondence and social rooms. The attendance rapidly increased until an average of nearly 200 daily was maintained. Bright, attractive services were held nightly, with most encouraging results. The officers of the navy gave their endorsement and support to the movement as they had opportunity. The executive officer of one of the vessels, writing to the Commission, said :

"I consider the work done by your Commission at Key West as worthy of the highest commendation. There can be no doubt that the influence for good on shore, made itself felt on board the vessel to which I was attached, even among the old regular members of the crew, most noticeably, however, among the apprentices. The principle upon which your work was conducted, is to my mind the only one by which any lasting good can be accomplished among the men of the navy."

A tent fully equipped was also placed with the marines at the Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard, upon their return from Cuba. The marines had not met with the work before, being the first at the front, the first engagement, in fact, being fought by them. Services were held at frequent intervals with good results; arrangements were made so that a number of men took tea and spent pleasant evenings in homes where the influence was helpful; good books were secured from the library for men who wanted particular classes of literature; the sick men in the hospital tents were visited and helped in various ways; men were talked with personally, and in every way possible urged to higher and better living. When the men left, they went with new ideas as to the Young Men's Christian Association, and will be more susceptible to future effort.

Work Among the Spanish Prisoners.

Having received the following order from Secretary Long, work was undertaken among those whom the tide of war had made prisoners :

"Permission is hereby granted to the duly authorized representatives of the Army and Navy Christian Commission to furnish and distribute books, magazines and newspapers printed in Spanish or English, stationery and facilities for writing letters, and other personal conveniences among the Spanish prisoners, near Portsmouth, N. H. This work to be carried on in a manner approved by the Commanding officer."

Most of the prisoners were young men, many mere boys, who received with gratitude the kindly Christian treatment accorded them. Copies of the Gospel in Spanish and large numbers of tracts were distributed among them, and eagerly received and carefully kept in most cases. To their sick was brought every assistance in the power of the Commission workers, whose sad duty it also became to conduct many a burial service, as the diseases contracted in Cuba too often continued their deadly work, in spite of pure air and skillful treatment. The spirit of real brotherly interest shown in their behalf was received with much astonishment on the part of the Spaniards, whose idea of warfare include no such treatment of war prisoners. Indeed, the annals of all previous history show no similar record; it remains unique, making a fitting close of the twentieth century. And the good results springing therefrom may one day be seen in the homeland, where these men with fresh memories of this new and unexpected experience, will be eager to tell the story. And such a story of vital, applied Christianity, cannot be repeated without producing a deep impression upon the listeners, though its full meaning be but partially comprehended.

With the Armies of Occupation.

And now war! "that mad game the world so loves to play" was over. What were the results; what the new outlook? So valued was the work of the Commission during the war period, that a very general demand came for its continuance in the camps and with the armies of occupation. The officers of the Seventh Corps which had been stationed in the Florida camps and which were destined for the occupation of Cuba, urged that the work go with the troops. The chaplains of nearly all the regiments sent personal letters requesting it, and Major-General Lee, commanding, sent the following letter:

Dear Sir:—It has given me great satisfaction to note the splendid work carried on by the Army Christian Commission among the soldiers of the Seventh Army Corps. The large tents with their reading tables and facilities for correspondence, have furnished places where the men can profitably spend their leisure hours. Without doubt the work of the Commission has done much in helping to maintain the morale of the volunteers, and should most certainly be continued among the troops wherever they go.

Very truly yours,

FITZHUGH LEE,
Major-General Commanding.

President McKinley also expressed the hope that the work would be continued in this letter :

My Dear Sir:—I have noted with pleasure the admirable work the Army and Navy Christian Commission, organized by the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations, has been accomplishing for the welfare of our soldiers and sailors.

Hoping that the good work may be continued, I am,

Faithfully yours,
(Signed) WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

The strongest testimony however to the value of the work, was the earnest desire manifested by the men themselves that it be continued. As soon as they learned in the autumn that the expense of its army work was becoming so heavy a tax on the Committee's treasury that there was danger of its curtailment, they began promptly to send contributions toward it out of their monthly pay, and in this practical way insisted on a favorable reply from the Committee to their request for undiminished maintenance of the good work. In accordance with these requests and realizing that the need would be increased rather than diminished, the International Committee decided to continue the work with the armies of occupation.

The tents, equipment, and men that had been with the Seventh Corps, were transported with the troops to Cuba, and at this writing reports are coming from Cuba of successful work accomplished in ten regiments and in two division hospitals.

In Porto Rico, owing to the somewhat different conditions, the Committee has inaugurated another plan of service. In San Juan a building centrally located has been secured and fitted up with a restaurant, reading, correspondence and recreation rooms for the use of the soldiers and sailors. Everything has started most auspiciously. All from the commanding general down, welcome the undertaking. Having had no pleasant place of resort, the men have been tempted to visit the scores of cafes, all of which furnish liquor, and they have gladly welcomed the advent of the association, with its many practical aids, not the least of which is the restaurant with its American-cooked food and American-made coffee, without the liquor and beer.

The work with the troops in the Philippines has been continued and it is hoped that the association forces there may be enlarged, as the need for this has become increasingly manifest. The ultimate result of such endeavors cannot be foretold. There, among needy, perhaps vicious, and usually ignorant people, the young men for whom we labor may in their turn do much for those among whom their lot is temporarily cast, and no small factor is this in the present era of the world's philanthropy, when it is literally true, that the sun never casts his western beams upon the lands for whose people we have no responsibility.

The Commission's Workers.

Most heroic was the self-sacrifice of the consecrated and devoted workers, who went forth in the service of God and their fellow men. Many left comfortable homes, denied themselves the usual and much needed vacations, and cheerfully endured the hardships and privations of army life, often peculiarly trying in the heat of a tropical mid-summer. Of this noble band, two, W. C. Pawley, of Lima, Ohio, and Edward McSherry, of Tompkinsville, Staten Island, gave their lives for the cause; fever brought on by hard work and the enervating climate, proving too great a strain. All bear the strongest testimony to the unselfish service of these consecrated men. Their memory will be ever lovingly and gratefully cherished by those who came under their influence in camp life, as well as in the home associations. It is truly marvelous that so large and representative a body of men should be so suddenly raised up for special service. Clearly here was another proof of St. Augustine's statement that "Man's extremity is God's opportunity." Among them were clergymen, theological professors, association secretaries, college students, students of training and technical schools and teachers, the Association Training School at Springfield alone sending seventeen men.

Trained to systematic work, to the best methods of economizing time and vital force, and with keen and true appreciation of the importance of the situation, these men wrought a work the complete results of which cannot be fully estimated.

Financial.

The entire cost of this widespread work from its inception in April to December 31, was $80,946.25; this was in addition to the $54,279 spent by the twenty-eight state committees listed on page v. For its regular work in 1898 the International Committee had already assumed an obligation of $80,000, so that this new work doubled the financial responsibility, and put to severest test the workers that were engaged in securing the additional funds needed. While the general secretary of the Committee, R. C. Morse, sustained a most important relation to this effort, yet most of the extra burden, especially during the summer, when Mr. Morse was absent from the country, fell upon the secretary of the business department of the Committee, W. E. Lougee.

Thomas K. Cree, together with the entire office force of the International Committee, gave invaluable co-operation. Indeed, without the new offices and office force of the Committee, the work could not have been efficiently prosecuted.

Contributions were generously made by the church societies, leagues, unions, Sunday schools, the local associations, and numerous other Christian and secular organizations.

Appeals were also made by Mr. Moody for the evangelistic department, which met with ready and hearty response. The religious and secular press of the country devoted much space to the movement, thus promoting an interest, which aided greatly in the financial solicitation.

Early in the summer the Congregational churches formed an auxiliary to the Commission, and an appeal was made to the Congregational churches, signed by the following committee :

S. M. NEWMAN, D.D., Washington, D. C.	A. J. F. BEHRENDT, D.D., New York.
M. ROSS FISHBURN, Washington, D. C.	HON. NELSON DINGLEY, Lewiston, Me.

LYMAN ABBOTT, D.D., New York.	JOHN B. SLEMAN, Jr., Sec'y and Treas., Washington, D. C.

At about the same time the Baptist churches formed a similar auxiliary and an appeal for aid was issued, signed by the following well-known men of that denomination :

S. H. GREENE, D.D., Washington, D. C.	EUGENE LEVERING, Esq., Baltimore, Md.
C. A. STAKELY, D.D., Washington, D. C.	H. M. WHARTON, D.D., Baltimore, Md.

W. C. BITTING, D.D., New York.	STEPHEN GREENE, Esq., Boston, Mass.
W. H. P. FAUNCE, D.D., New York.	B. F. JACOBS, Esq., Chicago, Ill.
T. J. MORGAN, LL.D., New York.	MILES W. SHAND, Sec'y and Treas., Washing- ton, D. C.
H. L. MOREHOUSE, D.D., New York.

Although other denominations had no formal organization, yet all gave heartiest support and sympathy to the work.

Special mention should also be made of the California department of the Commission, and of the services of H. J. McCoy, general secretary of the San Francisco association. Not only were the California troops provided for by this work, but under Mr. McCoy's directions funds were secured and work maintained for all the soldiers centering in the Pacific coast camps for service in the Philippines, and one of the workers at Manila is still supported by the California department.

sum needed, $164,000, for the entire budget of the International Committee was secured. Had it not been for the generous and patriotic gifts of men and women of large means, the task would have been impossible.

The Work Made Permanent.

At the beginning of the war, the International Committee undertook the task to which it had been so manifestly called, with but little if any thought of the far-reaching possibilities of the future. When the war closed it was evident that a door of opportunity had been opened for a permanent service to a large and important class of young men. Accepting the responsibility of the situation, the International Committee voted to make the work, so auspiciously begun, a permanent feature of its plan and effort, and in September 1898, its Army and Navy Department was organized, with the following committee: Messrs. C. W. McAlpin, Chairman; Rear-Admiral John W. Philip, U. S. N., and Wm. Sloane; Advisory, Wm. E. Dodge, and Colonel John J. McCook. J. H. Banks, who had been the efficient camp general secretary at Chickamauga, was added to the secretarial force. Recognizing that the most efficient methods should be used in the development of the department, Secretary W. B. Millar was asked to go abroad, and observe the Christian and philanthropic work done in the British and French armies and navies. It was found that such a work had been carried on there by various organizations for several years, and a careful study revealed both its weak and strong points, and thus furnished material of great value in the establishing and developing of the work in the American army and navy.

The ninety-seven army posts in this country, and such as may be established in the new possessions, will form a field for extended effort, and already in several of these, associations have been organized. The regimental plan of organization is also being tested with good results.

A comprehensive plan of work covering the entire Navy has already been inaugurated. A Naval Young Men's Christian Association has been formed, and Rear-Admiral John W. Philip, with Captain Merrill Miller, and Chaplains W. O. Holway and R. E. Steele have become members of the General Committee of this organization, and Rear-Admirals Francis J. Higginson, John C. Watson and E. O. Matthews (retired), Captain B. H. McCalla, Commander A. V. Wadhams, Commander Charles H. Stockton, Major Allan C. Kelton, Pay-Inspector H. T. Wright, and Chaplain D. H. Tribou are members of the co-operating committees at Washington and at various naval stations. These committees are being organized and other members added at the present time. By far the large majority of the vessels in the Navy have no chaplains, and in many cases no social or religious effort is maintained. The formation of associations upon these ships is therefore exceedingly important. On vessels with chaplains the association will prove a valuable aid to their work.

Another part of the plan is the extending to sailors of the privileges of about twenty local association buildings, at seaports where the vessels of the navy touch on the eastern and western coasts. These associations have entered into the plan heartily.

The government having decided to garrison Cavite and Guam with marines, steps have been taken to extend the association work to these points. Representatives have been secured in each detachment.

The man-of-war's man of the present suffers from the evil reputation of the sailor of the past, though as a matter of fact he is entirely different. Besides, the disgraceful conduct of one man wearing the uniform, brings the entire class into disrepute. Resorts of innocent entertainment, as well as the better class of hotels, are therefore, as a rule, closed to the sailor, or at least his presence is not welcomed, and he is forced to seek his amusement or his night's lodging elsewhere. The land shark takes advantage of this fact, and is ever lying in wait, especially near the different navy yards, to draw these young men into his clutches, whenever they come from their vessels for a few hours of liberty. Within three blocks of the main entrance of the New York Navy Yard, for example, are forty-five saloons, in addition to other places of evil resort.

After completing his work at Key West, the representative of the Committee, R. E. Steele, who had received a chaplain's commission in the navy, was ordered by the Navy Department to the New York Navy Yard to investigate and report on the practicability of establishing there a permanent work under the International Committee. Rear-Admiral F. A. Bunce, U. S. N., at that time commandant of the navy yard, heartily endorsed the report rendered, which also received the approval of the Department.

In view of this great need and demand, the International Committee hopes to establish Naval Branches near the entrance to the principal navy yards, fashioned somewhat after the plan of Miss Agnes Weston's "Sailor's Rests," at Portsmouth and Devonport, England. In pursuance of this plan a house has been rented near the New York Navy Yard, where sleeping accommodations, restaurant, cosy parlors, with library and reading and writing tables, games and baths, have been provided for the sailors and marines, until such time as a larger building can be erected that will provide adequate facilities for this work. A friend of the association has offered to give $50,000 towards this building and the entire navy work, on condition that $100,000 additional be secured for this purpose.

Rear-Admiral Francis J. Higginson, who has been for some time seeking the inauguration of such an effort, Captain A. S. Crowninshield, and other influential naval officials, have given these plans their earnest support, and the Navy Department at Washington has endorsed them.

The following letters indicate somewhat the feeling of those who have the best interests of the navy at heart:

Dear Sir:—The plan proposed by you for the organization of a Naval Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in the city of New York has been examined by me.

As former Assistant-Secretary of the Navy, I came in close touch and sympathy with the sailors of our Navy, and this plan meets with my hearty approval, and I trust it will meet with the success which it most surely deserves.

Very sincerely,
(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Dear Sir:—I heartily endorse the plan of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations to establish buildings near our principle Navy Yards, and particularly recommend the proposed building near the New York Navy Yard as a most practical and worthy enterprise, well deserving the support of the patriotic citizens of Greater New York.

No fitter memorial could be erected to the memory of our brave sailors who died on the Maine and during the Spanish war than this building, which would be a continual means of benefit to the men of our service.

Yours truly,
(Signed) J. W. PHILIP, U. S. N.

My Dear Sir:—I have examined the plan providing for the proper entertainment of the sailors of our Navy on shore, their protection from the temptations which beset them, and the general care and good influence which your association would exert. This Department will be very glad to learn of its success, and very cordially commends it to the consideration of all those who would encourage and help the movement, and bespeaks for it their aid.

Very Respectfully,
(Signed) JOHN D. LONG, Secretary.

In Conclusion.

The results of this work in the army and navy up to the present hour have far exceeded expectation. Believing with Dr. Draper that "events however great or sudden are consequences of preparations long ago made," made by the unseen Hand that shapes men's destinies, it is clear that the evolution of recent events in the Army and Navy Department is vitally related to the entire brotherhood.

Many new friends have been won to the association. The new enthusiasm for our cause thus created must react beneficially on all departments. The prompt and effective way in which the emergency was met commended itself to business men everywhere, who will be more than ever ready to support our work. The hearty co-operation of local and state organizations with the International Committee in the prosecution of so great and important a work has deepened appreciation of the great Brotherhood in which all are united. Those prominent in military, naval and other official circles who have become acquainted with the association through its war record, will continue to exert a powerful influence for the good of the work in its several departments. These and many other considerations enforce the truth, that issues important to the entire movement have grown out of the work done for the soldier and sailor.

APPENDIX

TO THE

ARMY AND NAVY REPORT.

INCIDENTS.

A notable meeting was held by General Howard at the largest tent in the Jacksonville camp. Major-General Fitzhugh Lee, commanding this camp, introduced him as the speaker of the evening. Nearly 4,000 soldiers were present. General Lee spoke of his school days with General Howard at West Point, and how that in the '60's they separated to fight under different flags. He then showed how General Howard had won his spurs gallantly, and closed with these remarks: "Thank God that we are now fighting under the same flag, for the same country, and for the same cause." As General Howard stepped upon the platform General Lee called for three cheers, which were vigorously given. General Howard gave a very soldierly and Christian address, and nearly one hundred men took a positive stand for Christ.

A meeting on Commodore Remey's flagship was attended by fifty officers and 1,000 sailors, the invitation to attend being signalled from the flagship. The interest of the officers both of the army and the navy has been one of the features of the work throughout.

Dr. Olin A. Curtis was the association's representative on the St. Paul. In a letter he said: "One thing amused me. The first time I started out among the men they saw the writing paper with the little flag upon it, and one of them shouted, 'By thunder! if there ain't one of them Young Men's Christian Association fellows; they go everywhere, don't they?' I turned to them and said, 'That's right. They mean to go everywhere that you have to go, boys.'"

Over the entrance to one of the wards in a division hospital at Camp Thomas was the sign "No admittance." In the course of his visitation, an association man approached the ward and asked if that meant him. The officer in charge asked if he were not a Young Men's Christian Association worker, and upon receiving an affirmative reply, said: "No; you Young Men's Christian Association men have done enough for us, so that you can go anywhere you choose."

At Camp Alger, a boyish-looking soldier—he was under eighteen—came to one of the secretaries, with the tears rolling down his face, and holding a letter in his hand. As he took the letter from the envelope, a look of when it was all over, and the two young women had thanked the secretary and started on their way, they were followed by three rousing cheers that betokened heartfelt appreciation of the sweet manifestations of one of God's own.

It was after a straight-from-the-shoulder gospel talk in one of the association tents on a week-night evening that an unconverted soldier rose and said: "I'm a worldly, reckless sort of a fellow, but there is a side of my nature that responds to such a talk—for mother's sake, if nothing more."

At the close of a meeting in Camp Thomas theatre three soldiers came to an association worker and said that a man who had been converted a week before was sick, and wanted to see them. They went up to his tent, and found him suffering terribly, but rejoicing that he had accepted Christ. He said several times, "Well, I've lived one week right, anyway."

At Fort McPherson a man crowded his way to the front of the line and said in a manly and determined way; "I have been a hard drinking man. The Keeley and gold cures have been tried to destroy the appetite for drink; other cures have been recommended and tried, but they have all failed. I am going from to-night to take the strength and power of God to help me, and I believe He will do it."

Just before the removal of the 7th corps from the province of Havana a series of meetings was held in the 4th Illinois tent. At the close of one of them a sergeant came up to the speaker and said that he was the happiest man in the regiment because he had found that he could live and not swear.

"I'll never surrender to Spain," said a great stalwart soldier, "but, boys, I'm going to surrender to Jesus Christ to-night." What that meant in the way of moral courage few can understand, facing as he did the jibes and sneers of his old companions.

"How many here will step over the line to-night, and as a token of their surrender to Christ will come forward and give me their right hand?" said a speaker one evening. A moment's pause, when from the rear of the tent a broad-shouldered young soldier started up the aisle. Recognizing the moral courage this act required the men broke into an applause which seemed the most natural thing in the world, and during the next few minutes twenty-five had stepped forward and grasped the speaker by the hand in response to the appeal.

Often in the discharge of their duties the workers saw the pathetic side of camp life. At Chickamauga a soldier was converted at one of the meetings, and a few days later he was taken sick and removed to the hospital, which was situated near the association tent. He grew rapidly worse, and one evening, calling the doctor, asked him if he wouldn't go grey hair dropped from it ; then holding up his watch chain, made from dark brown hair, he said : " Four weeks ago, when I left home, that chain was made from my mother's hair, as it was then ; and now she sends me this grey lock." The poor boy could get no further, but broke into sobs. The mother's life seemed to have gone out with her soldier boy—her only child.

It is not surprising that fathers and mothers all over the land were praying that God might richly bless the association's efforts in the army and navy. It was very touching as well as interesting to read the letters penned by the anxious fathers and mothers concerning the welfare of the boys in camp. Sometimes the letter ended with these words : " Don't hide anything from me ; I desire to know the worst."

Hundreds of our fine young men left their homes professing Christians and were carried away by the awful tide of vice and immorality in the army. Profanity seemed the prevailing vice. A young soldier from one of the Texas regiments was reproved gently by the camp secretary for swearing and he immediately arose and apologized, saying : " I don't know why I utter these oaths except that I am living in an atmosphere of obscenity and cursing ; I never swore at home—I trust you will forgive me, sir ; I did not realize that you were present."

The mother of a soldier in the 50th Iowa regiment wrote as follows to the tent secretary, whose work had been to a considerable extent with that regiment : " Will you allow a mother to thank you for the great good you are doing among our dear soldier boys ? I have two sons in the 50th Iowa, and the elder often speaks of the good you have done him. Oh, the heart prayers that go to heaven for you ! I pray God to give you strength to go on in your good work, that you may do all the good you can for our soldiers, spiritually. I am so thankful to Him that the Young Men's Christian Association went to the front to try to make the life of the soldiers more happy and homelike."

As the carriage containing a pale faced little woman from Wisconsin drew up at the hotel door at Jacksonville the sweet brown eyes glanced about wistfully as if looking for some one to greet her. It had been a long, tedious ride from the farm in the northwest, and the hand trembled as she registered her name.

A solemn faced soldier found his way to her side, and she saw the Wisconsin badge on his hat.

" Madam," he said, " I have come out to take you to the hospital, but you had better rest here till morning." There was a suspicious tremor in the voice of the soldier and a teardrop in his honest eye.

" Is he better ? Tell me quick !"

Then the silence was broken only by a moan from the broken heart of another mother who had come to nurse her darling back to health and had found him dead. And the only comfort we could extend was the news that her first born had been a regular attendant at the Young Men's Christian Association tent, and was among the number of those who had given their hearts to Christ in the special meetings a few weeks before his sickness.

"God bless the Young Men's Christian Association," said this little woman, as we told of the clear testimony given on his dying bed,—and so say thousands of mothers all over the land whose boys are kept from the evils of camp life by this mighty agency for good in the army.

One of the workers went to the hospital one morning and asked the surgeon if there was anything that he could do. The surgeon answered earnestly, "Yes, go in with this woman who has just arrived, and who will find her boy dying—I have not told her."

He passed into the tent following a lady in black who had just come from Illinois to nurse her sick soldier boy. As they stood by the cot he told her from the surgeon that the boy was unconscious and could live but a few moments. God helped the mother to maintain her composure, and to stand with her hand upon the brow of her son as he passed away without opening his eyes to give her a last parting look.

After he had breathed his last the worker told the mother of his visit to the hospital the previous day, and that when he had asked her son if he was a Christian the boy had said most earnestly, "Yon bet I am," and pointed to the badge of the Epworth League on his undershirt. He told her of his prayer with him, and of the comfort he was sure he had in the presence of his Saviour. The mother turned back the sheet from the form of her son, and as she saw the badge still pinned where the nurse at his request had placed it, she bent over the boy with sobs that moved all our hearts; the doctors, nurses, and patients sobbed with her.

Two Salvation Army lassies who were passing through the camp of the 2d Illinois regiment stopped to look into the association tent, which stood within the lines of that regiment. One of the young women had come from a cultivated home in the north. When she saw the organ, which stood on the platform, she timidly approached the secretary, saying: "I am so hungry for music! Won't you allow me to play on the organ for just a few minutes?"

The consent was, of course, cheerfully given, and soon every man in the tent was up and around the organ, leaving games and correspondence almost as soon as the trained fingers had touched the keys of the instrument. She sang the songs that are sung about the family altars. Lumps arose in the throats of many of the men, and they could not join in the singing. The spell of memories was upon these infantrymen, many of whose faces, bronzed by a summer's drilling under a southern sun, during those few minutes had been dampened by tears for the first time in many a day.

Before the spell was broken the lassie turned to the men and said: "Don't you think we ought to close with prayer?" And they did, the young woman leading. It was a prayer redolent with the longings that they felt to see their far away northern homes, but nevertheless full of thanksgiving for mercies received, and it was burdened with petitions for the men about her, who were so much in need of divine help to meet the awful temptations of camp life. It was a simple prayer withal, and

WORDS OF COMMENDATION.

John D. Long, Secretary of Navy:

I have examined the plan proposed by you for the organization of a Naval Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in the city of New York and heartily approve it. This Department will be very glad to learn of its success, and very cordially commends it to the consideration of all those who would encourage and help the movement, and bespeaks for it their aid.

Governor Theodore Roosevelt:

I hope that you will keep up the work you did in the last year for our regular army and our navy; that you will see that in the navy yards, in the barracks, in the camps at home, and in the camps on the foreign islands to which our soldiers must now go, that they have the chance given them to enjoy what is rational, what is elevating and not debasing; that you will remember what the soldier and the sailor do for all of us, what they do for the flag that is the pride of each of us. In return, you and I, each of us, all of us, should do according to his or her capacity to make it easier for the soldier and the sailor, while being fighting men, to remain good citizens and good men.

John Temple Graves, Atlanta, Georgia:

The army work of the Young Men's Christian Association presents itself as a matchless appeal to religion and humanity. Its record of service is magnificent, its history heroic, its purpose is unquenchable, and its plan of campaign without a flaw.

Daniel H. Hastings, Ex-Gov. Pennsylvania:

Too much cannot be said about the work of the Young Men's Christian Association, as it is doing the work most needed among the soldiers.

Rev. Henry C. McCook, D.D., Philadelphia:

I spent yesterday on the field, visiting the camp from the highest authorities down. I conversed with a number of men and officers, visited your tents and watched operations. The result of my observation is, that nothing could be more satisfactory than the way in which you are conducting the work. It is a great enterprise nobly carried out, and you deserve the heartiest commendations and the most enthusiastic support.

Dr. Albert Shaw, in "Review of Reviews":

The presence of such an organization as the Young Men's Christian Association does not subvert military discipline, and it must certainly tend to diminish at all points the abuses and the evils of army life. Its objects are entitled to the earnest approval of all right-minded people. Its methods are well devised and practical. Its organization enables it to use its methods with a very high degree of efficiency and economy.

Gen. James A. Beaver, Ex-Gov. Pennsylvania:

A personal inspection of the means and methods employed by the Young Men's Christian Association leads me to the conclusion that never before has work of a similar kind been done with the same thoroughness, and with such practical and far-reaching results.

W. H. Moody, M. C., Haverhill, Mass.:

I wish to bear testimony to its excellence. Saying nothing of the religious side of the work, which speaks for itself, it seems to me nothing could better serve the physical and moral interests of the men and their comfort and happiness than the work of this association.

Joshua Levering, Baltimore, Maryland:

As a result of this personal observation I cannot speak too highly of the privileges afforded the soldiers for their social, physical and religious well being by this agency, nor of the appreciation shown by them for the unselfish efforts put forth on their behalf.

John J. McCook, New York:

I want to say just a word concerning the efficiency of the Young Men's Christian Association to meet an emergency. I wish to say that in all my experience of organizations, that I do not believe there exists on the face of the globe a power competent to meet this army work, and to do it as it has been done, except the Young Men's Christian Association.

W. Bayard Cutting, New York:

I should like to have the pleasure of testifying to the admirable efficiency of the tents erected under the auspices of your International Committee, and to the great comfort and benefit which they furnished to the soldiers in camp. They were used to the extreme of their capacity, were very highly appreciated by the soldiers, who were very outspoken in their approval. They added greatly to the comfort, cheerfulness and morale of the camp.

William H. Baker, County Judge, Duval Co., Florida:

Your commission has done a grand and noble work and given a positive thought and object to the soldiers. It does not simply preach a gospel of "don'ts," but offers to the home-sick and sin-sick man a rest and an occupation, and also forms around him Christian ties to take the place of those shattered when he enlisted.

FROM OFFICERS.

Inspector-General Joseph C. Breckenridge, U. S. A.:

In my visits round the camp I have observed the Young Men's Christian Association tents filled with men, and have been delighted with what I saw. I have heard of your meetings, and understand that a strong work has been done. I am glad of it.

A. Hartsuff, Dep. Sur.-Gen'l U. S. A. and Chief Surgeon, Camp Thomas :

The Young Men's Christian Association is clearly doing a noble work here, and its good influences are manifest throughout the army, numbering now about 53,000 men.

Major-General Wesley Merritt :

Messrs. C. A. Glunz and F. A. Jackson represent the Army and Navy Christian Commission of the Young Men's Christian Association. I heartily approve of their work, and wish you would do everything possible to make their way easy. They will be designated by the words "Christian Commission" on their hats, which should be a sufficient passport in entering the lines of any regiment or division.

Major-General John R. Brooke :

I have been well aware of your presence in my camp, and of the work you are doing. I have had my eye on the tents you have erected, and know of the conveniences and comforts you have brought to the soldiers. I am much pleased with your work.

Major-General Joseph Wheeler :

I am sure that the soldiers as a whole are very grateful to you for the conveniences which have been extended to them by your association, and it would be a most excellent thing to have your work become a permanent feature in the army.

Major-General Fitzhugh Lee :

It has given me great satisfaction to note the splendid work carried on by the Young Men's Christian Association Commission among the soldiers of the Seventh Army Corps. The large tents, with their reading tables and facilities for correspondence, have furnished places where men can profitably spend their leisure hours. Without doubt the work of the association has done much in helping to maintain the morale of the volunteers, and should most certainly be continued among the troops wherever they go.

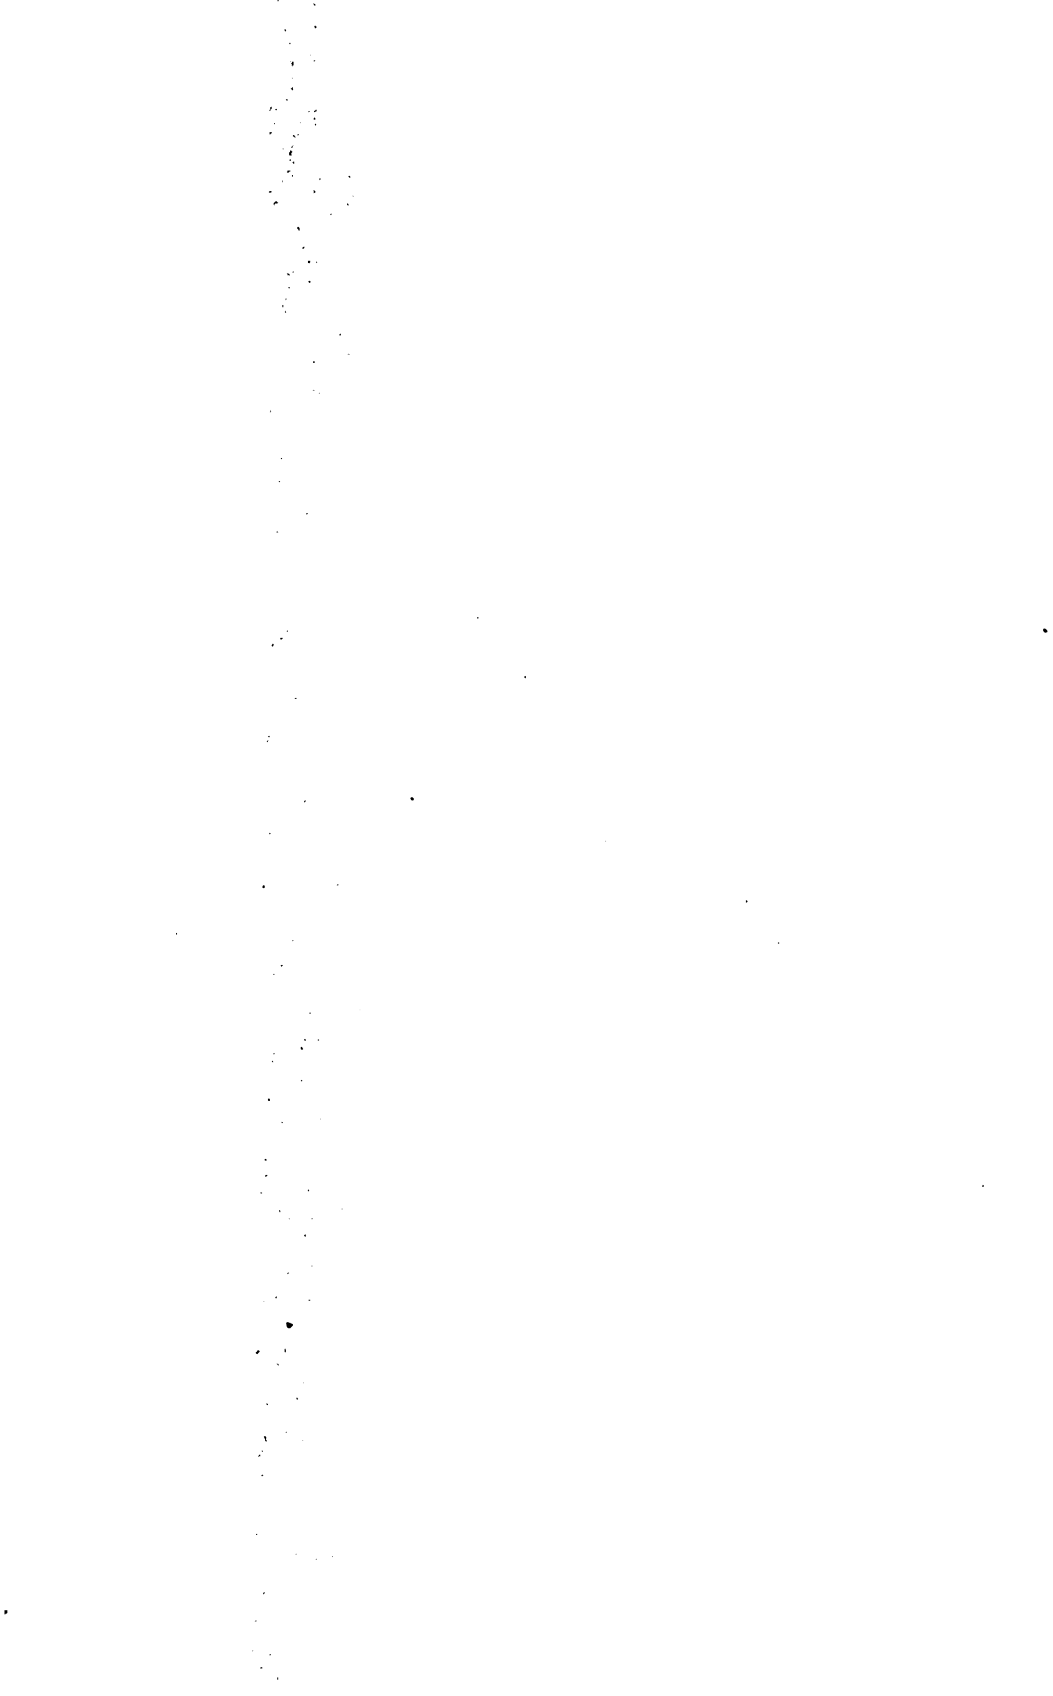

Rear-Admiral John W. Philip, U. S. N.:

I heartily endorse the plan of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations to establish buildings near our principal navy yards, and particularly recommend the proposed building near New York Navy Yard as a most practical and worthy enterprise, well deserving the support of the patriotic citizens of Greater New York.

No fitter memorial could be erected to the memory of our brave sailors who died on the Maine and during the Spanish war than this building, which will be a continual means of benefit to the men of our service.

Major-General W. R. Shafter :

Almost immediately on our landing in the enemy's country a young man came to my headquarters, said he represented the Christian Commission Department of the Young Men's Christian Association and asked where he could locate his tent. After he had explained his work in a few words, I told him he would be at liberty to locate his tent anywhere, in the best place he could find, and welcomed him most cordially to my command.

ASSOCIATION HEADQUARTERS, CAMP THOMAS, CHICKAMAUGA.

There were 23 Y. M. C. A. tents and 55 workers in this camp.

From that time on the workers were with us, on the field, on the march, in every engagement; their tent was crowded whenever opportunity permitted the men to visit it. Good wholesome reading matter was furnished the men, and writing material provided them free of expense. The tent was also used for the sick and wounded when necessity required, and in many ways they administered to the pleasure and comfort of the men, and the great good accomplished by them cannot be estimated.

Brigadier-General William A. Bancroft, U. S. Volunteers:

I was much gratified at the work done by the association in the army. It was a very great comfort as well as a very great convenience to the soldiers to be able to make use of the facilities afforded them. It was one of the well-done things which I saw in the army.

Brigadier-General F. V. Boynton:

Each division had a tent supplied by this organization and it was the best thing in camp. It was provided with a library and writing materials and was constantly filled with men who took advantage of the facilities it afforded for writing home and for profitably spending their otherwise idle hours.

Commander James M. Forsythe, U. S. N.:

I take great pleasure in testifying to the good work done by the representatives of the Young Men's Christian Association among the sailors of our fleet at Key West. I have heard nothing but approval of their work from both officers and men of our service.

Col. W. J. Bryan, 3d Nebraska:

I beg to give my unqualified endorsement of the work which the Young Men's Christian Association is doing in the army camps. I am grateful to the International Committee for maintaining a tent in my regiment; its helpfulness can hardly be over-estimated.

Col. E. L. Higdon, 1st Alabama:

It affords me great pleasure to testify to the convenience and assistance of the Young Men's Christian Association tent to my regiment. I do not see how we could possibly have gotten along without your assistance. Great good will result from your continued efforts.

Col. William K. Caffee, 2d Missouri:

I desire to state my very great appreciation of the work being done by your association in camp here. Nothing has so much contributed to the comfort of the men, their contentment and well being, as the "Y. M. C. A." tents. You have never engaged in a greater humanitarian work than this nor one, I believe, productive of better results. I sincerely hope there may be no interruption in it.

Col. Edwin A. Hine, 2d New Jersey:

I wish very heartily to endorse the work which the Young Men's Christian Association is doing, and to take this opportunity of expressing my personal sense of appreciation of such work as conducted in my regiment.

Col. C. V. Hard, 8th Ohio:

I believe the Young Men's Christian Association, with its splendid equipment and many comforts, to be the most efficient way to help our soldier boys.

Major A. M. Hall, 3d New York:

It has been my privilege during the past summer to observe the work of the Young Men's Christian Association among the soldiers of the army, and I am glad at this opportune time to submit my testimony in its behalf. No one except the soldiers can ever appreciate what was done for them.

Samuel E. Crawford, Major and Surgeon 2d Missouri:

Social and domestic regulations are supplanted by the orders and code of the camp, and when thousands of men are gathered together under military rule the personal government deteriorates. As a counter influence the Young Men's Christian Association is an open blessing and a public benefactor.

FROM CHAPLAINS.

George S. Sexton, Chaplain 1st Texas:

I want to thank you for and express my appreciation of the work of the Army and Navy Christian Commission in my regiment. I do not know anything grander or doing a truer Christian work than the Army Department of the Young Men's Christian Association.

F. H. Keen, Chaplain 1st Mississippi:

One has only to see the practical working of the Young Men's Christian Association tent plan to become enthusiastically interested. The practical side of religion is therein revealed and the efficiency and success of the chaplain's work is greatly augmented.

Archdeacon C. T. Brady, Chaplain 1st Pennsylvania:

I don't see how any army can do without these Young Men's Christian Association tents. I want to commend the army work of the Commission to all Episcopalians. I haven't the time nor the facilities to do the immensely helpful work that the Young Men's Christian Association is doing. Too much praise cannot be given it.

Chaplain White, 31st Michigan:

The tent of the Young Men's Christian Association is invaluable, and the men and officers would all protest against its removal. It is a means of grace and a place of rest and quiet.

C. E. Varney, Chaplain 1st Wisconsin:

The association tent has been a center of practical Christian usefulness. Many a letter has been given a purer tone because of the surroundings in the tent.

Wm. Colbert, Chaplain 14th Minnesota:

I wish to thank you in the name of the Catholic volunteers for the interest you have shown. I wish also to express my personal gratification at the good work you and your association are accomplishing.

Chas. H. Jones, Chaplain 2d New Jersey:

Many a man will date the hour of his conversion from the time when he received Christ far away from home in the camp, beneath the shelter of the Young Men's Christian Association tent.

E. F. Jordan, Chaplain 3d Nebraska:

In my judgment, no work could be made mightier in its effect than that which the Young Men's Christian Association can do.

H. W. Bolton, Chaplain 2d Illinois:

I cannot speak too highly of the influence of the Young Men's Christian Association work in this brigade.

W. E. Biedewolf, Chaplain 161st Indiana:

One is compelled to speak in words of unbounded praise concerning the work done by the Young Men's Christian Association in the army. Your co-operation and assistance has been invaluable.

FROM THE HOMES.

"It brought me great comfort to know that someone had taken a kindly interest in my brother, and still more comfort to know that the interest was taken in His name. May God bless you in the grand work you are doing."

"One of my Sunday school boys is in camp at Mount Gretna, and on Friday evening I received a letter from him written on Young Men's Christian Association paper. He said: 'Dear teacher:—You will see by the heading of this letter that I am in a place suitable for one of your boys. We have meetings in the tent of the Young Men's Christian Association, and an organ and good singing, which arouses interest in the heart of even the roughest guardsman.'"

"I am so pleased at your advent in Key West that I must write and tell you about it. Both my boys are in the navy; the youngest stationed at Key West. It has been a dreary, desolate place to him, but a new brightness seems to have come into his life. In his last letter, he writes of a 'place just opened for the sailors and soldiers,' and enumerates the attractions. He goes on to tell what a good thing it is to have such a place, in a town where there seems to be nothing to prevent all the land and water forces congregated there from doing about as they please. He thinks he will make good use of it and at once sits down and writes me a letter on your paper."

"I am sure the recovery of C—— is due very much to your kindness, for which I can never sufficiently thank you. You have been the agent of the Holy Spirit in his conversion too. I recognized the change at once. May God bless you and make you a blessing."

"The news of your conversion makes me willing to bear the separation which your enlistment involves, for I know if anything should happen to you that we shall meet in Heaven."

"Frank is much better off in more than one way since the Christian association has put up a tent. What comfort your work gives to the mothers at home."

"God bless the Young Men's Christian Association. My son has professed conversion and has joined a church at Tampa."

"My boy is writing from the army on the Young Men's Christian Association letter heads. You cannot know what a relief it is to me to know that he is under the association's influence, and that he is willing at last to visit the association, which he would never do at home."

"Find inclosed check for your army and navy work. My son, who was in camp at Chickamunga until his health failed, tells me that your work there was the only good thing the boys had. I wish you grand success."

"I received a letter from my son to-day, written on paper furnished by the Young Men's Christian Association. I was so glad to think that so far from home he had been drawn to your rooms, and he praised your kind acts toward the soldiers. I do hope he will still feel the impulse of your kindness, and hear some good words that will take root in his heart; for he has been a young man very reckless before leaving home, and I had often wished him to seek out your protection while in other cities. So now I hope the opportunity has come when he will look to your rooms with pleasure, for we have aimed to bring him up a Christian young man. If you have the opportunity of seeing him before leaving for Cuba or elsewhere, hand him a little Bible, and God will bless you."

"Look up my boy and give him a helping hand, and you will have the undying gratitude of an anxious father."

FROM PRIVATE SOLDIERS.

"The Young Men's Christian Association has proved a friend to all the boys. Those in charge are always endeavoring to cheer and help us."

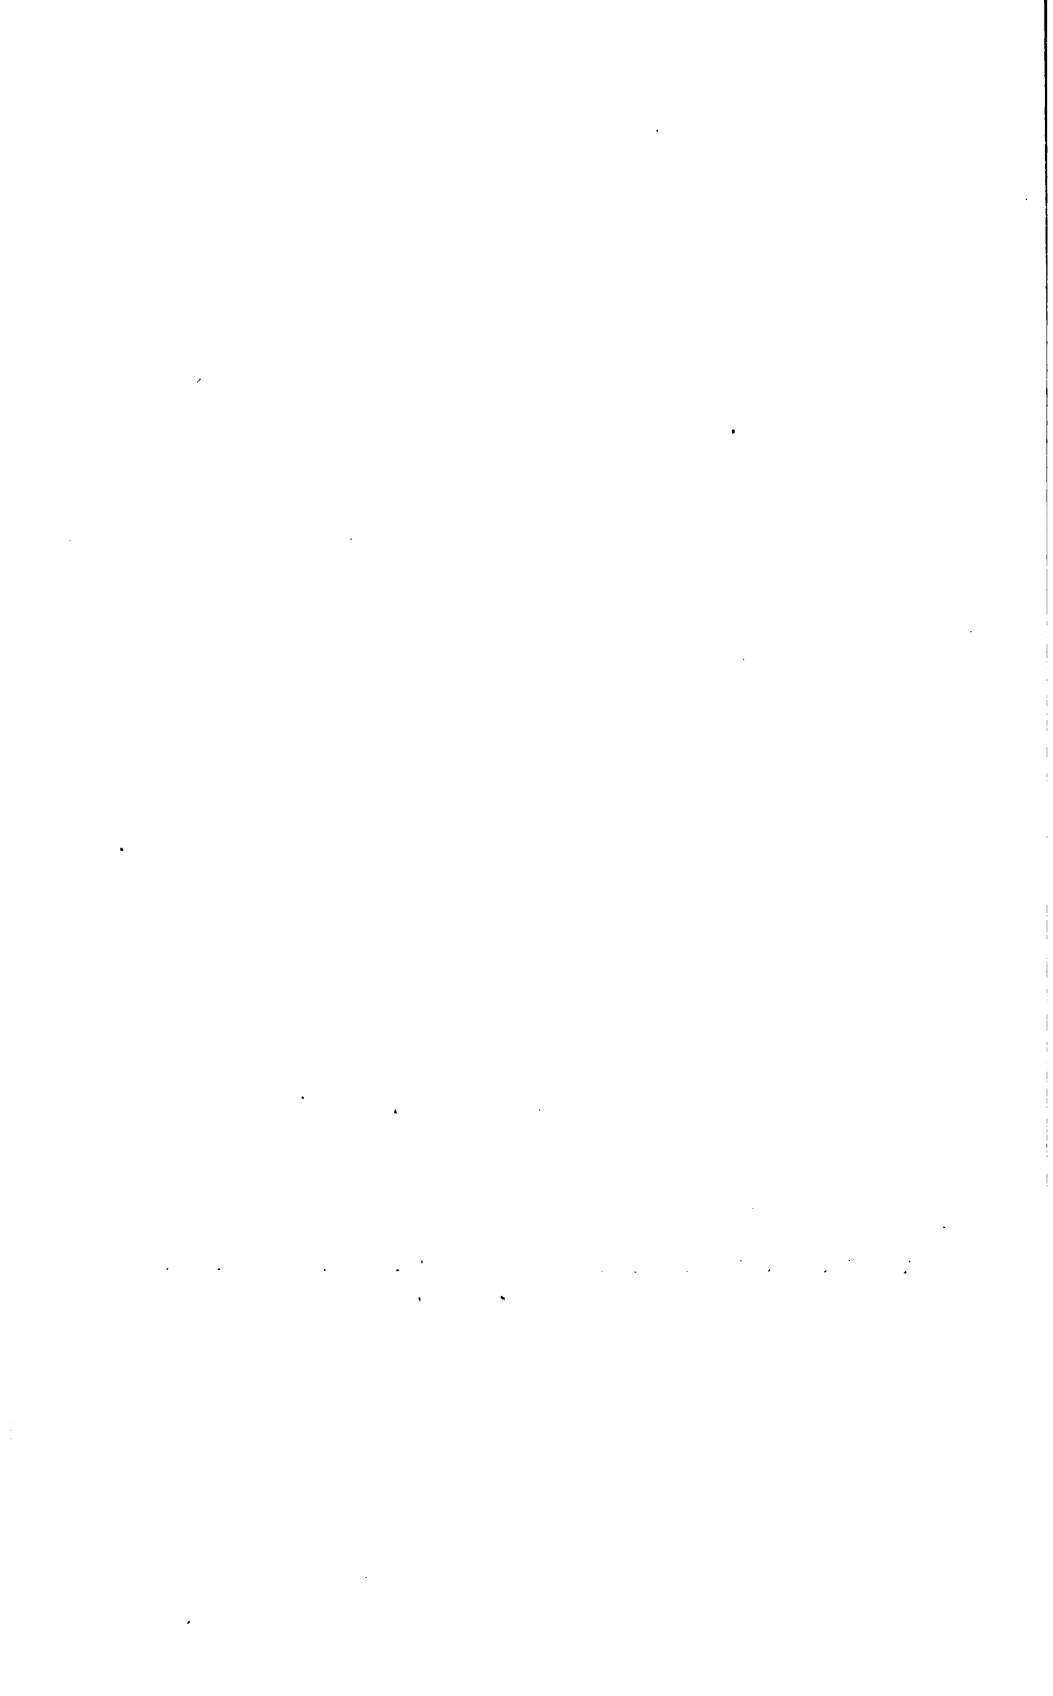

"It is a source of great happiness to know that some one is interested in you.....Many of the soldiers call at the association headquarters because it is almost like going home."

"The Young Men's Christian Association tent is the oasis in the desert of camp life."

"I am not a Christian, was never inside an association building, but if this is a sample of your work, I am an association man for life."

"I was not in the habit of reading God's Word until I came in contact with your association men. I found great comfort from it when in the battle before Santiago, and I mean to lead a different life."

"The Young Men's Christian Association is doing a good work and the soldiers appreciate it. I have heard many of them say that the association somehow knew what the soldiers needed and was able and willing to supply it."

ASSOCIATION BIBLE STUDY GROUP, CAMP THOMAS, CHICKAMAUGA.

"Too much praise cannot be given to the good work done by the Young Men's Christian Association. The officers and enlisted men appreciate the work most thoroughly. The tent is crowded nearly all the time."

"This is the only thing that I have seen to oppose the canteen. I like this work because it is so practical. The men can see that there is something back of the Christianity in a work like this. That association tent is the best place for curing homesickness."

"Comrades, as I was sitting here this morning I almost felt that I was in church at home. It does me good to be in a meeting which reminds one so much of home."

"My Christian life has been strengthened since I joined the army, because I was compelled to take a decided stand against evil. I thank God that this association tent is placed here so that I can have a good place to read and write; and especially that I may attend the meetings and receive a spiritual uplift."

"I sent $25.00 home to-day; this is one of the results of my having become a Christian here."

"Eleven of sixteen men in a Chickamauga meeting, giving reasons for thankfulness, mentioned the Young Men's Christian Association."

"I guess you all wonder at the pretty paper. The Young Men's Christian Association has several tents around the camp, and those who wish can go to the tent desk and ask for any kind of a game or reading matter; and if you want to write, they furnish you paper, envelope, pen and ink, all gratis. Is not this fine? Those in charge treat the soldiers as though they were brothers, and are willing to do any and everything for them. As long as they are with us don't worry."

"I extend to you the thanks of the 'Olympia's' crew for the kindness of the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association in having reading matter distributed on board. We of the navy are not being allowed very much shore liberty, only going twice a month, and then only for a few hours in the middle of the day, so we don't have an opportunity to attend the meetings; but we are always made welcome when we go to the tent. We trust you to thank the contributors on behalf of Dewey's boys."

"The Young Men's Christian Association that has been organized is going to be just the thing. We'll know who is a Christian and can stand together, and then get the other fellows in."

"I write this letter in the Young Men's Christian Association tent, which is the best thing in the park. One does not realize the benefits of the Young Men's Christian Association until he leaves his home. He will find that it is the next thing to home."

"The one bright spot in my memory of Tampa will be the Young Men's Christian Association tent, where the Young Men's Christian Association representatives did so much to make the soldier's life endurable and even pleasant."

"Of the numerous hardships and privations which the American soldiers campaigning in the far away Philippine Islands were forced to undergo none were more trying than the total lack of reading matter or literature of any kind, which was the case for the first few months after the destruction of the Spanish fleet by our splendid Admiral Dewey.

"After the capitulation of the city of Manila on August 13th, the representatives of the Young Men's Christian Association with the army of occupation, received permission from Major-General Wesley Merritt, at that time in command, to erect a large tent in a central location within the city, for the purpose of furnishing a reading and writing place for the American soldiers. You may well imagine that this was thoroughly appreciated by the soldier boys who, many of them, had been for months almost entirely destitute of any comforts of this kind. The Young Men's Christian Association tent at once became a most popular resort, and the books and periodicals to be found there a most welcome source of amusement at all times."

FROM THE PRESS.

The Review of Reviews, New York City :

The war of 1898 has not been one of great bloodshed, but it leaves us under the necessity of regularly maintaining a relatively large fighting force. In this period of peace we shall be readily able to dispense with the services of the Red Cross Society, relief associations, and various agencies for the alleviation of physical suffering. But we shall need more than ever to maintain the army and navy work of the Young Men's Christian Association for the sake of its moral, social and educational influence in the army, and also as the most effective sort of a volunteer agency which should keep the churches and community in closer touch with the army.

The Congregationalist, Boston :

The Young Men's Christian Association is doing a noble work in the camps. Its influence will spread far and wide. Its methods are admirable. Denominationalism is ignored, and all effort is directed toward strengthening and purifying the individual life. It emphasizes the social side of its work. The men are made to feel at home in the tents. They are made cordially welcome and given to understand that the tents are there for them and their use. They are to use them as they will during the day. Daily Bible classes are open to them, and when the day is done they are invited to come to the tents for the evening meeting, to join in the singing, to listen to a brief but direct talk, to take part in the meeting themselves if they will, and at its close, just before the notes of the bugle sound the call to the tents, to gather in a simple soldier service to which has been given the name of "family prayers."

The Independent, New York City :

The Army Young Men's Christian Association in Porto Rico is doing good work. Under its auspices the soldiers are to have a first-class cafe, with reading, writing and rooms for games. General Henry has co-operated cordially with the secretaries, and the army officers are in hearty sympathy with the work. Hitherto the native saloons or cafes were the only places where the soldiers could find relaxation, and there liquor was always on sale. It is hoped that this new arrangement will result in good for the soldiers. The work, however, needs cordial financial support.

The Christian Intelligencer, New York City :

If the walls of Camp Thomas theater have ears they must certainly be puzzled by the variety in what they hear. On week nights the place is used for low grade vaudeville performances, but all day on Sunday stirring evangelistic services are carried on by the Christian Commission of the Young Men's Christian Association. Their best singers and speakers are put on this work. There are added to the church militant "of such as shall be saved." Besides this, there are nearly thirty Young Men's Christian Association tents on the grounds attached to the various regiments, all of which are doing good work, both preventative and active.

The Catholic Sun, Chicago :

It is a sad commentary on our societies that with all the boasting of our numbers, our thorough organization, and our wonderful work along the lines of charity and the amelioration of the suffering, we are confronted with the completeness of a more perfect system in the ranks of the Young Men's Christian Association when it came to the emergency for an active campaign in the matter of taking care of our soldiers."

The Chronicle, Fort Dodge, Iowa :

While criticism is being heard from all quarters in regard to almost everything at Camp Thomas, thus far the Young Men's Christian Association seems to be the one thing praised by officers and privates.

The Union Record, Sacramento :

The Army and Navy Christian Commission of the Young Men's Christian Association is doing excellent work in providing for the religious and social welfare of the army, and deserves hearty support.

The Evening Post, Chicago :

Under the direction of an army and navy commission the Young Men's Christian Association is doing a splendid service for the country and its flag. Wherever the stars and stripes wave over one of the camps for the assembling of our volunteer army the commission has set up its tents, which serve as club houses for the boys in blue. In connection with the tents the commission is establishing a system of free ice water, which will assist greatly in preventing the use of alcoholic drinks, against which the generals of the army have issued stringent orders. Man is a thirsty animal at best, and the dust and heat of drilling under summer skies increase his craving for something wet and cold. All the commanding officers testify to the great convenience and comfort the Young Men's Christian Association tents have been to the soldiers and heartily endorse the work of the commission.

The Register, Des Moines, Iowa :

The Young Men's Christian Association has done a great amount of noble work during the war with Spain, for which it has received little credit. The Association has had headquarters at all of the volunteer army camps, where libraries full of good reading matter, and writing tables with an abundance of letter writing material, together with religious exercises, have exerted a good influence over the camps, and done much to keep the boys in blue from falling into bad habits. Some of the young men who rushed to the defense of their country will come home with evil habits, but certain it is that many of them will come home better men than when they went to the front, and their betterment will be a tribute to the work of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The Epworth Herald, Chicago :

Among the many Epworthians who have heard and obeyed the call of their country are two young men who enlisted on the day of their graduation from one of our preparatory schools. In the camp to which they were sent they were surrounded by a strange mixture of patriotism and wickedness. To them the love of their country was a very sacred and holy thing. To find the same patriotic ardor displayed by men with oaths on their lips, the taint of liquor on their breaths, and the ill-gotten gains of the gambler in their pockets, was a surprise. They soon joined the "yokefellows' band," which was organized by the Young Men's Christian Association, to meet every morning at 8 o'clock to pray for the unconverted soldiers. Together they have continued the work begun "In His Name," and so manly and upright has been their conduct, so pure their lives in the midst of many temptations, that other men in the company have come to speak of theirs as "The Christians' tent."

The Independent Gazette, Germantown, Pa. :

Never in the history of any country has any work along Christian lines been carried on in the army in so vast a measure, nor has it ever been organized so quickly. The tremendous force of such an organization as the Young Men's Christian Association has been recognized throughout the church, which finds the organization its one completely equipped arm for precisely such work as is practicable in the field. Scarcely were camps formed before Young Men's Christian Association tents were up. Reading rooms, games of skill, correspondence facilities, and various accommodations that the soldiers would not otherwise have, were placed immediately at their service, and religious meetings by young men, for young men, were instituted. Wherever young men are now encamped, ready to fight, there can be found Young Men's Christian Association tents, with their corps of cheerful workers. Excellent results have been reported, and numerous conversions of officers and men have taken place.

The Bulletin, Bloomington, Ill. :

No better example of the strength and enterprise of the Young Men's Christian Association has ever been furnished than by the promptness and vigor with which it has followed the volunteer army into the field. The first call for soldiers had hardly been issued when the organization prepared to act, and no sooner were the state militia camps established than the tents of the Young Men's Christian Association field workers went up. From the state camps to the national encampments, and from there to the front, the association has moved forward its branches, keeping step with the march of events in the true American way. One of the most interesting side issues of the present war is this work of the Young Men's Christian Association among the soldiers. It is a distinctly novel feature, unprecedented in the annals of international fighting.

ASSOCIATION HEADQUARTERS AND STAFF OF WORKERS—7TH ARMY CORPS
CAMP, HAVANA, CUBA.

The Record, Chicago, Ill. :

The navy as well as the army has its Christian Commission. A big square lightsome room, cheek by jowl with Commodore Remey's naval stores, facing the foulest bar-room in America—that is the commission's headquarters in Key West. Sailors, soldiers, marines, drift up and down its stairs from early morning, lounge the long afternoons away over the books, the magazines, the newspapers and writing pads that hide its long tables, go out reluctantly into the darkness when the electric lights wink good-night at 11 o'clock. It is their one place of refuge in Key West—all the town seems always on tiptoe to plunder and degrade them.

The Telegraph, Philadelphia :

Among the humane influences at work in Camp Wickoff none are doing any more good than the Young Men's Christian Association. It has now six branches in operation, each so placed as to be central to two regimental camps where that is possible. The aim of the association is not so much the conversion of the soldier by daily religious services, although that is part of the work, as to interest him in its work first, when the conversion as a rule follows naturally and from self-inspiration. And to do this they seek to make him a regular visitor at the tent. They give him stationery and a place and opportunity for writing letters. They furnish him with reading matter, books, papers and magazines, some of which he is permitted to take to his tent to read, and they seek to further interest him by providing games and arranging entertainments for his amusement and enjoyment.

The Church Economist, New York City :

Having in mind from the beginning the garnering of results, the evangelical work of the Army and Navy Christian Commission of the Young Men's Christian Association at the various camps at the front, was so planned that its efforts were conspicuous for their energy and good results.

The Central Presbyterian, Richmond, Va. :

The work of the Young Men's Christian Association in the army and navy of the United States, during and since the war with Spain, is receiving strong approbation. It has been an open field of the greatest urgency and rare opportunity, an opportunity for which the undenominational service of the association has been especially fitted.

The Christian Endeavor World, Chicago :

And now the Spanish prisoners at Portsmouth, N. H., having been first whipped, then rescued, then fed, and treated more tenderly than our own boys in the field, are to have literature in Spanish, games, and stationery, and a general evangelistic work is to be done among them by the Army Christian Commission. First the law and then the gospel.

The Sunday School Times, Philadelphia :

During the war, equally conspicuous with the service rendered by the Red Cross, was the incessant and widely extended hospitality to soldiers and sailors by the Army and Navy Christian Commission, organized by the Young Men's Christian Associations through their International Committee. This hospitality was extended to all, of all ranks, including both the well and the sick. It was welcomed by the raw recruit on the first day of his arrival in camp, and equally by the seasoned veteran of the regular army.

ROBERT R. MCBURNEY,

General Secretary New York City Association, 1862-1898.

Member International Committee, 1866-1898.

Member New York State Committee, 1866-1898.

BIENNIAL REPORTS OF THE AGENTS OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE.

REPORT OF RICHARD C. MORSE,

General Secretary.

I.—Unprecedented growth of the work :

During the last two years the work administered by the committee has had unexpected enlargement. Suddenly, in April 1898, the outbreak of the war led the committee to enter upon a work among soldiers and sailors which so increased its activity that in nine months the expenditures for the year had grown from the sum originally provided for in the budget for 1898, namely, less than $80,000 to $164,000.

At the opening of 1899, as a consequence of good work in army and navy, both soldiers and sailors, with their officers, asked for its continuance. Outside of this one item of growth, the force of the committee has increased from 27 to 37 secretaries on the home field, and on the foreign field from 9 to 12 secretaries. Inseparable from this unparalleled enlargement has been a great increase in such details and responsibilities of the administration as fall to the general secretary.

II.—Direct relations to the committee and its board of trustees :

1. The monthly meetings of the committee have been held as usual and attended by the general and office secretaries. The 10 sub-committees have met as the exigencies of the work have required. The general secretary or a representative of the office has been present at these meetings, and, whenever practicable, one or more of the visiting secretaries who are under the direction of the respective sub-committees.

2. The annual conferences of the committee and its secretaries have been continued, as indispensable to effective concert of action. They were held at Belmar, N. J., September 4-8, 1897, and September 2-6, 1898. At these annual gatherings each department of the work received in turn full consideration. The members of the committee present and every secretary came into full sympathy with the work in all of its departments. The good effect of these conferences has been very noticeable in a better understanding by each member and secretary of the work of his associates and of his own work in its relation to the entire field of the committee's service. In connection with the second conference three very interesting services relating to the army work were held on Sunday, September 4, at the auditorium in Ocean Grove, by the co-operation of its trustees ; also a beach meeting. These gatherings were addressed by John J. McCook, Gen. O. O. Howard, Ira D. Sankey, and others. Liberal offerings were received for the army work.

3. The annual dinner meetings of the committee and its friends were held in New York on November 18, 1897, and November 17, 1898, and have grown in interest and attendance. At these meetings the international work in its numerous and continental phases is made visible to friends who either are already interested in it or who are disposed to learn concerning it. One impression invariably created by the gathering is the urgent need there is that a work which is carried on so quietly and unobtrusively, and which is so much less visible than the local work, should secure more frequent opportunities of being seen by those who would be disposed to give it a place in their prayers and practical sympathies.

4. The board of trustees has continued its careful oversight of the invested funds of the committee.

III.—Relations to the visiting secretaries and agents of the committee :

1. With each visiting secretary and agent of the committee correspondence has been maintained, in pursuance of the instructions of the committee and its sub-committees. As the number of the secretaries has increased and they have been occupied in the different departments of the work, the general secretary, in preserving the unity and efficiency of administration, has dealt chiefly with the senior or leading secretary in each department.

2. It has been necessary, as heretofore, to supplement the work of the regular secretaries by special agents. F. H. Burt, one of the secretaries of the Illinois state force, rendered valuable assistance for six weeks in 1897, in the railroad department; and in 1898, C. B. Willis, the general secretary of the Milwaukee association, attended the California convention as the committee's representative, and rendered acceptable service to the cause on the Pacific coast. From other workers similar and occasional co-operation has been secured.

IV.—Relations to the office work, office secretaries, correspondence and publications :

The causes of the immense increase in the work of the central office are so varied that a very imperfect view of them can be given in a few paragraphs. As already stated, the number of international secretaries has grown from 36 to 49 men. (The large majority of these in each case devoted their entire time to the work, a few others a portion of their time.) Each man added to the force decidedly increases the office work.

The sales of publications in 1896 amounted to $6,536, in 1898 to $14,686. Sixty-two new publications were issued.

In addition to the above, $92,766 came into the office in 1896 for the home and foreign work, and $192,145 in 1898 for the home, army and foreign work. For these gifts, 2,775 receipts were sent out in 1896, and 5,398 in 1898, a single illustration of the increase involved in printing, correspondence, postage, bookkeeping, and other office work.

More frequent communication has been established each year with the city associations in their educational and physical departments, and the same is true regarding the varied work of the student and railroad associations. The inquiries about the lessons of association history, the planning of buildings and a multitude of other matters steadily increase.

Although no man has been designated to devote all his time to the Bible work in the city associations, much more has been done during the past two years than in any similar period in the preparation of courses of Bible study and correspondence with the associations on the subject.

Much time is required for the internal administration of the work, through correspondence and interviews between different secretaries and with members of the International Committee and representatives of the associations, through attendance at committee meetings and less formal consultations, and the preparation of written material for submission to such gatherings—all of which seems indispensable to harmonious and intelligent decision and action.

The year 1898 witnessed the immense work of receiving, packing and forwarding supplies to the army and navy.

It had long been evident that the office occupied in Twenty-third Street since 1888 (familiarily known as No. 40) was inadequate, and in April, 1898, new quarters were occupied at No. 3 West Twenty-ninth Street, affording about one-third more space, with better light and much more convenient arrangement. The additional expense involved is not at all proportionate to the benefit accruing to the work. The change was made in good time. The army work would have been impossible without it.

The most interesting feature of life in the new office is the fifteen minute noon service, which is occupied with statements regarding the latest progress of the work and prayer for its success. The attendance is composed of representatives of the New York state and city offices, which are located in the same building; of all the workers for the International Committee who are in the office at the time; and of visitors. Sometimes as many as forty are present. The personal reports from traveling secretaries and extracts from letters just received often have thrilling interest. The men on the field derive new courage from the fact that they are steadily remembered in prayer at the centre, and greatly enjoy attending the meeting when visiting New York. The service in the old office was so crowded and uncomfortable that it never developed the same strength and interest.

The work at the central office of Messrs. Uhl, Leonard, Ninde and Lyman has continued substantially the same as described in the last report. That of Messrs. Cree, Lougee, Millar, Banks, Hodge, Gulick, Hepbron, Mott, Andersen, Sharman, Hicks and Williams, is given in other reports. D. A. Davy succeeded H. W. Georgi as office secretary for the student department, and has rendered very valuable service in that capacity and in occasional visitation.

John Glover, in addition to much general office work, has maintained the high efficiency of the secretarial bureau. Through this bureau, under his direction, since January 1, 1897, 130 men have found positions as secretaries and physical directors. In the office personal intercourse or correspondence was held with 508 others, 293 of whom were not fitted to undertake the work, 122 found places in it through their own efforts, 37 already in the work remained in the positions which they occupied, and 56 left it.

Since January 1, 1897, 294 applications have been received, eight of which were for state secretaries, 149 for general secretaries, fifty for assistants and eighty-seven for physical directors. Of these 294 vacancies we assisted in filling 130; 164 were filled through the action of others.

Of the vacancies that we helped to fill, three were in Canada; twenty-one in New England; thirty-six in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania; thirty-three in states west of these, and thirty-seven in the south.

Six were for state secretaries; seventy-one for general secretaries; nineteen for assistants, and thirty-four for physical directors.

Percy F. Jerome and Irving V. Cobleigh became members of the office force in 1898. They have the general oversight of the office, with its enlarged force of clerks and stenographers, and assist in the bookkeeping and other business details.

V.—Relations to the state conventions :

In response to requests of the state committees, arrangements were made for the representation of the committee at sixty-two state and provincial conventions during 1897 and 1898. The names of these representatives are given on another page in the list of these conventions. It is a testimony to the efficiency and value of such representatives of the committee that the urgency of the calls for their services increases from year to year. Many district and county conventions and other gatherings were enlivened by the presence of similar representatives.

VI.—Relations to the world's conference and its committee :

Important correspondence has been maintained with the committee of the world's conference at Geneva, Switzerland. At Basle, Switzerland, July 6-11, 1898, the general secretary attended the 14th World's Conference; 800 delegates from twenty-three countries were present. Decided progress upon the whole field was reported, with special emphasis on the advance accomplished on the continent of Europe, owing in no small degree to the active efforts of the World's Committee and its secretaries. The usefulness of that committee's work has been increased far beyond the necessary increase of expense involved in the addition of Mr. Philidius to its force. But this increase of expense renders necessary additional help from American friends, and Mr. Cree has assisted the general secretary in securing the American contribution needed.

At Eisenach, Germany, July 13-17, the general secretary attended the second conference of the World's Student Christian Federation, as a member of the Federation general committee and a representative of Yale University. Twenty-four countries were represented by 110 students from leading universities in all parts of the world, but especially in Germany and other nations of Europe. It was emphatically a gathering of leaders in this student work. The discussions and reports showed a marked growth of the whole movement.

VII.—Personal visitation :

The general secretary has attended the international secretaries' conferences and the student summer schools at Northfield. He has attended several state conventions and conferences with association officers, and has delivered several anniversary and other addresses.

He has also continued to serve as the chairman of the graduate committee of the Yale Young Men's Christian Association, and as trustee of the association training schools at Springfield and Chicago, and has co-operated with the National Council of Great Britain as its corresponding secretary for America, and with the Central International Committee as its American honorary secretary, and with the World's Student Christian Federation as one of the American members of its general committee.

The committee and every secretary on its force have experienced a painful sense of personal bereavement and loss in the death of Robert R. McBurney, December 27, 1898. As secretary of the New York association and member of the International Committee Mr. McBurney has been a leading counselor and factor in all departments of the international work from its very origin. As secretaries in the various departments have become connected with the committee's work, they have in turn found in him always a wise, affectionate, patient and appreciative counselor and friend. During the nearly thirty years of his most active connection with the committee, he maintained this vigilant, directive and friendly relationship to all the members of its force.

The influence of his life and example will remain with us as a permanent inspiration in the service of Christ among young men.

REPORT OF ROBERT WEIDENSALL,

Secretary.

The time has been mostly devoted to the county work and the volunteer extension movement in seed sowing and foundation laying.

1. Conventions and conferences, international and state.—Was present at the last International Convention and at the two secretaries' conferences. At the Winona conference I presented the county work and read a paper on the volunteer extension movement. Also attended the Indian summer school in June, 1897. Attended the Illinois quarter centennial convention and the Kansas convention, 1897; the Michigan and Wisconsin conventions, 1898. In the former much was said of the first definite effort to prosecute the association work in colleges. This occurred in the Michigan convention held in this same city of Jackson twenty-seven years previous.

2. County work.—Attended a county conference at Red Wing, Goodhue County, Minn., June, 1897, and county conventions at Harrisonville, Cass County, Mo., October, 1897; Dodge Center, Dodge County, Minn., March, 1898; Columbus, Columbia County, Wis., April, 1898; Oregon, Ogle County, Ill., May, 1898, and Pleasant Hill, Cass County, Mo., October, 1898. Have maintained a constant correspondence with the ten organized counties, kept in close touch with the county secretaries and their state secretaries, visited most of the organized counties including very opportune visits to Cape Breton County, Nova Scotia, and Luzerne County, Penn., and helped to raise money for the support of the work in four of these counties.

Revised one document and prepared three others for publication by the International Committee to be used in the county work. In this work it is aimed to avoid growth in quantity at the expense of quality.

3. Volunteer extension.—Have given to this all-important work of the association more time and effort than can be embodied in this report in personal visitation and interviews, in committee meetings, in meetings with department managers and general secretaries, in forming training classes and in securing students and teachers for the same.

As this effort has advanced it has been clearly shown to my own satisfaction to be successful. In a representative meeting held December 10, 1897, in Chicago, to hear reports regarding all the undertakings in this particular line of association effort, all present were fully convinced of its desirability and feasibility. Among those who testified their hearty approval were General Secretary L. W. Messer and State Secretary I. E. Brown. The Chicago board of directors unanimously afforded the privilege to test this work, and the members were pleased with the results.

Have prepared for publication by the International Committee a paper on the extension of the volunteer effort of our association, so essential to the accomplishment of its work. While there is a wide open door for the development of this work the need of it now is urgent.

4. Training schools.—(1.) As an officer in the Secretarial Institute and Training School, I have given considerable time to its affairs. I regard it as one of the most complete agencies of the association.

(2.) At the request of Dr. Doggett I visited the International Training School at Springfield, Mass., which has done such a grand work for the associations, and delivered three addresses on association work: "First five years' work or seed sowing"; "The unfolding of active Christian work into different definite lines of operation, and afterwards the unfolding of the association effort into the different definite departments of its work"; "The county work and the volunteer extension movement."

5. Special meetings.—Attended the first county convention of the Young Women's Christian Association at Preston, Fillmore County, Minn., at the close of 1897, and a similar convention at Dodge Center, Dodge County, Minn., March, 1898.

Attended the student volunteer convention at Cleveland, Ohio, February, 1898, and was present at most of the exercises of the fortieth anniversary of the Chicago association.

6. Incidental work.—Attended two meetings of international secretaries at Belmar, N. J., and a meeting of the international field secretaries at Evanston, Ill. Visited associations in many different states, and advised with many general secretaries. Conducted Sunday afternoon meetings, made public addresses on association work, attended state committee and boards of directors meetings by request. Gave confidential advice to general secretaries contemplating change of place or of work. Helped the International Committee of Young Women's Christian Associations to form rules, constitution forms, etc., for the government of the county work for young women.

I have been kept busy; God has blessed my work, for which I am profoundly thankful.

REPORT OF T. K. CREE,

Secretary.

During the two years intervening since the Mobile convention, by an arrangement with the International Committee, I have given but eight months of each of the two years to service in the office. The remaining four months, without pay, two in the summer and two in the winter, I deemed advisable to spend elsewhere on account of my health. During all this time, however, I have kept a supervision of my correspondence, which has been largely financial, and the committee's work has suffered but little from the fact of my being away.

I attended the Mobile convention, the secretaries' conference following it, and the various conferences of the international secretaries during the two years.

Owing to the increased demand upon the treasury of the committee, my time has almost entirely been given up to the financial department. This was particularly the case during the past year, when the demands of the army and navy work doubled the calls upon the committee's treasury. I have kept up my correspondence with the associations and secretaries, largely, however, in the line of finances and in connection with association buildings, loans upon them, etc., and also on matters of general association interest. I have from time to time visited local associations and attended many public meetings. I have kept in close touch with the work abroad, to which I have given much time during the last ten years; and, in connection with Mr. Morse, have secured the American quota of contributions to the work of the Central International Committee at Geneva. The work abroad has had two years of very great success. In France three new Young Men's Christian Association buildings have been reported, one the gift of a lady who was interested in the work through the Paris association. By the generosity of Mr. James Stokes, a building was given to the association at Rome. An association was organized at Brussels, and soon after a gentleman of that city gave it a building well suited to its work. The outlook for the future, particularly on the continent, is very good, and during the coming year there is the expectation of a very considerable enlargement of the field of active work there.

REPORT OF W. E. LOUGEE,

Secretary.

My work outside the office in 1897 consisted in the organization of the building canvass at Mobile, attending the Virginia state convention at Portsmouth, and assisting the Omaha association in a financial canvass for a current indebtedness.

The work in the office consisted in arrangements for the Mobile convention, the conference of the International Committee and its secretaries at Belmar, N. J., and the annual dinner of the committee and various parlor conferences in New York and vicinity; financial correspondence, including week of prayer, secretarial and association contributions; arrangement and introduction of the card system in our office for all contributors; and various other details of the business department.

Early in 1898 the demand for the relief of the general secretary from part of the excessive financial work for which he was responsible became too urgent to be longer deferred and my share of that work was greatly increased. Soon after, in April, upon the outbreak of the war with Spain, the business department of the Army and Navy Christian Commission was assigned to me, including the purchase of tents, equipments, games, singing books, Bibles, Testaments, stationery and other supplies. All these were duly shipped to various points. Tons of reading matter of various kinds were distributed. The solicitation of the money needed for the expenses for this new department, as well as of the general work was organized and prosecuted, leaving no time for my usual vacation. The absence of the general secretary in Europe during six weeks of the summer to attend the Basle and Eisenach conferences increased these responsibilities.

Early in November it became evident that the committee's unprecedented expenses, due largely to the army work, would cause a deficit of over thirty thousand dollars above all that was yielded by the ordinary and extraordinary effort which had been made. A special solicitation was carefully organized by the general secretary and myself, and through patient and persistent effort the needed amount was secured before the end of the year. The books were closed with a small balance to the credit of the committee. The total expenditure for 1898 was over one hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars, more than double the expenses of any previous year in the history of the committee. This result was achieved in part by the hearty co-operation of the entire office force. Especially helpful were the suggestions and practical aid received from secretaries Cree, Uhl and Leonard in all the work of the business department.

REPORT OF C. K. OBER,

Field Secretary.

With my residence at Chicago I have continued work as field secretary of the International Committee chiefly in the central west, the north-west, and on the Pacific coast.

In the central west I have visited and rendered service in the interests of the local associations in Salt Lake City, Denver, Omaha, Detroit, Fort Wayne and other cities, and have attended meetings of the state committees of Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska and Colorado. I have also held many conferences and conducted correspondence with association leaders in city and state work. I helped arrange for the dinner meeting of prominent railroad officials held in Chicago in January, 1897.

In the northwest I have frequently aided the state committee of Minnesota by counsel and service in conference and convention especially in giving continued attention to the solution of difficult problems in Minneapolis and St. Paul. In Minneapolis I outlined a plan of campaign for the re-organization of the work, the payment of a floating debt and interest amounting to $15,000; the redemption of the association building which had been sold under foreclosure of mortgage, and the reduction of the mortgage debt from $50,000 to $40,000, and of the rate of interest from six per cent to five per cent. The execution of this plan was entrusted to C. S. Ward, who, for that purpose, accepted the position of general secretary of the association, and within ten months accomplished the object, including the raising, collection and payment of cash subscriptions amounting to $25,000.

In St. Paul the association had lost its lot and unfinished building, and after repeated and extended efforts was still in debt for more than $21,000 and the work had been practically closed for four years. A reorganization committee was secured, representing the surviving association directors, the state committee and the community, concessions were secured from the principal creditors of the association, reducing the amount of the claims and the rate of interest and extending the time of payment of the larger amounts to four years from the date of reorganization. At this stage in the campaign Mr. Ward, who had completed his work in Minneapolis, took up the effort in St. Paul, effected a new organization of the association and with its help and that of Edward Grace, who has since become the general secretary, secured subscriptions for $11,000 on the basis of which new rooms have been rented and equipped, and an encouraging association work inaugurated. I have also visited the associations of Grand Forks and Fargo, N. D. In January 1898 I transferred the work in the northwest to Mr. Ward, as field secretary of the International Committee with residence at Minneapolis.

In the southwest I have co-operated with Mr. Gates in Missouri and Texas, attending the Texas state convention in May, 1897, and a meeting of the Texas state committee in December of that year, and aiding the St. Louis association in its building canvass, and the officers of the Missouri state committee in conference concerning the state and international work.

On the Pacific coast. I have attended the Pacific Northwest convention, made two visits to the Seattle, Tacoma, Oregon City and Portland associations, and rendered special service in Portland in connection with the building canvass. I have also visited the Sacramento and San Francisco associations. Attended the Pacific coast summer conference and co-operated with the California state committee in securing the services of W. M. Parsons as acting state secretary.

In the Indian work, I have arranged for and helped to conduct two sessions of the Indian association summer school on Big Stone Lake, S. D., in June 1897, and at Oahe, S. D., in June 1898, and helped to secure and place in the field Arthur T. Tibbetts as successor to Dr. Charles A. Eastman in work among the Sioux Indian young men. I have also aided Mr. Tibbetts by correspondence and conferences in the prosecution of his work.

In the foreign work I have helped Mr. Wishard and Mr. Mott in securing the money for the budgets of 1898-1899, and have outlined and inaugurated a missionary movement under the name of "The Association Volunteer League" in our city, town and railroad associations. This has involved the preparation of three pamphlets and considerable study, conference and visitation of associations. The objects of the Volunteer League are the enlarging of the spiritual life of our association membership by the study of missions, and the study and practice of intercessory prayer, Christian stewardship and the larger Christian life, and the providing of "an adequate missionary base" for the support and extension of the work of the American associations, through representation, among the young men in non-Christian lands. On the retirement of Mr. Wishard, as foreign secretary of the committee, I have, at the committee's request and without change in my relation to the home work, undertaken in co-operation with Mr. Mott, the secretarial administration of our work in non-Christian lands, with special reference to the work in cities and the general national work, Mr. Mott undertaking the student work, both local and national. I also attended the International Convention and secretaries' conference at Mobile and Selma, the New York state convention at Rochester, the meeting of the World's Student Christian Federation at Williamstown, and the Cleveland student volunteer convention.

REPORT OF CECIL L. GATES,

Field Secretary.

The years 1897-98 have been given to the usual varied service of the field department; that service has brought me into direct contact with state, local, railroad and college work, and has necessitated 172 visits to 78 towns and cities in 21 states.

In Colorado, an examination of two points has been made (in connection with plans for railroad work) for the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, aid has been given to a canvass undertaken for the purpose of placing the association at Pueblo upon a sound financial basis, and various plans connected with state work have been outlined and discussed.

Considerable time has been devoted to the development of the railroad associations at Grand Island and North Platte, Nebraska. Incidental aid and counsel has been extended to other points in the state.

In Kansas I have co-operated with the state secretary in the treatment of several difficult situations. Aid has been given toward increasing the strength of the associations at Lawrence, Topeka, Ellis, Parsons and Leavenworth. At Leavenworth a building canvass has been organized and is now nearing successful completion.

Much personal service and counsel has been directed to the development of the associations at St. Joseph, Carthage, Joplin and Kansas City, Missouri.

Such care as the state work of Arkansas has demanded has been given; the state committee has borne the expense of this work.

Several problems in the work of Texas have demanded careful attention and extended personal service. The associations at San Antonio, Waco, Austin, Houston, Palestine and Dallas, have each been aided in securing a better financial basis. At Dallas much time has been given to a building canvass, that, in the face of many difficulties, has been brought to a successful issue. The state work of Texas has received continuous attention.

Several college associations, and all the railroad associations (with one exception) upon my field, have been visited and aided so far as possible.

Association conventions, meetings and conferences of all descriptions have been attended, and time and thought have been given to their conduct and success.

Counsel and help were given in placing fourteen men in various association positions upon my field.

In the work thus outlined, and much other work not included in this report, the call, in the main, has been for service of a business character; but I have also sought to do something toward strengthening the spiritual life of men and associations, and the furtherance of the ultimate purpose of our work.

REPORT OF H. P. ANDERSEN,

Secretary Student Department.

The first twenty months covered by this report were devoted to work as field secretary in the southeast.

During this period much time was given to strengthening and supplementing the state work in nine of the states in this territory. Inability to maintain a state secretary in Tennessee made it necessary for me to serve as acting state secretary for one-fourth of my time during eleven months of 1897, arranging for and conducting the state convention of that year, aiding in the plans for the convention the following year, and strengthening all phases of the work in the state. Upon the resignation of the state secretary of Georgia efforts were made to unite this state with Tennessee in the employment of a state secretary. This involved visits to the state committees and a canvass in Georgia for the necessary funds. As a result, S. W. McGill became state secretary of these two states in December, 1897. Co-operation was also given in uniting South Carolina and North Carolina in the employment of a state secretary, and aid was rendered in uniting Louisiana with the state work of Mississippi, from which excellent results are already apparent. Thus all the states of the southeast except Florida have competent supervision by state secretaries.

Much time was given to meetings and correspondence with state committees and state secretaries, counselling in a variety of problems and unifying the work of the different states.

Local associations have demanded much attention, in spite of the efficient state supervision that has been maintained. Financial canvasses were conducted in Memphis, Clarkesville, Chattanooga, Bristol, Paducah, Louisville, Newport and Griffin, while assistance was rendered in securing secretaries for six points. Several associations were also helped by counsel as to organization, building problems and a variety of other matters.

Addresses were made at twelve state conventions, two district conferences, one state secretaries' conference, and a county convention. I also attended the International Convention, the two secretaries' conferences, and the student volunteer convention.

The holding of the International Convention at Mobile rendered necessary aid to the local association in its preparations. Visitation and correspondence were conducted to secure a full representation from the associations in the south. The benefits of this convention have been clearly felt in the surrounding states.

As in former years I have had the general direction and business management of the southern student conference. For the sake of securing more attractive scenery and a cooler climate, the conference was removed from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, to Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. The results have fully justified the change. In connection with this conference there has been continued a small but helpful conference for city and town association workers.

The rapid organization of the extensive army work of the International Committee in all the southern camps during the summer of 1898 required my co-operation. Aid was rendered in securing secretaries for the tents and in organizing and supervising work in Chickamauga, Jacksonville and Fernandina.

At the office a pamphlet on work for young men in small towns was prepared, recommendations of amendments to constitutions were made, letters were written to promote the observance of the week of prayer for young men, and the support of the International Committee's work by men in the south was solicited. In addition a large general correspondence with all parts of the field was constantly maintained.

The growth of the student department and the increasing demands made upon Mr. Mott by the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, and by the World's Student Christian Federation, led to my transfer from the field department to the student department on September 1, 1898. Since that date my time has been devoted chiefly to executive work of this department from the New York office. This has comprised arranging and announcing the tours of the traveling secretaries and, as a member of the executive committee of the Student Volunteer Movement, correlating their tours with the tours of the secretaries of this movement, counselling by correspondence with student associations throughout the continent, studying and counselling on problems of student association buildings and of the college general secretaryship, developing the business organization of the Intercollegian, preparing for the Asheville and Northfield student conferences, and helping to unify the work of the student department.

REPORT OF CHARLES S. WARD,

Field Secretary.

My principal work has been at the twin cities of the northwest, the commercial and the natural association center of a vast empire beyond, in which business interests are being rapidly developed and population is multiplying, while association interests have lacked that close supervision which is essential to success.

Minneapolis has been chosen as the headquarters for field supervision in the northwest and offices are being fitted up by the Minneapolis association in its beautiful building for the use of the representatives of the International Committee.

Two years ago this building was under mortgage foreclosure, and I was assigned to the task of saving the property. For one year I served as general secretary, reorganizing the work, building up the volunteer working forces, and finally conducting the campaign by which $25,000 in cash was secured and applied to the cancellation of all floating debts, the interest and $10,000 of the principal of the mortgage, the remainder being refunded at 5%. This saved the building, and the work has since made cellent progress. A general secretary was secured in August 1898, and I was finally relieved of that responsibility.

But six months previous to that time I had taken up the work of reorganization in St. Paul, relieving Mr. Ober, who had given considerable attention to that situation.

The work here consisted in overcoming prejudice on account of past mistakes, building up an entirely new membership, there having been no membership for several years, securing a new board of directors, refunding an old debt, paying a portion of it, and planning a work on a scale in some measure commensurate with the city's needs. For these purposes it was necessary to raise $10,000. An efficient secretary is now in charge, and under his direction a progressive work has been opened up, in commodious quarters, with a large membership and with the favorable recognition of all good citizens.

In addition to the work in Minneapolis and St. Paul, during 1898 I attended the Manitoba provincial convention; the state conventions of Minnesota, Missouri and Nebraska; the general secretaries' conference at Winona as a member of the executive committee; and the Indian summer school at Oahe, South Dakota, as an instructor.

In Nebraska three weeks were given to a systematic visitation of all the city and some of the college associations on behalf of the state committee to whom a detailed report was made. At Kansas City, by request of local and state officers, I examined the conditions and am expected to render further aid.

The state committee of Minnesota has been in constant counsel with the International Committee regarding its serious problems, and I have attended most of the state committee meetings. I assisted in inaugurating the army work in that state. Two visits have been made to North Dakota, and one visit of ten days to Grand Rapids, Mich., where I assisted in selecting a general secretary.

Owing to these imperative calls I have only been able to touch the eastern portion of the northwestern field, but my work has been supplemented by C. K. Ober, who has rendered invaluable aid to the associations in the Pacific Northwest group.

REPORT OF W. B. MILLAR,

Field and Army & Navy Secretary.

The war with Spain presented new opportunities of work to the Young Men's Christian Associations of America, which were improved under the leadership of the International Committee. After April 25th I gave the remainder of 1898 almost entirely to the organization, development and supervision of the association work among the soldiers and sailors of the United States. The record of this part of my work will be found in the report of the army and navy department.

With headquarters at New York I have continued however, to give special attention to local, state and provincial matters in the territory north of the Potomac and east of the Ohio river. In this section are nine state and provincial organizations, four of which have needed frequent assistance during the two years past. It is pleasing to report that in each of these, decided gains have been made and a more satisfactory and progressive work developed.

In the autumn of 1898 it became necessary to obtain assistance in order to meet the pressing calls from various parts of the eastern field, and the committee was fortunate in securing T. T. Hazlewood, a man of long and successful experience in association work.

In the Maryland group, the state committee has removed the long standing debt, and with the co-operation of the International Committee, has given continued supervision to the field.

Special help has been rendered to several important associations of this group, notably Washington and Wilmington. At the former, counsel and co-operation have been given from time to time in the building canvass, solicitation of funds for current needs and the securing of a general secretary and assistants. The association has been placed on a higher plane than for many years by a recent effort of the board of directors, resulting in the securing of a splendid new property, formerly belonging to one of the athletic organizations of the city.

At Wilmington the situation was exceedingly critical. With a heavy debt and discouraged workers, the life of the association hung in the balance. A visit of a few days resulted very encouragingly; the work was strengthened and built up, and plans adopted by the board for a more progressive policy. Mr. Hazlewood has recently assisted in securing $2,700, thus cancelling all current indebtedness.

In the provinces of Ontario and Quebec definite progress has been made. Early in 1898 the London association, which was burdened with a $30,000 debt, determined to make an effort to secure this amount. In January I met with the directors, and plans for the canvass were outlined. W. H. Symonds was secured to co-operate with the board. By united, vigorous and prayerful effort, the entire amount was raised, after a most thorough canvass of several weeks.

Thomas S. Cole, for sixteen years provincial secretary, resigning, Mr. Symonds became his successor. Mr. Symonds brought to his new position a large experience in association methods, and a marked advancement has already been made in many departments of the work, while the provincial committee has made enlarged plans for future effort.

E. T. Garland, secretary of the Portland, Me., association, last year gave a portion of his time to the Maine state work; this arrangement making possible a more continuous supervision than the international secretary alone could give.

The dual state work of New Hampshire and Vermont has been greatly hampered by a heavy debt which has but recently been met. After Mr. Olandt's resignation as state secretary, the state committee did not feel able to secure a successor immediately, so that the International Committee has been called upon for aid in critical situations; for assistance in convention and conference work, and for counsel in various other ways.

At the recent state conventions of Maine and New Hampshire and Vermont a union of the three states in a single group was effected.

In other parts of the eastern field aid has been given to a number of individual associations, the most extended service perhaps being rendered at Montclair, N. J., in co-operating with the secretary and board to bring to a successful issue a building canvass. This building is just completed and is undoubtedly one of the model association buildings of the country.

Some time has also been given to the organization of the international women's auxiliary. The auxiliary has rendered great aid to the committee, more particularly in extending the knowledge of its work, and thus widening the circle of friends who take helpful interest in the several departments. Through the auxiliary has come much financial aid, both directly and indirectly. Nine parlor meetings have been held where the work of the International Committee has been presented.

During the period covered by this report, I have given some time to the committee's finances; have presented the International Committee's work at several dinners and parlor gatherings given in its interest; have taken part in twenty-four conventions and conferences; and in addition to this have made fifty-five addresses at anniversaries and different association gatherings.

REPORT OF GEORGE B. HODGE, Secretary Educational Department.

The report of work in the educational department may be briefly given under the following heads :

1. Study.—The nature of this work, the ever-changing variety and quality of the increasing educational facilities outside the association, the needs of young men, the tendencies of the times, the best methods by which men may be reached and helped intellectually,—all these demand constant study.

The efforts of so many periodicals to direct the study and reading of their patrons and thereby increase the circulation and treasury of the publishers; the efficient and growing work of the Chautauqua movement; the admirable courses in culture, history and sacred literature, cultivated and pushed through the young people's societies of the churches; the rapid extension of correspondence schools; the growth of free public libraries and the rapid increase of free public evening schools and systems of free lectures,—these and others furnish important and fruitful subjects for the most prayerful and careful study.

As the association has been the pioneer in introducing a number of educational facilities in many cities, which have been taken up and extended by the city through its greater financial ability to do such work, the problem of the further opportunity and duty of the association under such conditions is of deepest significance.

In all this study the object is to discover the things to do the best methods, and to adapt them to and recommend their adoption in the educational work of our associations.

2. Office and publications.—Much time has been spent at headquarters in correspondence, personal conference, collecting and classifying valuable information, preparing and formulating the material for and publishing the following pamphlets :—The Annual Reports for 1897 and 1898 (40 and 56 pages respectively); The Prospectus for 1897 and 1898 (75 and 91 pages), containing the standard courses, the regulations governing the conduct of examinations, etc.; the many leaflets, blanks, forms and other matter for the international examinations and exhibits;

The Literary Society or Congress, and The Cumulative Record, the indispensable companion book for the former pamphlet.

3. Conventions and visitation.—Fourteen international and state conventions and conferences have been attended and participated in. Fifty-three visits have been made to thirty-seven associations in fifteen states, for the purpose of promoting the work.

4. Educational exhibits.—Unquestionably much of the growth of interest in educational work has been due to exhibits. Several state conventions have held helpful exhibits. The international exhibit in Mobile in 1897 was the strongest object lesson in unity, systematic development, order and the helpful results of international supervision which the association world had yet seen in the educational department.

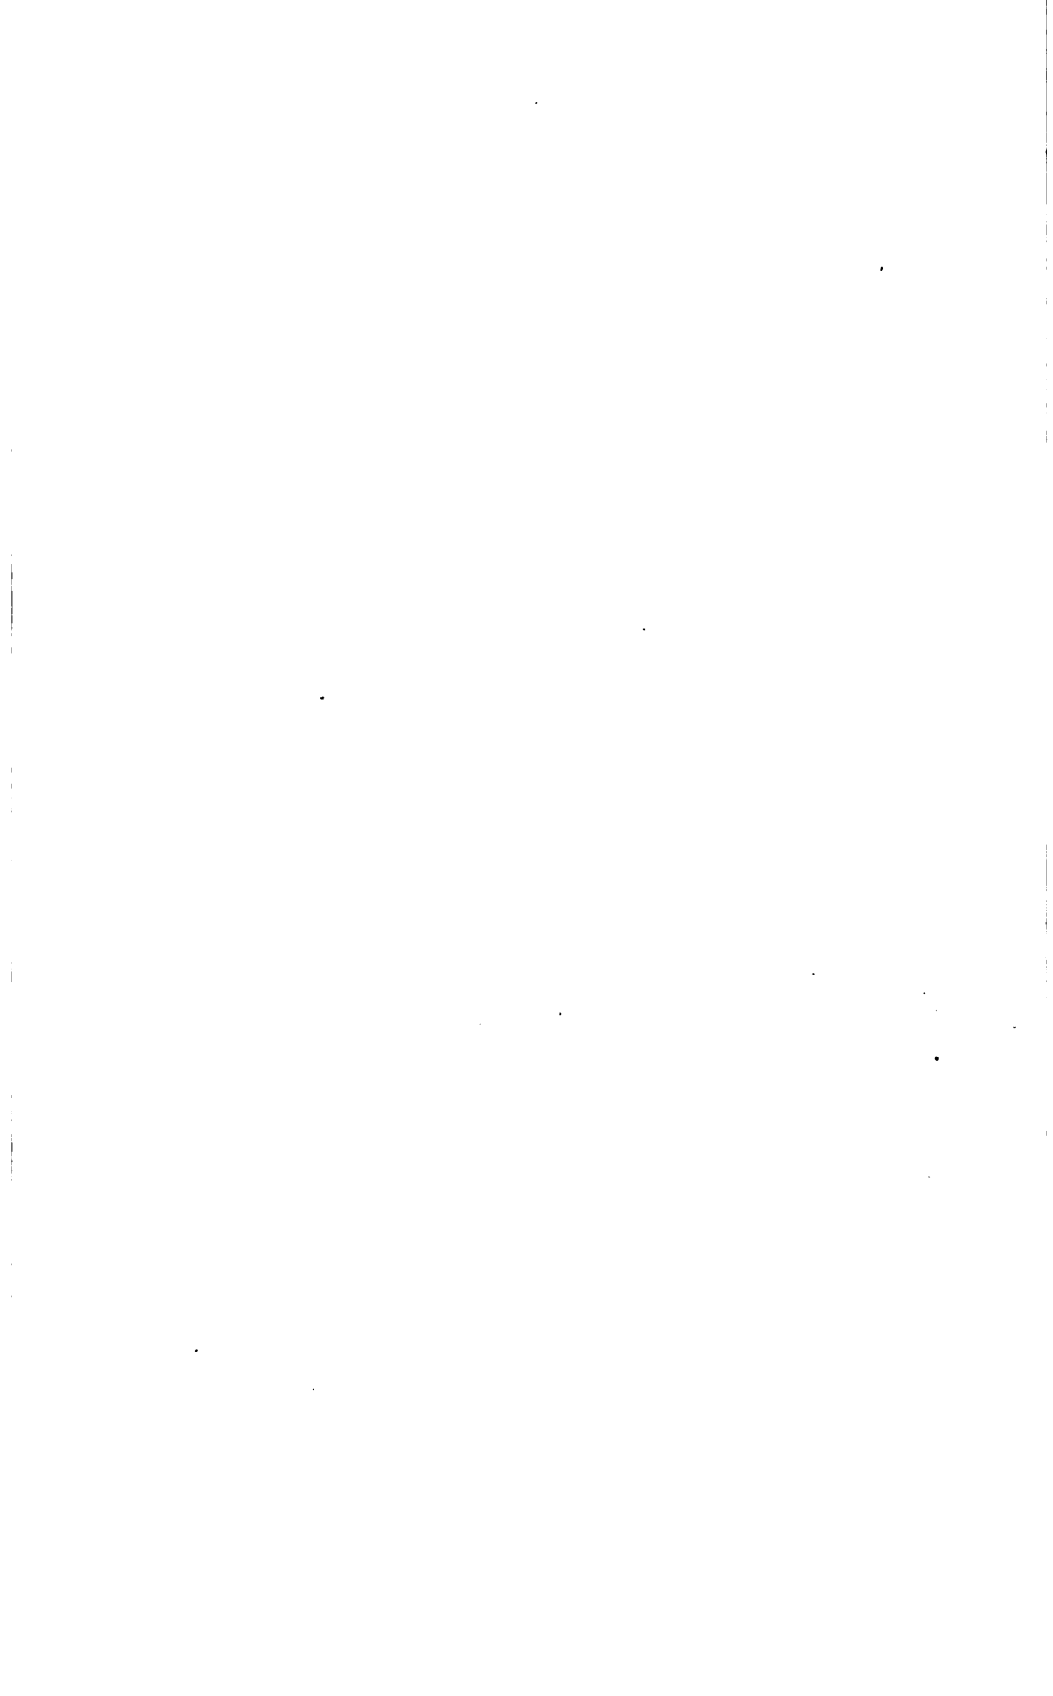

With but one secretary for this department it has seemed more necessary to give attention to the important matters of development than to spend very much time visiting associations, and with the traveling exhibit. With another much-needed secretary on the force more of this important use of portable exhibits could be made to the great advantage of all concerned.

5. Standard courses and examinations.—By far the most significant and important development of the evening class-work is that of standard courses of study, the character of which is maintained by annual simultaneous examinations. To this work the secretary has given the greater part of his time. Inaugurated in 1895, the first experimental examinations in the first two subjects being held April, 1896, it has grown so that examinations are now offered in eighteen fundamental subjects,—such as arithmetic, bookkeeping, drawing, electricity, English, etc.,—and 3,000 young men participated in the examinations of 1898.

For each subject there is an acknowledged authority as examiner. The examinations are vigorous and of high grade. The successful students are granted international certificates, which, in turn, are recognized now by one hundred or more colleges and universities of America. Never before have the colleges co-operated so generally with any movement under Christian auspices to correlative and systematize the fundamental intellectual efforts of young men.

The effect of this movement for the past two years, aside from helpfully guiding the general plans of the average association for evening class-work, has been most efficient in very materially raising the quality and character of the work done. New subjects are added each year, those introduced for the coming year being machine design, stenography, type-writing, German and possibly Spanish.

6. Literary society.—During the past few years the energy of supervision in this department has been concentrated upon the class-work. Since that seems to be placed upon a firm and successful basis, attention is now also being given to developing another agency of the educational work. To that end much study, work and conference have been given by the International Committee and others. The result is seen in the new pamphlets on the literary society, Nos. 680 and 667. The plan, scope of work, etc., therein involved provides for a substantial and standard development of literary society work upon a credit basis, which shall correspond to that of the class-work.

7. Other features.—Much hopeful interest is taken by the railroad departments in developing educational work in a more definite manner than heretofore, and in accommodating methods and times of instruction to the irregular hours at which railroad men can attend to such matters. Out of the special discussion and interest now taken in the matter we sincerely trust some satisfactory results will appear.

After two years of experiment with the "bureau of travel" as a division of this department's work, it was decided to discontinue it for the present.

The day departments of New York, Twenty-third Street branch, and Chicago, have developed encouragingly, and prove the wisdom of extension of work in that direction in large cities.

From the successful results attending the movement for standard courses, the Young Women's Christian Associations, through their international committee, have been led to desire to profit by these standard courses and examinations in their class-work. Accordingly, last year their official request for this purpose was granted by our International Committee. They now follow the same courses of study, participate in the same examinations and under the same regulations as the young men. Thus, through this affiliated action of supervision, encouragement and extension, the evening class-work of both organizations becomes more efficient and more able to command respectful public and collegiate recognition than if each organization labored independently.

NOTE.—The complete report of the educational department, containing the detailed description of all its divisions; the carefully tabulated statistics of the library, the reading-room, the literary society, the practical talks, and the class-work; the report of the annual examinations, and the list of successful students in the same, is published annually, July 1, at the close of the regular school year. The Reports for 1897 and 1898, of 40 and 56 pages respectively, are profusely illustrated by cuts of classes and products of class-work.

REPORT OF LUTHER GULICK.

Secretary Physical Department.

The last two years have seen particular emphasis laid upon the campaign for clean sport in the Young Men's Christian Associations. Numerous articles have been written, addresses given, and practical measures devised for the alliance of Christian character with association athletics. The general testimony seems to be that the work has resulted not only in the formation of a clear and well-defined sentiment upon the subject, but in a higher standard of sport in many associations. It is impossible to say to what extent the more favorable feeling toward clean sport outside of the associations is due to the movement within them, but it is certain that there has been wide adoption of its general principles in colleges and athletic clubs, and it is believed that the association movement has been a large factor in bringing about this state of affairs. This is another example of the power of the association in practical directions, even outside of its own organization.

One of the definite and practical steps taken has been the identification of all men engaged in competitive work. This has largely prevented men doing bad work under fictitious names, and has created a sense of individual responsibility and standing that did not obtain before. This registration plan has involved much work, but the results at present seem to justify both labor and time.

The leading plans and objects of the league at present are: (1) To band together those who feel that athletics are often large elements in the formation of character, and to arrange for them lines of co-operative action. (2) To foster a better spirit of manliness in connection with these activities that will banish from them the discourtesy and dishonesty by which they have been too often disgraced. (3) To formulate uniform gymnasium work, uniform examinations, grades and so on, in order that the weaker associations may have the benefit of working in the same way with the larger ones which have more experience, as well as to facilitate the taking up of work in each association by men coming from others. (4) To formulate uniform athletic and gymnastic rules, and keep athletic and gymnastic records of all kinds upon a uniform basis, so that they shall be comparable. (5) To manage such inter-association athletics and gymnastics as the associations themselves may desire. (6) To counsel with associations regarding serviceable and useful apparatus. (7) To extend information about new matters of importance in the physical line through a monthly league letter, in connection with which a reading course is suggested, showing the application to physical training of the results of recent scientific work; also to select and recommend what shall be as nearly as possible a model physical directors' library, classified and indexed for reference. (8) To represent association interests in other athletic bodies of the country in order that there may not be any of that interference with association gymnastics and athletics which in the past has often been prejudicial to the work.

The physical directors' conference has struck out into new lines. While each early conference gave particular attention to some one subject, in connection with considerable general work, during the last two years there has been much more of the technical and advanced work upon a given topic. It is becoming increasingly evident that these conferences constitute one of the largest factors in forwarding the higher aims of the physical work, and in bringing the physical directors into helpful and close relation to one another. The fact that the conference lasts from ten days to two weeks renders possible work of a character that cannot be undertaken in short convocations.

The Athletic League and the International Committee in its physical work have been greatly strengthened by the services during 1898 of George T. Hepbron, formerly physical director of the Eastern District branch, Brooklyn, N. Y. He had been, during previous years, closely connected with the work of the physical directors' conferences, and has brought to his work wide experience and good judgment. The efficiency of the work during the last year is largely due to his painstaking, wise labors. George W. Ehler, of Chicago, has continued his valuable volunteer service in behalf of the league.

My own work, in addition to the general matters of correspondence and counsel and relation to the Athletic League, has had one interesting new development, and this is the study of boys in their relation to the Young Men's Christian Association. Results have not been secured as yet for a final report, but the investigation has developed many points of interest.

REPORT OF JOHN R. MOTT,

Secretary Student Department.

This report covers the twenty-one months between the time of my return from my world tour at the end of March, 1897, and January 1, 1899. Of this period nearly ten months, or about one-half of my time, was spent in the direct work of the International Committee, four months in the work of the Student Volunteer Movement, six months in the work of the World's Student Christian Federation—mostly abroad, and over one month in vacations. During this entire time my salary and all my expenses have been provided for by a special fund so that the work here outlined has been carried on without any expense to the committee's treasury.

1. Work in the home student department of the International Committee.—I have visited nearly forty prominent institutions of the United States and Canada in the interest of the association. Considerable time has been spent in helping to establish the association movement in the theological seminaries. One of the most important developments in the student department has been the affiliation of the theological seminaries with the association movement, chiefly as the result of the work of Messrs. Wilder and Stevenson. Assistance has been rendered at twelve association conventions and conferences, also at five other important Christian gatherings in America. As the student department has increased in extent and as its development has become more and more complex, it has become necessary for me as the senior student secretary to devote an increasing amount of time to the executive work of this department, and to helping unify the whole student work. Much attention has been devoted since my last report to reorganizing the student department and increasing the number of student secretaries. The secretarial force has been doubled within the twenty-one months. In addition to secretaries for student work at the east, at the west, at the south, at the office, and for general direction, there have been added a secretary for the nearly 150 medical colleges, one for the over 125 theological seminaries, one for the thousands of preparatory and high schools, one to direct the Bible work which already includes in classes nearly 11,000 students, and one to share with me the general executive work of this department. It is the first time that this department has been anywhere nearly adequately manned. The good results of this enlargement are apparent on every hand. Help has been rendered wherever practicable to the general association work in America and Europe. At the world's conference in Basle I served on the committee of delegates.

2. Work in the foreign student department of the International Committee.—The decision of Mr. Wishard to spend some time in the important work of starting a forward movement in one of the leading mission boards led the committee to place the responsibility for the secretarial administration of its work in foreign mission lands on Mr. Ober and myself. The student department of this work has been assigned to me. This brings me into close and helpful relations with the seven foreign secretaries who are devoting themselves entirely to student work, and with two or three of the others who give a large portion of their time to such work. The responsibility for securing this part of the foreign budget has also been placed largely upon me. I have helped to select four men who have gone out into this work within the last year and a half. Remarkable as has been the growth of the foreign work during the past few years, as may be seen from the reports of the foreign secretaries, the years directly before us are destined to witness even larger achievements. Among the large number of agencies at work on the mission field there is none which occupies a more strategic position, confronts a larger opportunity, or possesses a force of workers better equipped for their task.

3. Work for the Student Volunteer Movement.—So far as men students are concerned this movement constitutes the missionary department of our student associations. As chairman of the executive committee of the movement, I have continued to give general direction to its work. The vast extent of the student field, and the great importance of this work, has made it necessary that eight secretaries be set apart to promote the objects of the movement—five in traveling work, one in charge of the educational work, and two others carrying on the work at the office. All but two of these secretaries are new. Emphatic and appreciative testimony should be borne to the great spiritual and practical assistance these secretaries have rendered to the student associations in all parts of North America—a service which involves no financial outlay by the International Committee. With this strong force of secretaries it has been possible to cultivate the missionary life of the colleges and seminaries more thoroughly than ever. Nearly 3,000 students are enrolled annually in classes for the systematic study of missions. Over 1,200 volunteers have already sailed, and now that the boards are in better financial condition we may expect to see many others go to the front. Students who are to be leaders in the church at home are coming to recognize their responsibility for the world's evangelization as never before. The movement is also greatly stimulating the missionary life of the entire church. The quadrennial convention of the movement held at Cleveland in February, 1898, and attended by over 2,300 delegates, was not only the largest student convention ever held but also the greatest missionary gathering in the history of missions.

4. Work for the World's Student Christian Federation.—The federation unites the twelve great national or international student movements of the world. Its basis is evangelical. It is composed very largely of regular Young Men's Christian Associations. As general secretary of the federation I have made two European trips during the past eighteen months and have carried on work in nine lands. Forty-three foreign universities and colleges have been visited, and a responsible part has been taken in the two world's federation conferences and in five European national conferences. The three most striking facts in the federation work of the past year have been: (1) The successful institution of a universal day of prayer for students; (2) the formation of the student Christian movement of France, the Netherlands, and Switzerland and its admission to the federation; and (3) the federation conference at Eisenach, Germany, attended by leaders in student work from twenty-four countries. This federation has already become a mighty factor in the Kingdom of Christ. It affords the associations one of the largest opportunities which has come to them in all their history.

5. Editorial work.—As the student movement has expanded so greatly in every direction and as my responsibilities in the various parts of the work have multiplied, it has become necessary for me to make a larger use of the printed page. Within the period covered by this review of work I have prepared for the press, Strategic Points in the World's Conquest, written three extended reports and five pamphlets, as well as several articles for the religious press. Since the resumption of the Intercollegian I have served as a member of its editorial committee. This paper, which for many years rendered such a helpful service to the associations, and the publication of which has been resumed by the International Committee as a result of the demand of the student associations, has been received with great favor by students and professors all over the student field, and, with the help of the Spirit, will continue to be a most useful factor in promoting the work of Christ among the students of all lands.

REPORT OF GILBERT A. BEAVER,

Secretary Student Department.

The first year and a half covered by this report was devoted to general student work in the east. During the absence of Mr. Mott considerable time was also given to the administration of the student work of the whole country.

Presidents' conferences, at which the newly elected presidents of associations received preparation for their important work, were arranged and held in conjunction with the respective state committees in Ohio and in Pennsylvania and for the associations of New York and New England. Much time was given to preparing for the two student conferences at Northfield in 1897 and 1898, and in attendance upon these conferences. The administration of the latter gathering also devolved upon me. Assistance was rendered in the conduct of the college conference at the southern conference at Knoxville, Tenn., in 1897, and at the western conference at Lake Geneva, Wis., in 1898. At the commencement of the work of the committee among theological institutions assistance was rendered Mr. Wilder by visiting a number of theological seminaries with him. Special aid was also rendered the intercollegiate departments of New York and Philadelphia.

Commencing with September 1, 1898, my time has been devoted to the organization and strengthening of associations for professional students, particularly in large cities. For this purpose protracted visits were made to Toronto, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Shorter visits were made to Columbus, Cleveland and Buffalo, where practicable training conferences for officers and committeemen were held with the assistance of Dr. J. Rutter Williamson, secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement among professional students. Substantial progress may be noted in this important and needy field.

In addition I have attended a number of conventions and conferences, including the International Convention at Mobile, the international secretaries' conference at Selma, the state convention in Pennsylvania, the meeting of the Worlds' Student Christian Federation at Williamstown, Mass., and the convention of the Student Volunteer Movement in Cleveland, Ohio.

REPORT OF C. C. MICHENER,

Secretary Student Department.

The territory which the International Committee has asked me to be responsible for is that portion of the United States west of the Ohio River, except the state of Ohio, to the Pacific coast, including western Canada. In this field there are something over 200 organized institutions. During the period for which this report is given, I have visited 84 colleges, and spent 56 days in office work, visited and helped in nine city associations, and have attended 16 state conventions. In addition to this I had charge of the visitation and details of the student volunteer convention. I have had charge of Lake Geneva and Pacific coast student conferences each year.

The work in this field has been broadening until it has received favorable recognition by the authorities of the institutions. The taking up of practical lines of work, which meet the needs of college men, has been a leading factor in the great increase in the Bible study and religious work. One place where this is shown is in the large increase in the number of men who are giving their time, at least half of it, to the general secretaryship in individual universities. In this territory at present there are twelve men in this kind of service, with the result that a large amount of time is consumed in securing the right men to fill these important positions, as few of them stay more than two years.

There has been an increase in the attention given to the college work by state committees. This is one of the most encouraging facts to report, because the college work can only be successfully supervised when taken up by each state committee.

REPORT OF W. K. MATTHEWS,

Secretary Student Department.

The following report covers the sixteen months since September 1, 1897, when I entered the service of the committee as a secretary of the student department.

1. Visitation.—One hundred and twenty-one visits have been made to seventy-four institutions in eleven states and territories.

The work has been mainly directed to the building up of existing organizations. Much time has been spent in strengthening new or weak associations, especially in states temporarily or permanently without agencies of supervision. Timely aid has been rendered to some of the larger associations when in critical condition. Help has also been given in the organization of eight new associations. Through correspondence also, aid has been given to many widely scattered associations and a direct relation to their work has been maintained.

2. Conventions.—I have attended twenty conferences, conventions and summer schools, including five state conventions, one district conference, the convention of the Student Volunteer Movement, the Asheville and Northfield student conferences, two conferences of the secretaries of the International Committee, one state college conference, and three presidential conferences.

3. The southern student conference.—Much time was devoted to advertising and securing attendance upon this conference. I have also shared with H. P. Andersen the responsibility for its supervision and conduct. Attendance on this conference is becoming much more generally recognized by the colleges of the south as an indispensable factor in the work of a successful association. Improvement in Bible study and increased efficiency in all departments of the work of the associations are largely traceable to the influence of this conference.

REPORT OF H. B. SHARMAN,

Secretary Student Department.

During the academic year 1897-98 (September 1, 1897, to August 31, 1898), the Bible secretary of the student department gave only a part of his time to the work of his department, owing to lack of physical strength to carry the full demands which the department at its best would make upon him. Aside from the student summer conferences the total amount of time given during the year was a little over six months. This time, however, was distributed over the whole academic year, and in this way it was possible to carry on the several lines of work in a connected though incomplete way. From September 1 to December 31, 1898, the whole time of the secretary has been given to the department.

1. Fall conferences.—The greater part of September, in both years, was spent in attendance upon three successive conferences—that of the International Committee's secretaries, that of the student secretaries, and that of the Student Volunteer Movement.

2. Opening of the work.—Naturally in the inception of an entirely new branch of work there were many points at which time was spent in getting material and equipment in satisfactory order to carry on the work. Additional office help for this special work was needed, and office equipment had to be purchased in 1897. Decided advantages were found to come from the improved office facilities and from the already developed state of office methods when the work was taken up in the fall of 1898.

3. Summer conference results—At the very opening of the work such material as had been handed in on the efforts toward organization at the summer conferences was taken in hand, and that work followed up as soon as possible. The leaders at Northfield and at Knoxville kept no record of their work, hence we were not able to follow it up. But papers and notes from Pacific Grove, and particularly from Lake Geneva, proved of great value in correspondence with men who had been at the summer conferences, and had, in consultation with the leaders, made plans for their Bible work for 1897-98. The results of the special correspondence initiated on this basis more than justified the time given to it, and demonstrated very clearly the positive value of personal correspondence which has its basis in organization accomplished at the summer conferences. Another basis for correspondence was found in the classes conducted by me the previous year from Chicago in the Studies in the Life of Christ. Where institutions had taken that course we were in contact with men through whom we were able to work in organizing and supervising the department for 1897-98. At the opening of the work in September, 1898, having personally attended the Pacific Grove and Asheville student conferences, there was a large foundation laid for personal aggressive correspondence, which yielded most encouraging results, and fully justified the time and effort put forth in organization at the summer conferences and by correspondence during the summer.

4. Studies in the Life of Christ, and Studies in the Acts and Epistles.—Throughout the whole year of 1897-1898 weekly reports were had from each leader having in charge a class in Studies in the Life of Christ, and correspondence was kept up unceasingly with them touching their difficulties and the special developments in their fields. This proved also an opportunity for minute study of the effects as well as the weaknesses of this particular course in its actual working. Through much effort carried on continuously during the two years we have been able to learn definitely the points wherein the needs of student classes differ from those of other classes, and have been led to appreciate the problems and plan for them more thoroughly than could otherwise have been done. At the close of the year general reports were collected from the leaders replying to a number of searching questions which aimed to get at the realities of the work. These had as their purpose the gathering of the year's experience as a whole, and have proved of exceptional value and special stimulus to the secretary.

During the next year a similar work was carried on, not only with reference to the first year's course, but also to the second course of the series, Studies in the Acts and Epistles, for which also definite "Suggestions to leaders" were prepared. Results coming from this continued correspondence on the standard courses of the cycle fully justified the time and expense involved.

5. The Cleveland convention.—In common with all of the student secretaries considerable time was given to the Cleveland convention of the Student Volunteer Movement in doing certain phases of the work connected with that gathering—the most important part of which was the negotiations with railroad companies for special concessions, and the making of arrangements for the transportation of delegates from the east. We refer here to work outside of the special time devoted, according to arrangement with the Student Volunteer Movement, to the preparation for and editing of the official report of the gathering.

6. Study of the field.—One of the largest, most important, and fruitful phases of the work of the year has been a comprehensive study of the field. From every association in the student field a full report was received of the exact Bible work done in 1897-98, this report covering practically every side of the work. Among other facts secured were the exact names of all the courses used, and the names and addresses of every individual leader. This formed the basis for sending out blanks for reports on individual classes. To every class in the field was sent a specially prepared blank, brief, so as not to demand too much time from the leader, and yet comprehensive enough for our purposes, which was returned at the close of the year and forms the basis for a minute and quite varied statistical study of the field. Revelations of many sides of the Bible work in the colleges have come through these reports, and they have special value because of their suggestiveness as to what plans should be made, and the nature of the work which should be done on behalf of students in the future. Where possible, the courses used in colleges but not published by the committee, were brought together and examined, and these, with a study of the practical workings of several types of courses, are a good indication of the character of the work which should be prepared for future student courses.

7. General correspondence. As knowledge of the fact that a secretary was devoting his time especially to Bible study has spread in the college field, the volume of general correspondence on the whole work of Bible study among students, especially as to plans and courses which we would recommend, has increased. A considerable part of the time has been taken up in dealing with individual questions and problems. This general correspondence, by which we mean that outside of the mere technical following up of courses, is likely constantly to increase, and we believe that it is a fruitful field of work, though of course we must always depend primarily upon the various student conferences for the putting forth of our plans.

8. Study and planning.—A portion of the time of the secretary has been given to personal study and the making of plans for future Bible courses. During the year 1897-98 the course under consideration was the second in the series, and after examination of a large number of courses covering that part of the Bible which had been chosen for treatment in the second course, it was decided that no better plan had been suggested than that the second course be based on a work known as Records and Letters of the Apostolic Age. This was brought to the attention of the other student secretaries and met with their approval. Considerable direct study and some general outlining for this course was done during the first half of the year 1897-98. It was determined that the second course should be put into the hands of Professor Bosworth. Such general ideas of the scope of the work as had been matured in the mind of the secretary were given as a basis for suggestion to Professor Bosworth. He accepted the work, presented the course at Lake Geneva and Northfield, and is now working on the outlines, some of which have been issued already. The dealing with printers, determining of details of typography and other features, the examination and revision of all manuscript for the second course, has been a part of my work in connection with it. Looking forward during the later months of 1898 to the fourth year of the cycle, which it is intended should deal with some fundamental Bible teachings, much of my personal study has been upon this course, which is so important, and which requires great care in its preparation. The third year course determined upon is Studies in Old Testament Characters, to be prepared by Professor W. W. White.

9. Summer conferences.—The secretary led the devotional Bible work at Pacific Grove and at Asheville in 1898. At each of those places Studies in the Life of Christ was presented. All students in the class were requested to give at least an hour a day to study on this course during the conference, and this requirement was generally met. The secretary also counseled with the delegates as a body from each institution represented in the conference. Their Bible work of last year was reviewed, difficulties stated, possible solutions indicated, plans made before coming to the conference investigated. Where their work had not been fully organized, suggestions were made as to courses to be used, definite leaders for the coming year were chosen, promises were secured from delegates to write to these men and secure their agreement to lead the work, delegates agreed to report results of their correspondence to the secretary during the summer; and in other ways the effort was made to gather up the work through these conferences into as definite and fully organized form as possible. During the next few weeks the secretary carried on extensive correspondence with these men in the effort to bring them back to their colleges with the work well in hand, plans made in advance, and a reasonable certainty of a persistent following up of the work. This proved a fruitful line of effort.

REPORT OF HARRY WADE HICKS,

Secretary Student Department.

The territory of "Canada and the east," which is specially assigned to me, comprises fourteen states and the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Visitation has been conducted in every section except the two last named, and in forty-eight institutions, including four academies, six medical colleges, and thirty-eight colleges and universities. New associations have been organized at Charlotte Hall School, Charlotte Hall, Md., and the Columbian University, Washington, D. C.

Much time has been devoted to attendance upon state and other conventions, college conferences, and presidents' conferences. These include the college convention of the Maritime Provinces, the provincial convention of Ontario and Quebec, where were held both a college conference and the first annual presidents' conference for this district; the convention of the Maryland group, with a college conference; the Pennsylvania state convention, with a similar gathering for college men; and presidents' conferences for Ohio, the east and Pennsylvania.

The first general impression formed after a first tour of this field is that the associations know the theory of organization, but that spiritual power is lacking. A second observation shows that there is as yet little uniformity in methods and courses of Bible study, and in this connection a deficient appreciation of the value of the Bible study department as a spiritual force in the organization and in the life of the individual active member. In many institutions a narrow work has been resultant upon isolation, due to failure in securing delegations to summer conferences, presidents' conferences, and other intercollegiate gatherings of association men. In others the organization has been content with reaching the standard of efficiency attained by former administrations. In a few places the association has failed to become an active, moral and spiritual force because of the indifference of leaders.

As the year has drawn toward its close encouraging indications have appeared throughout the whole field. A gain in numbers of men in Bible study has been recorded, and without doubt a larger increase in the number of students following daily devotional study and prayer. The four years' cycle introduced by the Bible department for the colleges has not failed to win hearty support from all of the colleges visited.

While the number of classes designed to train men in the knowledge of the Bible to fit for personal work has decreased greatly, the number of young men known to have been brought to Christ through the agency of the association has remained about the same. Moreover, there are visible indications that personal work will become more than before, during the next year, an integral part of the work of every standing committee. In the missionary department a distinct advance has been made, especially in the number of students engaged in mission study and in the quality of the work done. A larger attendance of presidents from the colleges in the east was recorded at the conference in April than in any preceding year. The summer conference at Northfield will be attended by more delegates from Canada than for several years. In these provinces, especially in Ontario and Quebec, the general advance has been more marked than in any of the states.

Emphasis will be laid during the next year upon the spiritual phases of the association work, upon the four years' cycle of Bible study, upon the five departments of missionary activity, and upon the training of strong leaders to become officers of the associations and teachers of Bible and mission study classes. That men may accept Christ, personal effort to win men will be urged upon individual leaders.

Especial mention should be made of the hearty co-operation of state secretaries in Maine, New York, Maryland and Ontario and Quebec, and of state and provincial college secretaries in Massachusetts, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Ontario and Quebec.

REPORT OF GEORGE GLEASON.

Secretary Student Department.

I began work with the committee September 1, 1898. One month was spent in preparation for visitation. In the succeeding three months I have visited twenty-six schools, most of which had associations. I have organized two new associations, and started movements in three other schools. I am planning to organize high schools where possible as branches of city associations. If we can get the preparatory schools well organized, the problem of reaching new students in the colleges will be greatly simplified.

REPORT OF ROBERT P. WILDER.

*Secretary Theological Section of Student Department.*I. — Work in Europe:

In March, 1897, your secretary left India at the invitation of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association and the executive committee of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions to serve as secretary for both movements among the theological students of North America. Incidentally, and without expense to either the International Committee or the Student Volunteer Movement, he accomplished the following work in Europe: In March, 1897, he spoke in Copenhagen, Denmark; in April he addressed university and gymnasial students in Christiania, Norway; later he attended the first conference of the Studentenbund für Mission in Halle, a. S., Germany, meeting delegates from eleven German universities and one higher technical school, and securing delegates for the conference of the World's Student Christian Federation in America in July. After a second visit to Copenhagen and Christiania, and after attending the federation meeting in Northfield and Williamstown, he was present at the conference of the Frivillige Studenters Missions förbund i de Nordiska länderna in Stockholm, Sweden. One hundred and thirty-one delegates attended. The Scandinavian Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions was re-organized, in co-operation with the Scandinavian University Christian Movement, which forms part of the World's Student Christian Federation. Upsala University, in Sweden, was then visited.

On returning from America, in the summer of 1898, he attended the Scandinavian student volunteer conferences in Christiania and at Eisenach, Germany, the conference of the World's Student Christian Federation, where he was one of two representatives of the Intercollegiate Young Men's Christian Association of India and Ceylon.

II. — Work in North America.

Since November, 1897, your secretary has been working among students in the United States and Canada, visiting 61 institutions containing theological students and belonging to thirty denominations. About half of these have been visited twice.

1. The Student Volunteer Movement.

As secretary of this movement he has delivered addresses on missions, held conferences with bands of student volunteers, and has had many interviews with hindered volunteers and with students who are seriously considering the work of foreign missions as a life service. Much time has been taken in securing information for the student volunteer office, and stimulating interest in summer and winter campaign work by students among churches and young peoples' societies. He has addressed the volunteer unions of Boston, Chicago, Montreal, and Dayton. He spent much time prior to the student volunteer convention in working up delegations, and during the convention he served on the convention committee. He has addressed in the interests of this movement students in 61 theological institutions and in 20 institutions which do not contain theological students.

2. The student department of the International Committee.

(1) Organization.—When your secretary began this work only one theological seminary had formed an association. Before the meeting of the American Inter-Seminary Missionary Alliance, February 26, 1898, so many other seminaries had taken similar action that the alliance was discontinued, and delegates from theological seminaries that had formed associations organized themselves into "the theological section" of the student association movement. There are now thirty-three theological institutions which have Young Men's Christian Associations within them and have entered into affiliation with the World's Student Christian Federation. Twenty-eight of this number your secretary helped to organize. Practically every student in four other institutions is a member of the association of the university or college with which these theological institutions are affiliated. Thus there are thirty-seven theological institutions of eighteen denominations in the theological section of the association movement. These associations have a membership of about 2,654. There is also a Young Women's Christian Association in Hartford Theological Seminary.

Theological professors and students have not moved hastily in taking this step. The faculty and students of most theological institutions deliberated weeks, some a few months, and two a year before entering into affiliation with the association movement. This work of organizing has meant for your secretary very many interviews with theological professors and students during his visits, a heavy correspondence after his visits, and much prayer. He feels grateful to the many friends who have waited on God in behalf of this work. The movement stands as a monument to answered prayer.

(2) Investigation.—Nine years ago your secretary made a study of the theological seminary field of the United States and Canada, and the results were given to the Inter-Seminary Missionary Alliance. Subsequently Messrs. Adams and Luce made a more thorough investigation. We are devoting considerable time this year to a very careful study of the field. A list of questions has been sent to each of the 139 theological institutions in the United States and Canada, though many of these institutions are only theological departments of universities or colleges and contain but few students. Reports have already come in from over half the institutions and within two months we hope to hear from all. The work of investigating the seminary field by correspondence is being supplemented by visitation. In answer to prayer your secretary has been able to enter theological seminaries which have never before been touched by representatives of the International Committee or the Student Volunteer Movement.

(3) Confirmation.—In detaining your secretary in this country for another year, the International Committee urged the necessity of his remaining to strengthen associations that have been organized. In this work also prayer has been answered. For example, one association was organized last year with only three functions. After a visit this year three more functions were added. The secretary has tried to build up a symmetrical organization in each seminary. He has given special attention to strengthening the devotional department of each association by speaking on such subjects as personal Bible study and the Holy Spirit, and by giving suggestions concerning the conduct of devotional meetings and Bible classes, also hints on organized evangelistic work by students. He has also endeavored to strengthen the missionary department by giving suggestions on the conduct of missionary meetings, mission study classes, the introduction of more missionary literature into seminary libraries, and upon systematic giving to missions. He has felt that one of the best agencies for strengthening the new movement was the Intercollegian, and he has sought to increase its circulation among theological students.

(4) Conferences.—Your secretary has attended nine conferences and conventions for students, namely: the conference of the World's Student Christian Federation at Northfield and Williamstown; the convention of the Student Volunteer Movement in Cleveland O., and the convention of the Canadian Intercollegiate Missionary Alliance, in Kingston, Ont.; also several conferences limited to theological students; three under the Inter-Seminary Missionary Alliance, which has been discontinued; one when the theological section of the association movement was organized, in February, 1898. At this conference a committee was appointed to suggest the names of two men to serve as the seminary sub-committee of the International Committee. Prof. J. Ross Stevenson, D. D., and Rev. W. W. White, Ph. D., were suggested, and the International Committee has appointed them as the committee for the theological section. In October, 1898, he attended two presidential conferences, one in New Haven, Conn., for eastern theological seminaries, and the other in Chicago for western theological seminaries. These two gatherings demonstrated the superiority of the new organization over the former one. At these two conferences twenty-five theological seminaries were represented, and the following topics were considered: The seminary field; A suggested plan of organization for theological students; Mission study; Missionary literature; Great facts and settled principles of the Student Volunteer Movement; The missionary department of the seminary association; The temptation of theological students; The watchword of the Student Volunteer Movement; and The policy of the theological section for the ensuing year.

Plans are being made for sectional meetings for theological students at the Northfield and Lake Geneva summer schools of 1899.

(5) Literary Work.—Your secretary has prepared two pamphlets, entitled The Association Movement among Theological Students, showing the origin, purpose, extent and advantages of the movement, and the requirements for admission into it; and The Plan of Organization for Theological Students, indicating the place, purpose and organization of the association and suggesting a constitution for an association among theological students. He has also done some literary work in connection with the Intercollegian as a member of its editorial committee.

Your secretary has addressed thirty-one city and state association meetings and churches. He has spoken 393 times during the past two years. He states to the praise of God that though the work has been heavy, coming after service in India, he has missed only two important engagements owing to ill health.

REPORT OF C. J. HICKS,

Secretary Railroad Department.

1. General outline.—The steady growth of the railroad department is indicated by the fact that the International Committee has found it necessary to double its force of railroad secretaries since September, 1897. At that date the opportunities for extension along the Grand Trunk Railway, following the investigation outlined in a previous report, demanded the continuous services of a secretary, and John F. Moore, for some years employed by the New York state committee, was secured for this special field.

The next addition to the force was required by the growth in the far west, especially on the Santa Fe system. In the summer of 1897, the officials of that line asked for a report on the entire system. F. H. Burt, assistant state secretary of Illinois, was engaged for two months to gather material for this report. I accompanied him to the western terminus, stopping at various points to meet the officials, and then returned over the Southern Pacific and Canadian Pacific railways, stopping at the most important division points for conferences with the railroad men.

The Santa Fe report was so favorably received by the officials, that it became necessary to secure a secretary to give nearly his entire time to building up the railroad department on that system. In January 1898, George D. McDill was engaged for this work, and it was arranged that he should have headquarters at Omaha, and give attention to the lines centering there from the west, as well as to the Santa Fe. The substantial progress already made in this field is shown in his report in this Year Book.

Early in 1898 the committee was requested to give attention to the lines centering at St. Louis, from the south-west, a needy section where no railroad work had up to that time been undertaken. A special fund was offered to meet the expense of placing a railroad secretary in this field, and Fred B. Shipp, whose report appears on another page, is now working in that section, having headquarters at St. Louis.

These additions to the force have made possible a thorough reorganization of the department, giving each of my five associates a definite field for which he is held responsible, and leaving me free for general administration, for work centering at the New York office, and for co-operation with the other secretaries on their respective fields. I have tried to keep in touch with every development in the department, but as these are reported in detail by my associates, I will not attempt to outline them here.

2. Office work.—This has included the necessary correspondence, administration of the Sidney Dillon fund, the preparation and revision of printed matter, conferences with the railroad committee, and other numberless items that demand attention, but would not be interesting if incorporated in a report.

3. Ninth International Railroad Conference.—This conference was held at Fort Wayne, Ind., October 20-23, 1898, and was attended by 642 delegates, a much larger number than at any previous similar gathering. For the first time in the history of these conferences two representatives of British railway men were present, Messrs. Richard Nixon, secretary of the Railway Mission, London, and T. H. Ridley, of Edinburgh, clerk on the North British Railway. It was a meeting of marvelous spiritual power, and the beneficial results to the entire railroad department cannot be measured. The preparations for it and the publication of the proceedings took much of my time during October and November.

4. Work of J. M. Burwick.—Mr. Burwick's evangelistic work among railroad men has been continued, with the exception of a few months during the summer of 1898, when he resumed his old position as a freight conductor. His efforts have been increasingly fruitful and carried on without any expense to the committee, except for the time spent by myself in arranging his engagements, securing his transportation, etc.

5. Basle conference.—I represented the committee at the 14th World's Conference, in Basle, in 1898, and presented a paper on the work of the American Railroad Department. I also spent some time in England studying the work of the English Railway Mission, and made a hurried study of the conditions surrounding railway men in France and Germany. A separate report concerning this trip has been submitted to the committee.

6. Miscellaneous.—Under this heading may be mentioned the state and international conventions and conferences attended, visits to many railroad associations, and time spent on the St. Louis railroad department building enterprise. Fifteen of the eighteen roads centering at the St. Louis station have now signed the agreement for this building, and we believe that the success of the plan is assured.

7. Summary.—Two years ago the railroad associations numbered 125, with a membership of 30,150. They now number 137, with a membership of 32,038. The momentum of this work is seen in the fact that there are now more opportunities for extension, with corporate support assured, than the committee can possibly attend to, even with its increased force of secretaries. One marked feature of this growth, and one that indicates its substantial character, is that at least one-half of the associations organized during the past two years have at the outset been provided with new buildings, completely equipped.

REPORT OF E. L. HAMILTON,

Secretary Railroad Department.

1. Extension.—During the years 1897 and 1898, new buildings have been erected and associations or departments organized at the following points: Two Harbors, Minn.; Mount Carmel, Elsdon, and Chicago, Ill.; Linn-dale, Ohio. At Waterloo, Iowa, a new department was organized, and a new building occupied that was built for the purpose by a private individual. At Dearborn Station, Chicago, a hotel building was remodeled and furnished by the six roads using that station and a new work organized for their employees. At Centralia, Ill., a city association was re-organized as a railroad department, with corporate support. At Decatur, Ill., work has commenced on a new building, costing about $7,000, the railway men and citizens contributing $2,300, the remainder being given by the Wabash Railway Co. The new department will be organized during the summer of 1899. After a careful investigation of the situation at Monett, Mo., a report was prepared and submitted to the president of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway Co. asking for $6,000 towards a new building, provided the railroad employees and citizens would contribute $2,000 for the same purpose. The report received favorable action, and the $2,000 is being raised under direction of Mr. Shipp, to whom this field has now been assigned.

2. Supervision.—Assistance was rendered the railroad association at Baraboo, Wis., in a financial canvass to clear off a mortgage on the building, and a special appropriation was secured from the Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co., for the same purpose, which completed the amount required. During 1897 three visits were made to the associations on the C. and O., and at the beginning of 1898 this field was turned over to my associate, Mr. Williams. Many visits were made to the other railroad associations in my territory, for conferences with secretaries and committees, addresses at anniversaries, gospel meetings and church services.

3. General.—At the request of the general manager of the Pennsylvania Lines West of Pittsburgh a complete investigation of that system was made, by visits to each division and terminal point and the submission of a report recommending nine new organizations. Five state conventions were attended; also the International Convention and secretaries' conferences, and the Ninth International Railroad Conference at Fort Wayne, which was one of the most remarkable and influential gatherings ever held by the Young Men's Christian Associations. A marked characteristic of the two years' work has been the increasing favor shown by the railroad officials, the result of the divine guidance enabling us to avoid mistakes and to show practical results in the lives of the men. Have traveled 79,460 miles during the time covered by this report.

REPORT OF H. O. WILLIAMS,

Secretary Railroad Department.

My time during 1897 and 1898 has been given almost entirely to railroad department work in the eastern states, Pennsylvania and the south. On September 1, 1897, John F. Moore entered the Canadian field in which I had been working previously; and in October, 1898, he took into his field that part of New England traversed by the Boston & Maine Railroad. While the Richmond office has been continued, yet I have spent much time in the New York office. Have aided Mr. Hicks in the preparation of several blanks and other printed matter. In the field have undertaken the following work:

1. New organizations.—At Selma, Ala., a department was organized in May, 1897, desirable quarters were opened, and a monthly appropriation granted by the Southern Railway Company. The same month an association was opened at Toronto, Ont. The Grand Trunk Railway provided a building, repaired and furnished it at an expense of $2,800, and makes a monthly appropriation toward the current expenses. Portland, Maine, was opened in April, 1898, where the Boston & Maine and Maine Central railroads co-operated with the men in providing a very complete suite of rooms and supporting the work. Reading, Pa., on the Pennsylvania & Reading, was organized in April, 1898, and the company is interested in its support. Five railroads centering in Meridian, Miss., aided the men in establishing a railroad association, and the rooms were opened April 17, 1898.

Two new associations were organized on the Norfolk & Western Railroad—one at Kenova, W. Va., the other at Hagerstown, Md. At Hagerstown, the Western Maryland and the Cumberland Valley also contribute to the furnishing and the current expenses. Enlarged quarters have been secured for the department at Lexington, Ky., on the Cincinnati & Ohio, and a secretary placed there to devote his entire time to the work. The work in connection with these organizations has required many interviews with officials, local association officers and railroad men.

2. Work commenced.—An organization is now under way at Knoxville, Tenn., on the Southern Railway. The secretary is on the field and the rooms ready for occupancy. At Montgomery, Ala., the preliminary work has been done and an association will be organized.

3. Field studies.—At the request of railroad officials a careful investigation and report has been made of the field at Niagara Falls, Ont.; Richmond, Que.; Worcester, Mass.; East Hartford, Conn.; Jersey City, N. J.; Wilmington and Delmar, Del.; Twentieth and Hamilton streets, and Port Richmond, Philadelphia, on the Pennsylvania & Reading; Cape Charles, Va.; Spencer, N. C.; Florence, S. C.; and Paris, Ky. Work at several of these points will be started soon.

4. Conferences and conventions.—Have attended two conferences of the secretaries of the International Committee; the International Convention and secretaries' conferences; the railroad conference at Fort Wayne; the state conventions of Ohio, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and Maine, in 1897; and the Maryland group, Vermont-New Hampshire, Kentucky, Alabama, and Indiana, in 1898; also dinner meetings in Chicago in February, 1897, and in New York in November, 1897.

5. Other work.—Have made many addresses at anniversary and gospel meetings, attended numerous meetings of boards of directors, state committees and committees of management, and aided several associations in securing funds for current expenses. The performance of these duties has required me to travel over 40,000 miles per year, and to visit every state from Maine to Texas, except Florida. The work in this territory has been richly blessed both materially and spiritually the past two years, and the outlook for the future is exceedingly encouraging.

REPORT OF JOHN F. MOORE.

Secretary Railroad Department.

I entered the service of the International Committee September 1, 1897; this report, therefore, embraces the work of eighteen months. The field for which I am more particularly responsible may be termed the "north and east," including New York, New England, Canada and Michigan.

The railroad field in Canada has demanded and received a very large share of my time. Among the more interesting developments with which I have been more or less intimately connected, may be mentioned :

The organization of an association and the erection of a $6,000 building at Niagara Falls Ont. This building was made possible by the combined gifts of the G. T. R. R. and the municipal corporation of that city—a special election of ratepayers being held, at which a large majority endorsed the common council grant of $1,500. At Toronto the membership has almost doubled within the past year and a half, and the outlook is brighter than at any time since the opening of the building. At East Toronto rest rooms have been added to the equipment and a substantial increase made in the membership. At Stratford, where the G. T. R. R. has many employees, an appropriation was secured from the railroad company and the association reorganized as a railroad association. At Montreal the company has borne the expense of altering and renovating the association building, and has increased its monthly appropriation, thus making it possible to keep the rooms open all day, instead of evenings only, as formerly, and also to engage a competent and experienced railroad secretary. I have also given time to the study of the field at Sarnia, where it is expected that a building will be erected during the present year.

Following an investigation of the B. R. & P. R. R. and a presentation of a report on that system, President Yates authorized the appropriation of three dollars by the company for every dollar subscribed by its employees at Du Bois, Pa., toward the erection of a railroad association building at that point, limiting the company appropriation, however, to $5,000. Much time has been devoted to bringing this matter to a happy consummation, and enough money has already been secured from the men to make it certain that the company will be called upon to the full limit of its proposition. A somewhat unique feature of this canvass was the response of the shop men. The company has 180 men in its shops at Du Bois, and when the subscription paper was circulated among them every man pledged something, the amounts varying from 50c. to $30.

In addition to the study of the B. R. & P. road, I have made a careful investigation of the entire Erie system and have devoted some time to an examination, from our standpoint, of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad in New York.

Since entering the service of the International Committee I have attended state conventions in Nebraska, Michigan and Virginia, and provincial conventions at Bradford, Brockville, Campbellton and St. John. I have also attended two international secretaries' conferences, the international railroad conference, and a conference of Canadian railroad secretaries at Toronto.

More than two months last year were devoted to the International Committee's work among the soldiers and sailors. I aided in the organization of the work at Camp Alger and also represented the committee in visits to Jacksonville, Tampa, Key West and Miami.

In addition to the work outlined above, attention has been given to the visitation of associations, correspondence, conferences with railroad officials, committee teas, anniversary addresses, etc.

REPORT OF G. D. McDILL,

Secretary Railroad Department.

I was employed as railroad secretary January, 1898, and my efforts have been chiefly directed toward the establishment of railroad associations along the lines of the Santa Fe Railway, that company having made a proposition that it would furnish the land for the location, and three-fourths of the money for the erection of ten thousand dollar association buildings at Argentine, Kansas, and Cleburne and Temple, Texas ; also having offered to pay the salaries of the secretaries at those points and materially assist in the running expenses of the associations when opened.

At Argentine the financial canvass was closed about the middle of March. In July the railway company purchased a site for the building at a cost of over $1,200. The contract was let November 12, and the building is now approaching completion.

At Temple the financial canvass occupied three days in April and the first week in July. A sufficient amount was secured to provide a building costing, furnished, $12,000. The contract was let October 22, and construction is now under way.

At Cleburne, ten days in May and the last three weeks of July were used in securing pledges, insuring the erection of a $10,500 building, the plans for which are completed and approved.

Much time has been given to the building plans and to the selection and securing of locations, especially for Argentine.

In May a visit was made to the city association at Chadron, which finally resulted in its reorganization, September 28, as a railroad association.

In June, in company with Field Secretary Gates, a trip of inspection was made of the railroad associations along the line of the Union Pacific.

I have attended three state conventions, one state conference of secretaries, the general secretaries' conference at Winona Lake, Indiana, international secretaries' conference at Belmar, New Jersey, and the railroad conference at Fort Wayne, Indiana.

REPORT OF FRED B. SHIPP,

Secretary Railroad Department.

The following report covers a period of nine months, dating from April 1, 1898, when my engagement with the International Committee began. Since then the time has been divided between three departments as follows:

Field Work.—During the month of April three weeks were spent at Scranton, Pa., organizing and conducting a building canvass, which was progressing very satisfactorily when the outbreak of the war suddenly stopped it. After this a week or more was spent in Maryland, visiting Frederick and Hagerstown.

Army Work.—Early in May I was asked by the committee to assist in opening the work in the army, and a trip was made to Chattanooga, and afterwards to Tampa, Fla., where I remained until the close of the month inaugurating the work at that point. A second period of three weeks was given to this department during the summer, when I took charge of the work at Camp Thomas, Chickamunga, until relieved by the appointment of Mr. Banks.

Railroad Work.—The southwest has been assigned to me by the railroad department, with headquarters in St. Louis, where many of the roads traversing this territory have their general offices. Some measure of work has been done on the following roads:

(1) Missouri Pacific system.—An investigation of this entire system has been made at the request of the management, and a report submitted covering the seventeen divisions and terminal points visited. The report has been favorably received and instructions given to proceed with the establishment of associations.

(2) M. K. & T.—A similar investigation was made for the officials of this line and report prepared. Assurance has already been received that appropriations will be granted at two points.

(3) St. L. & S. F.—As stated in Mr. Hamilton's report, an appropriation of $6,000 toward an $8,000 building at Monett, Mo., has been secured from the president of this line and the money to be raised locally is being secured at the time of this writing.

(4) Texas & Pacific.—At the urgent request of a number of the men an investigation was made at Longview Junction, Texas, and a report will shortly be presented.

REPORT OF W. A. HUNTON.

Secretary Colored Men's Department.

City associations.—As in former years, a very large proportion (three-sevenths) of my time was devoted to work in cities. Sixty-eight visits were made to sixteen cities in eight different states. In addition to conducting gospel meetings and Bible classes, and counselling with boards of directors, committees and individuals, I assisted in organizing three new city associations, secured secretaries for two, and assisted in financial work at New Haven, Baltimore, Norfolk and Richmond.

Among students.—I made eighty-five visits to thirty-seven educational institutions in ten different states. Special attention was directed to the promotion of Bible study, the development of volunteer workers, and the introduction of more system and thoroughness into the work. Fully one-third of these student associations have attractive rooms for their exclusive use.

Although there are yet sixty-five schools in this field in which associations should be organized, it is very significant that active work is now carried on in eighty-seven per cent of the larger and more important institutions attended by colored students.

Conferences, etc.—I attended the International Convention and the secretaries' conference, the conferences of the International Committee and secretaries at Belmar in 1897 and 1898, the three annual interstate conferences of colored associations at Raleigh, Asheville and Charlotte, and the student volunteer convention.

Army work.—Nine weeks were devoted to work among colored troops. I located tents with two regiments, assisted in the work of two others, visited five camps, secured six army secretaries, and devoted nearly two weeks to financial solicitation in Virginia and North Carolina.

Correspondence.—Arranging the details for three interstate conferences, pushing the "fall campaign," urging the faithful observance of the week of prayer for young men and the day of prayer for students, and otherwise keeping in close touch with sixty-five associations by mail, required over ten weeks of office work, besides some part of nearly every other working day for correspondence.

Assistant secretary.—On the first of November, 1898, J. E. Moorland entered the service of the International Committee as assistant secretary in the colored men's department. He assisted in conducting the Charlotte conference, in establishing the work in Baltimore on a larger and more permanent basis, and secured a competent man for its secretaryship, the first in that field.

Professor Warren G. Waterman, of Fiske University, has aided the work of this department very effectively in our conferences and in visitation of various college associations. Professor Waterman reports: "During the three months in which I have co-operated with Messrs. Hunton and Moorland as a special representative of the International Committee, I have visited nineteen associations in colleges for colored young men and have attended three of the four conferences held among these associations during this college year. My visits to college associations have generally been for the purpose of securing delegates to the conferences and to deepen the interest of students and teachers in our work. An address on the World's Student Christian Federation, with illustrations drawn from personal experience of the work abroad, has usually proved very helpful in giving to many a better idea of the importance and scope of the Young Men's Christian Association.

"The three conferences which I attended were given up to a technical consideration of association organization and work, and to addresses and discussions on all forms of Christian effort and the deepening of the Christian life. These conferences were eminently successful and their continuance, for the present at least, seems to be imperatively demanded, for they take the place of a summer conference which seems to be impracticable for colored students on account of their poverty and the necessity of their working all summer to secure the means for studying in the winter. We hope that these local conferences may educate the students into the 'conference habit' and prepare the way for a summer gathering. The work of the recently organized Personal Service League was also fully presented and bands are being organized wherever practicable. The league is being received with interest, and it seems to meet a very definite need."

REPORT OF CHARLES A. EASTMAN,

Secretary Indian Department.

During 1897 I visited the Crow Indians, upon their reservation in Montana, with the hope of organizing associations like those among the Sioux nation; but I found that the religious work there was still in its infancy, and that it would require much of the time of an experienced man to get them into proper form ; so I abandoned the idea. However, I urged all the returned students who had some knowledge of association work to organize weekly meetings for the purpose of bringing the subject before the young men of the tribe. I also visited the Flandrau and Sisseton associations.

By arrangement with the International Committee much of my time during the year was devoted to other matters for my tribe, and my relation to the committee was formally severed April 1, 1898. In July following, Arthur T. Tibbetts, who had just completed a three years' course of training at the Springfield school, entered upon work among his tribe, the Sioux, devoting to it all his time and attention. His work has already been fruitful, and I hear good accounts of him from all sources.

REPORT OF ARTHUR T. TIBBETTS,

Secretary Indian Department.

During my six months of service I have visited every association and held many conferences with them. Personal purity and personal work were emphasized. Reading rooms have been established in the associations at Cannon Ball, North Dakota and Santee Agency, Nebraska. The Indian young men readily avail themselves of the privileges of the associations, and the work is growing in favor with the missionaries and native workers.

REPORT OF L. D. WISHARD,

Secretary Foreign Department.

Of the two years 1897 and 1898, covered by this report, the year 1897 was devoted to the administration in America of the work conducted by the committee in foreign lands.

The last months of 1896 saw the foreign force increased by the arrival in India of George Sherwood Eddy and Wilbert W. White, and in Ceylon of Louis Hieb, making the number of the committee's representatives abroad at that time eleven. This administration involved correspondence with the men on the field, the providing of the foreign budget, and the search for and enlistment of men for new positions. Five men were secured—Galen M. Fisher and George Benton Smith, the former going to Japan and the latter to India in December, 1897, and Robert R. Gailey, Robert E. Lewis and F. S. Brockman, all three of whom went to China in 1898.

In addition to the regular administrative work and attendance upon conventions, the foreign secretary attended the student conferences at Knoxville and Northfield, and also participated in the second meeting of the World's Student Christian Federation at Williamstown in July. The closing weeks of the year were devoted to the securing of the foreign budget for 1898, previous to entering upon a year's leave of absence which had been granted by the committee in order that a special work for the forward movement of the Presbyterian Board might be undertaken.

A brief review of the work in foreign lands during the two years shows the completion of the building for the Imperial University association in Tokyo, the dedication of the student building in Calcutta, and the building in Rio de Janeiro, and the approximate completion of the building in Madras. This will probably be dedicated in April, 1899. This period has seen the location and inauguration of the work of the five men referred to above—Galen M. Fisher, as the student secretary for Japan; Robert R. Gailey in Tientsin, Robert E. Lewis in Shanghai, F. S. Brockman in Nanking, and George Benton Smith in Madras.

The direct results of the work have been marked and gratifying, deep spiritual impressions being reported from all the fields.

At the expiration of the year's leave of absence the foreign secretary returned to the committee for a few weeks, when a call to conduct a forward movement in the interest of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions led him to present to the committee his resignation. Its acceptance by the committee severed a relationship of twenty-two years, which had been given to work among students in America, and in enlisting them for missionary service in other lands.

REPORT OF J. T. SWIFT,

Secretary for Japan.

The year 1897, while it brought its proper share of opportunity and of work, seems upon review to furnish but scanty materials for a report. Very naturally the larger portion of your secretary's time has been devoted to matters growing out of Mr. Mott's visit and its results.

Mr. Mott left Japan January 28th. Immediately afterwards came the preparation for securing and sending a delegate to the world's federation convention at Northfield. The raising of funds and the arranging of meetings preparatory to President Ibuka's going consumed much time. Conferences were arranged with the student associations in the neighborhood of Tokyo and correspondence maintained with those at a distance.

Indeed, throughout the entire year, our work felt the compulsion arising out of a new and unusual situation not wholly understood by the student associations affected by it. Until President Ibuka had returned from America and reported to the associations, the newly formed union was little less than a name. Standing as a first attempt at a national organization amongst the associations of Japan it had attracted wide attention, and yet its connection with similar organizations in other lands tended to add to the work in Japan a certain phase of vagueness and to bring upon the whole enterprise severe criticism from some of the leading periodicals of the empire.

To offset these difficulties S. Ito, a recent graduate of the Imperial University and recording secretary of the central committee of the student union, undertook a thorough visitation of the associations in the western and southern parts of the empire. This mission of Mr. Ito's was carried out with great thoroughness and at the sacrifice of personal interests of considerable importance. His visitation, emphasizing as it did the earnest purpose of the association in the Imperial University and the lively interest of it and the other student associations in Tokyo and vicinity, was of great service in strengthening the bonds between the associations which Mr. Mott had brought together in the formative convention of the union. A similar tour of visitation was undertaken by President Ibuka, together with Mr. Sasabe of the Imperial University association, among the associations near Tokyo. Much time and thoughtful help was also given by President Honda and President Oshikawa, and thus was tided over what was in the opinion of many, a very critical stage in the history of this latest growth of the association work in Japan.

Although not directly connected with the student associations, it has always been our custom to mention the students' summer school. The session of 1897 was a marked improvement upon those which preceded it. It was held in September just before the opening of the fall terms, and the deep spiritual impression which it left upon the students who attended it acted as another favorable circumstance to foster the national student movement. At this summer school a strong effort was made to bring about some reconstruction which should place it in closer and perhaps official relations with the Student Young Men's Christian Association Union of Japan. Considerations of economy, also, would suggest the propriety of merging this annual meeting of Christian students with the general convention of the union, and yet the matter is not free from perplexities. The question will doubtless come up for final decision in the session to be held in July of the present year. It is a great source of hope that the committee in charge of the summer school and the speakers are in such close sympathy with the objects of the student union. The session of September, 1897, was attended by 143 students, 116 male and 27 female. The principal speakers were President Honda, of the Methodist college, Aoyama, Dr. Motoda, of the Episcopal mission, Rev. K. Miyama, of the Methodist church, Dr. Asada, of the Methodist college, Rev. D. Ebina, of the Congregational church, and Dr. Wainright, of the Kwansei Gakuin, Kobe. The meetings of this session were unusually helpful, spiritually.

During the latter part of the year at the meeting of the central committee of the union Mr. Ibuka reported the results of his attendance upon the World's Student Federation convention. and a request was made of the International Committee for aid to the college Christian union of Japan. This request was subsequently granted. During the year the number of associations which Mr. Mott left as twenty-seven increased to thirty-one. Of these fifteen were in government institutions, fourteen in mission schools, and two in private non-Christian schools. The total membership at the end of the year was not reported. During the year there have been published the constitution of the union and Mr. Mott's two addresses on Bible Study and Secret Prayer, both in English and Japanese, and also the Cycle of Prayer, prepared for use in the union.

Any report of this work would be incomplete if special mention were not made of the very earnest part taken in it by the association in the Imperial University. Though having to contend with very considerable opposition from unsympathetic alumni it has from the first taken a leading part in the organization and development of the student union, and has made good use of its influential position to strengthen the hands of weaker associations in the interior. It has also been the means of leading into membership in the union, student associations in institutions of importance.

The work of the Tokyo association has been quietly maintained, its staff of workers remaining as heretofore. The statistics given below will indicate the general character of the work, but do not represent the larger influence of its secretaries, Mr. Niwa and Mr. Matsumura, upon either the student work or the wider interests of Christian young manhood which they have both served with zeal. Number of members at the end of 1897, 525 ; number of lectures delivered in the hall, 43, at which 6,579 students attended. There have been 20 Sunday evangelistic meetings attended by 2,675 young men ; 20 Bible classes attended by 480 ; five inquirers' meetings attended by 120. There has been an average monthly attendance of 123 students in the evening school. The amount of money contributed by the members of the association during the year was 501 Yen (about $250). There has, however, been a decided growth in respect of the better organization of the association, due to the efforts of its president, Captain R. Serata, I. J. N.

It is a gratifying circumstance to us that during the last year the Tokyo association building has more than ever been used by the churches in Tokyo for purposes of their own, thus contributing its part to distinctive church work and to the enterprises of the various missions.

In addition to the Tokyo association there are this year reported some fifteen other city associations. Aside from the influence upon these associations exerted by the correspondence which the Tokyo association has been able to maintain with them, it has been impossible to do anything for their development, your secretary's time having been fully occupied by the work above reported.

The visit, in November, of Dr. L. C. Warner, chairman of the International Committee, brought us no little help and encouragement. Notwithstanding the fact that his stay in Japan was necessarily brief he devoted a large portion of it to an investigation of the problems confronting the committee's secretaries. For this they will always be grateful to him. His patience in investigation, and his carefully considered counsels were most helpful, and equally appreciated was his manifest sympathy with their Japanese associates. Could such visits be repeated at short intervals they would undoubtedly do much good.

R. S. Miller, the committee's honorary secretary, has continued to devote as much time and strength to the committee's work as it has been possible for him to command outside of his official duties. He has rendered valuable services as a counsellor, and has done much to develop the boarding house department of the Tokyo association. Edward Gauntlett has continued to serve faithfully as assistant. Without his aid it would have been impossible to deal with the large correspondence which has characterized this year's work.

The year 1898 has been fully treated in the reports of President Ibuka and Mr. Fisher, respectively the committee's corresponding member and college secretary in Japan. To their accounts I may only add that in addition to the usual routine work of the secretaryship, my time during the first four months of the year was devoted to the making of preparations for the student conferences in Osaka and Nagasaki. At the former the faculty and students of the Church Missionary Society's school were the hosts ; at the latter the schools of the American Methodist and Dutch Reformed missions entertained the delegates. Both conferences were considered satisfactory and helpful by the Christian students in their respective districts, and also by missionary friends.

My service in Japan terminated on the 22d day of May, 1898.

For all the expressions of confidence and good will that since my resignation have come to me from the committee and from many friends connected with the association, I am very grateful. My years of work with them were very happy years, and the friendships made in them will, I trust, live always in my thoughts and prayers.

REPORT OF R. S. MILLER,

Secretary in Japan.

The general supervision of the work of the associations in Japan, on behalf of the International Committee, was in the hands of Mr. Swift until the end of May 1898, as outlined in the report of the corresponding member for Japan. (See page 69.)

Since that time I have been in constant consultation with the officers and secretaries of the associations in regard to the maintenance and development of the work.

REPORT OF GALEN M. FISHER.

Secretary in Japan.

My service with the International Committee dates from September 1897, when I began active preparation for entering upon my work in Japan. I sailed from San Francisco December 18, 1897, and after a brief visit, including some association work, at Honolulu, arrived in Japan January 16, 1898. During the past year my time has been almost equally divided between study of the Japanese language and association work. In the spring of 1898 it was my privilege to accompany Mr. Swift and President Ibuka on trips through southern Japan, when we visited twelve associations and attended two district training conferences. The starting of the bi-monthly magazine, The Student Christian Union, and preparation for and attendance upon both the first general convention of the union and the student summer school, consumed the greater part of June and July. During the summer I helped prepare a pamphlet, The Student Young Men's Christian Association: History and Work, and Bible Study Outlines on the Life of Paul. The principal duties of the remainder of the year were editing the magazine and further Bible study outlines, assisting at the Tokyo district training conference, leading two Bible classes, one of them a normal training class, teaching in the Tokyo association English night school, and establishing Bible study in all the associations by personal visitation and correspondence. Altogether it has been a very happy, busy year.

REPORT OF DAVID McCONAUGHY, JR.,

Secretary for India.

Since the 4th National Convention, held in Calcutta at the opening of 1897, a largeshare of my time has been given to the erection of the new building of the Madras association, now nearly ready for occupancy

Its cost when finished, furnished and provided with a lighting plant, will be about $66,000, which is fully provided for. The government of Madras, in addition to a grant of 24,973 rupees (about $8,300) has allowed us the services of the consulting architect (at a nominal fee) and supplied us first-class bricks from the government kilns at a special discount of 14½%, thus making its actual contribution amount to nearly as much again as the money grant. Being the first building in Madras built of stone, it has a unique and exceedingly handsome effect. The coöperation of leading local firms has been enlisted by the ladies' auxiliary in the furnishing. Provision is made for more than forty young men to reside under our roof, and Rev. L. P. Larsen, a graduate of the University of Copenhagen, with ten years' experience in work among the students of Madras and an exceptional command of the Tamil language, has accepted the call to become manager of the hostel and leader of the university settlement.

On completing my ninth year as general secretary of the Madras association, I have just been relieved of the management of the local work, though still continuing to serve as secretary of the newly constituted board of trustees and of the financial committee of the board of directors, and retaining also the leadership of one of the gospel meetings and of two of the Bible classes. As G. Benton Smith is acting as general secretary, he will no doubt report on the local work, which is in more vigorous operation than ever.

The Young Men of India, which during my furlough was edited in Calcutta, was brought back again to Madras last year, and is now on a firm footing, steadily widening its sphere of influence. I have made tours to Travancore, to Ceylon and to the Bombay Presidency. There are now over one hundred associations in our national union. There are four general secretaries from America, six from Great Britain, and six Indian secretaries.

REPORT OF GEORGE BENTON SMITH,

Secretary in India.

In January of the present year our association celebrated its ninth anniversary. The following summary of the general secretary's report will furnish the essential facts concerning the work of the past year :

The membership increased from 425 at the opening of last year to 521 at its close, of whom 429 are Indian and 92 European ; 263 are Christian, 236 Hindu, 20 Mohammedan, 1 Parsee and 1 Buddhist ; 397 belong at Black Town, 59 at Vepery, and 65 at Royapettah.

The athletic department has been put on a better basis, the receipts more nearly approximating the expenditures.

The educational department has enrolled 129 different students in bookkeeping, banking, commercial correspondence, phonography and type-writing, and about one-fourth as many more have of late been refused admission to the type-writing class for lack of accommodation. Elementary classes are carried on at the Vepery and Royapettah branches, as well as in the central rooms. On moving into the new building, this department gives promise of great development.

The social side has been better cared for at both the branches than at the central rooms, where a lack of room has permitted little besides the fortnightly "social hours" arranged by members, and the members' quarterly reception under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary.

Spiritual.—Four Bible classes, three gospel meetings, and three devotional meetings for young men are regularly held, besides visitation of the sick, distribution of literature and open-air work. It is our constant aim, both by practice and precept, to bring young men in vital contact with the only Saviour of Men and Lord of All.

The budget has amounted to Rs. 6,503. Of this Rs. 3,236 came from members, and Rs. 2,227 from contributors, the remainder being realized from the restaurant, government grant, etc.

The new building will be ready for occupancy in April, and our association will then have a home that will bear comparison with the very best association building anywhere.

The student settlement will be in operation before the end of the present year. Our board of directors has called Rev. L. P. Larsen, of Denmark, to the head of the settlement, and with two or three American graduates to assist him we hope for great things in this department. The hostel, accommodating 42 students will open in the autumn.

The new year gives much promise of better things for the Master than ever before, and with eyes fixed on Him we mean to move forward.

REPORT OF J. CAMPBELL WHITE,

Secretary in India.

Though we got possession of the new college association property in Calcutta in October, 1896, the alterations were not completed so that we could open the main part of the building till July, 1897. But the work has gone on without interruption since then. The chief features of the work are: (1) reading rooms, (a) for the public, (b) for members, (2) public gospel meetings, three times each week; (3) open-air evangelistic meetings, in English and Bengali, twice each week; (4) personal interviews, (5) visitation of students in boarding houses and at their homes; (6) Bible classes, both for Christians and for non-Christians; (7) prayer meetings, (8) distribution of literature, (9) literary and social meetings.

The general average attendance at the building for all purposes is about 300 young men daily; the average attendance at gospel meetings is about 500 per week, nearly all of whom are Hindoos.

Four men have been baptized, three Hindoos and one Mohammedan. One of the Hindoos afterwards recanted, because of the persecutions he received. We believe that some others have been converted, and many others have been brought nearer to Christ through the work.

The college association property, worth $75,000, though still $20,000 in debt, has definite pledges for more than that amount, which it hopes soon to realize.

The central department, with 300 European members, has supported its own secretary during the past two years and has accomplished much for the spiritual life of the young men in business. About fifty young men have professed conversion during this time. My relation to the whole work in Calcutta, continues to be that of general secretary.

I have during the past two years acted as the college secretary of the National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association, and also as the chairman of the executive committee of the Student Volunteer Movement. Though not able to travel extensively on account of the demands of the work at Calcutta, several short tours of visitation have been made.

During the past year I have been made the secretary of the Calcutta Bible Institute, which is seeking to stimulate Bible study both in Calcutta and throughout India. Encouraging progress has already been made.

REPORT OF WILBERT W. WHITE,

Secretary in India.

The beginning of 1897 found me in Calcutta, India, which city I had reached just one week before, on Christmas day, 1896, having gone to India in response to a call for additional help in the work among the students of India, especially in the institutions of Calcutta. During a residence of fifteen months, including the working seasons of the two years contemplated in my engagement, the time was devoted to work among the students of the city, and to attendance upon conferences of missionaries and student bodies in different parts of India and Ceylon. Some of these were almost distinctively student conferences, others were attended by large numbers of both students and missionaries, while a few were attended almost exclusively by missionary delegates. I regard my work among them as no unimportant part of my service, for I am glad to state that the missionaries look with great faith and confidence to the influence and future results of the work of the association throughout the whole Indian empire.

One cannot speak in too emphatic terms of the possibilities for work among the 20,000 students who are in the institutions of Calcutta and within reach of the student building. Meetings of various kinds—evangelistic, Bible study, etc.—are held each week. It is possible not only to address several hundred non-Christian students in a single meeting weekly, but one had the priceless privilege of sitting down for personal talks and Scripture reading with many native students, who are leaving the religions in which they have been brought up and are seeking new light and a knowledge of Christianity.

Besides the direct work among the students, two lines of effort are greatly needed, which will have a far-reaching influence upon the work of the association in the future when permanently established, namely, a work among boys and the establishment of a Bible institute. The latter has already been begun in a small way. I have also undertaken to circulate—through report letters and otherwise—information about the field and work, especially among the members of the constituency enlisted before my departure from America.

On my return, in the summer of 1898, I was privileged to attend the summer conference of the British College Christian Union at Ripon. Here, as well as in London, I had the opportunity of speaking of my two years' experience in India and, by divine help, of stimulating an interest in the work of the International Committee in that and other foreign lands.

I reached America in August, profoundly grateful for the privilege of sharing thus in the work of extending the kingdom of God, through the association, in the Indian peninsula.

REPORT OF GEORGE SHERWOOD EDDY,

Secretary in India.

I left America in October, 1896, and touched land in Bombay, India, November 17, just one month from the date of sailing from New York. Among my first duties was attendance upon a series of conferences which had been arranged for the cold season. Five of these were held in the great university centers of Calcutta, Poona, Madras, Lahore, and Allahabad, beginning on January 1. These were followed by similar conferences in June in Ceylon. The eight conferences were attended by over 1,200 students and 1,800 missionaries and other delegates. The deepening of the spiritual lives of those in attendance, and the stimulation of a desire and purpose for more Bible study and a truer devotional life will have their fruitage in the near future.

After a period of rest in the hills I made a tour of southern India, reaching Madras for work with Mr. McConaughy and Mr. Smith in the Madras association during the week of prayer in November.

Early in 1898 several weeks were devoted to visitation on the east coast, including the missions among the Telugus. In my visitation of colleges and other work I have acted as secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement of India and Ceylon, and also represented, as associate college secretary, the National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association of India.

REPORT OF LOUIS HIEB,

Secretary for Ceylon.

As the few weeks which I spent in Ceylon, in 1896, were devoted to a rapid survey of the field, the report of the past two years will be practically a resumé of my entire work in Ceylon. Fully three-fourths of my time has been given to Colombo, while I have also been trying to keep in touch with associations and openings for such in other parts of the Island.

Early in 1897 I found the Colombo association in a sadly disorganized state, and resolved at once to re-organize it, which was finally effected at the close of February. The new constitution involved two radical changes: (1) The evangelical tests for active membership, and (2) the investing of the management in a board of directors, with sub-committees, in place of the previous general committee which did not believe in sub-committees. This board of directors is composed of more representative men than have hitherto been identified with the association; comprising two members of the Legislative Council, two missionaries, two physicians, four instructors, two newspaper editors, and other well-known business men. The two years of operations under the new régime have been very satisfactory ; the membership has increased to 200 ; the rented quarters have been doubled in size to accommodate the increased attendance at the rooms which is nearly twice that of two years ago ; the religious meetings have been held with regularity and a much larger attendance. Other features of the present work are a fortnightly lecture course, informal social hours, a book club, with over 300 up-to-date volumes of Christian literature, the sub-letting of a portion of the premises to accommodate seven or eight members with lodgings, and plans developing for classes in type-writing, shorthand, and other commercial subjects. The financial budget of the association while nearly one hundred per cent greater than that of 1896 is in a healthy condition. Newspapers, which two years ago poked fun at the association, now recognize and support it as a public institution of force in the community.

With the beginning of 1898, after three of the Colombo colleges failed in the attempt to maintain separate associations, the Colombo association established in the student centre an intercollegiate branch. The failure of the individual associations was due to the simple fact that there is not in any of these institutions a sufficiently large number of mature Christian young men to maintain an association. The work of the intercollegiate branch is confined mainly to the students of the Royal, City, Wesley, Law, and Technical colleges aggregating 1,100 students. These colleges are all within a radius of half a mile from the small house opened with a reading room, and hours appointed for gospel meetings, lectures, and a Bible class. The difficulties facing us in this work arise from the fact that only thirty per cent of the students are fifteen years of age and over, and from the fact that only forty boys in three schools are resident at the schools.

Kandy, the second city of importance on the Island, has an unenviable record of at least two defunct associations, so-called. Shortly after my arrival an effort was made to start another, but because of my insistence on the evangelical test, the organization took another name. I still endeavored to assist them as far as practicable, but after a year's effort, the disbanding process was again gone through with. This history renders it difficult to obtain an opportunity to organize a proper association in this place. There is, however, an association there for Sinhalese young men, which was organized by a member of the Colombo association who went to Kandy to engage in business in October, 1897. Having a few native men in his employ, he opened the second floor of his establishment as a reading and social room, and another for meetings. These employees were then invited to bring their friends, with the result of the establishing an association of twenty-eight or thirty young men of several denominations, besides Buddhists. These young men are conducting the largest Sunday school in Kandy, under the name of the "Kandy Singing Band."

Batticaloa is the largest town on the east coast of Ceylon, practically accessible only by steamer. I visited the town in October of last year. An association had been organized for "literary work" in August, 1897, but I am glad to state it is now keeping the supreme object of the association in its proper place. They have no rooms, and its main work is by meetings and Bible classes. With the exception of three or four scattered attempts at organizing associations where the field is clearly not ripe for it, all other association effort in Ceylon is confined to the Jaffna peninsula, the extreme northern part of the Island. There are in this province five school associations, twelve village associations, and one town association organized but a few months since. The total membership of these associations is above 500. They are organized into the North Ceylon Union of Young Men's Christian Associations. Early in 1897 the union engaged as secretary the services of a Tamil young man who had several years experience as an assistant secretary of the Madras (India) association. The efficiency of the association has been greatly increased by this step. The town association has recently rented a bungalow, and is shaping its work to do aggressive work among the 40,000 young men of the town, and the many who come in from the surrounding districts. I visited this and the other associations of the province during October, and found them on the whole doing good work.

REPORT OF MYRON A. CLARK,

Secretary for Brazil.

The years 1897 and 1898 have been years of marked progress in the Rio de Janeiro association, which is as yet the only association that has received much attention from your secretary. Work on the construction of the building had been just begun in December, 1896, when my last report was made. The months from January to July, of 1897, were spent in close attention to the details of construction, and in preparing for furlough; a temporary native secretary was chosen and somewhat prepared, and a subscription raised for his salary. The year in the United States was spent partly in rest and visiting, and partly in an active canvass for funds for the building; the time chosen for the latter effort could not have been worse, owing to the excitement regarding war with Spain, and the result was complete failure. I attended several state conventions and the student volunteer convention; in a number of associations addresses were made on the general foreign work of the committee, and on the needs of my own field. I returned to Brazil in July, 1898, taking up once more the routine work of the Rio association.

During my absence the work had been carried on vigorously, thus demonstrating the vitality and devotion of the active membership of the association. Work on the building was so nearly completed in December, 1897, that the association moved in on the 30th, the first meeting being a midnight watch service for the coming in of 1898. Owing to the lack of furniture the dedication did not take place till November 1st, at which time with appropriate program and a crowded house the ceremony was most successfully carried out. The building is still encumbered with a debt of $32,000, but the income from rentals from the store rooms and offices on the first floor more than covers the interest on the debt, leaving a small margin for creating a sinking fund. It is hoped that before the second mortgage ($12,000) matures in 1901, sufficient help from friends will have been received to cancel it, thus enabling us to carry the other mortgage along, and eventually cancel it also.

The increase in attendance in the new building and at the meetings has been steady, and the association is in a far more prosperous condition today than ever before. Evening classes are now being conducted in five subjects, with an average attendance of eight as against five formerly. A course of lectures or practical talks has been inaugurated with an average attendance of about fifty, which has proven very attractive indeed. Through the generosity of a friend a large magic lantern with 1,300 views has been secured, and a series of entertainments has been inaugurated. The library has grown to 750 volumes, and is now being classified and arranged under the direction of a competent librarian, a recent graduate of our theological seminary, and assistant pastor of one of our city churches. The reading room is becoming more popular through the addition of the daily papers to the list of periodicals on file. The gospel meetings, prayer meetings, and a Bible class have been carried on as usual, though with increased attendance. Twenty-two of our associate members have professed Christ during these two years and joined the church, many of them in large part due to the influence of the association. The membership now numbers 234 as against 158 two years ago, and 98 four years ago.

Official recognition of the association has been recently obtained; the board of directors solicited an audience with the new President of the Republic, Dr. Campos Salles, which was granted. During the interview a Bible was presented him, together with various pamphlets on association work. In response the President thanked the association and gave evidence of an interest in the existence of such a society, and a desire for its continued prosperity.

During the past six months a beginning has been made in creating an association literature and spreading an intelligent conception of association work. Three pamphlets have been published and circulated in this period, and since September 1st a small weekly paper, entitled "A. C. M.," devoted to association interests, has been edited and published; all this, of course, in the Portuguese language.

It is a pleasure to report that there is a probability of realizing in the near future a long cherished plan, namely, the sending to the Springfield Training School for a three years' course of study, of a young Brazilian, for training as secretary for the Rio association, this being made possible through the disinterested kindness of Dr. Doggett in helping to assume his support. Upon the completion of his course, the association will be in a position to pay a salary and will thus become self-supporting, when your secretary can establish headquarters and begin again at some other important point.

The work outside of Rio de Janeiro has not as yet assumed any definite proportions, though associations have been organized in São Paulo, Campos, Pelotas and Bello Horizonte; while in Porto Alegre plans are now maturing for organization. Those in São Paulo and Campos are in a state of suspended animation, and I fear that the same is true of the others. It is a pity that close confinement in Rio prevents such visitation of these associations as might possibly preserve them in activity, but this condition must continue until provision is made for the secretaryship in Rio.

REPORT OF D. WILLARD LYON.

Secretary for China.

At the beginning of the year 1897, Mrs. Lyon and I had just taken up our residence in the then unfinished building erected for the Young Men's Christian Association of Tientsin through the generosity of Mrs. J. Livingstone Taylor, of Cleveland. The duties of watching the details of the completion of the building, made all the more absorbing because of having to deal with a tricky contractor, took no small amount of my time until the dedication of the building in June of that year. At the same time the sudden development of the national work as a result of Mr. Mott's tour in China during the summer and fall of 1896, made it necessary at once to begin the publication of a little Chinese monthly—The Chinese Intercollegian—as a means of educating the new associations on the methods of association work, and of preserving something of the spirit of the meetings which were so fruitfully conducted by Mr. Mott. It was necessary, of course, that this editorial work should be done through an interpreter; only those who have had experience with training a raw English-speaking native to do accurate translating on lines with which he is utterly unfamiliar can appreciate the difficulties under which I labored. In the fall of 1897 I was absent from Tientsin for about a month on a tour south, to attend the annual meeting of the National Committee. Otherwise my time was wholly given to the lines already indicated, to the Tientsin local association, and to language study.

The first three months of 1898 were spent in work along the same lines. In April, however, it was my privilege to go to Shanghai to meet Messrs. Lewis and Gailey and their families, who were being sent out to be our long prayed for colleagues. The joy of my heart can be imagined as I saw the tender heave into sight on the Woosung river, and was able a few moments later, as it came along-side the jetty, to leap on board and grasp their warm hearted hands. Mr. Lewis was left in Shanghai to cooperate with the local association for a few months, and to study the situation in Central China, while Mr. Gailey joined me in the voyage to Tientsin, where, on the first of May, he was duly installed in his position as general secretary of the Tientsin association. I then moved my family to T'ungchou, the river port of Peking, and began giving myself more entirely to the study of the Chinese language, while at the same time throwing off my translator for the Intercollegian and wading into the depths of editorial work with only a good Chinese writer who understood no English to keep me from sinking. Although the labor of editing the monthly has been thus greatly increased, I have the satisfaction of feeling that nothing gets into it, the meaning of which I do not comprehend. In the fall of 1898 I spent about two months in a tour of visitation, being permitted to visit twenty-two associations. I also attended the National Committee meeting in the fall, when it was decided that I should be permitted to spend my time exclusively on the Intercollegian and on language study, except such time as it was absolutely necessary to give to general supervision; while Mr. Lewis was given the responsible task of acting as traveling secretary. It was during this tour south that I was given the great happiness of welcoming Mr. Brockman and his wife and child to the field. At the advice of the National Committee he has been located at Nanking for the single purpose of language study.

The past two years have thus been full of encouragement. A rapidly enlarging work, an increased force of workers, the political awakening of China, the needs of the young men of China, all point to a future fraught with great possibilities and tremendous responsibilities.

REPORT OF ROBERT E. LEWIS,

Secretary in China.

In April 1897 I was appointed to China as secretary of the International Committee. However, I was given leave of absence until March 1898, in order that I might serve as traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement. My salary and expenses during this leave of absence were borne entirely by the volunteer movement. During this time I visited prominent colleges in Massachusetts, Vermont, New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Colorado and California. I also participated in thirteen conferences and conventions, including the student summer schools in California, Lake Geneva and Northfield, and the Williamstown meeting of the World's Student Christian Federation. During the year I was able to secure pledges for my support, for five years, as secretary of the International Committee in China.

The first two months of 1898 were spent, as secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, in Cleveland, in preparation for the convention. In addition to conducting the local arrangements a large correspondence with colleges was carried on. As chairman of the press committee an important part of my work was in dealing with over 4 000 daily, weekly and monthly papers. In the early part of the year a pamphlet was written for the volunteer movement.

I now take up the last ten months of 1898. In March, immediately at the close of the above convention, I started with my family for Shanghai, China. At Hawaii an opportunity was given for visiting one city and two college associations. On invitation of Mr. Swift, President Ibuka, and the Central Committee of Japan, I returned in July to Japan for three months' work. Mr. Swift having in the meantime left for America, I co-operated with Messrs. Miller and Fisher in laying plans for the college and city work for the coming year. I participated in the national convention of Japan, as well as the student summer school. The study of the problems in over twenty-five associations also aided me in coming in touch with the great possibilities of the work.

It was a pleasure to become identified with the National Committee of China, composed of able, experienced men. At the October meeting of this committee I was asked to become traveling secretary for China. During the closing months of 1898 visitation was made to the great, but widely-separated, student centres of Nanking, Shanghai, Peking, Tientsin and Foochow. Student conferences were held at Nanking, Shanghai, Tungchow and Foochow, at each of which I co-operated with one or more of the other secretaries of the International Committee in China. These four conferences were attended by 1,026 Chinese students. During the conferences and visitation 645 students and missionaries covenanted to keep the morning watch.

The National Committee of China having decided that it was necessary to have one man give all his time to the traveling work in order to hold, strengthen and extend the college association movement, it leaves unsolved very serious questions in regard to the great cities of Shanghai and Hong Kong. Each of these cities has several thousand foreign together with several hundred thousand Chinese residents. There are no greater commercial centers in the far east. In them are the commercial leaders of China, the men who are aroused to western ideas, and hundreds of students. In each there should be a fully organized metropolitan association, with a building and general secretary. In addition to those mentioned there are a number of cities of approximately 1,000,000 people, like Hankow and Canton, as yet unentered. We do not contemplate entering all these cities at once, but there is a present great problem presented by the opportunities in Shanghai and Hong Kong.

REPORT OF ROBERT R. GAILEY,

Secretary in China.

The beginning of what one feels to be his life work cannot but be full of significance. Some gradually grow into their life work, and scarcely know how they got into it, or what the circumstances of the first stages of that life work were. I could hardly fail to be aware of the significance of the position in which I was placed and of the work intrusted to me when I was left in this important student center with association facilities, and the work organized and carried on by my experienced predecessor, Mr. Lyon, all on my untried shoulders. I arrived at Tientsin, April 26th, 1898, and so well had Mr. Lyon planned everything that my formal introduction into society and the public reception to Mrs. Gailey and myself, and my responsibility for the Sunday service, were all accomplished in six days. Mr. and Mrs. Lyon left for T'ungchou in the latter part of May, and thus we were deprived of their wise, kind counsel.

The work was continued about the same as before. There were two meetings a week, the prayer meeting held on Saturday afternoon attended by an average of eight and the Sunday afternoon gospel service attended by about twenty-two. New plans were entered upon very cautiously; but I soon became convinced that our Sunday service might be more effective if held in the morning, since many of the students did not go to the mission chapels for service. Accordingly this change was made in June, with a very gratifying attendance, the afternoon meeting also being continued.

We made the morning Bible class a systematic study, taking as a subject the Life of Paul, following the outline of Mr. Sallmon, which we found very helpful.

During the summer our average attendance was maintained, many of those who came being men who had not been in the habit of coming to the meetings or building. After the first of September the work developed very interestingly, and during December both the Sunday meetings have exceeded any since we arrived, and the average weekly attendance at the building has been ninety, without any extra occasions to draw large audiences. All the students are in government institutions with very many hindrances, and permission to leave the college grounds is given only on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and Sunday, so this good attendance is very encouraging. We still continue the Life of Paul in the morning Bible class, and the afternoon service is called the "Witness bearer" class, in which the idea is to develop the life of Christians, while making it effective also as a gospel service. Men who had been taking no active part in the meetings have learned to give their first testimony, and offer their first public prayer in these meetings. The work heretofore has been carried on entirely in English, but the majority of the students here do not understand that language. It has been impossible for me to invite these non-English speaking men to our services until lately, when a class in mandarin was started, studying the Life of Jesus Christ, by an able native who is a teacher in the American Board Mission Girls' School. The Saturday afternoon prayer meeting has had an average attendance of ten the past six months. A monthly missionary meeting is usually addressed by some missionary on some different phase or field of mission work. This has been one of our most popular and helpful meetings. The mission band of the association has collected money sufficient to support a native evangelist, whom we expect to be our representative in the dark places of this great needy land.

The association has arranged for a course of lectures to be given twice a month during the winter and spring. The reading room is well provided with good literature both in Chinese and English.

One very great help in our work I consider, is the issue of a weekly bulletin, giving first of all a thought for the week, also news items about the work, local and national, and announcements of meetings. I distribute it to the university students myself, thus getting the opportunity for personal invitation to meetings, which I feel has done much to increase interest in the work.

The language study has taken the best of my time. I have not thought of being discouraged over it yet, though I am very conscious of the magnitude of the task of being able to use the language well, and nothing short of competent use of it will suffice.

REPORT OF F. S. BROCKMAN,

Secretary in China.

One month after the International Convention, in Mobile, was spent in college visitation and office work, after which I was granted a leave of absence because of ill health. Five months were required for recuperation.

I was then granted an additional leave of absence at the request of the executive committee of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, that I might spend a year among the colleges as one of its secretaries previous to my departure for China. I was in this service from November 1, 1897, to July 10, 1898.

August, September and October, 1898, were spent, except two weeks for vacation, in travel from Columbia, S. C., to Shanghai, China, preparations for my departure from America, efforts to secure my support for five years' service in China, and two weeks' visitation in Oregon and Washington.

November and December were spent in China, during which time six cities and twenty-two institutions were visited, and together with Robert E. Lewis, three student conferences were held at Nanking, Shanghai and Foochow, respectively. Careful investigation was given to the field in southern China for the development of city and college associations.

THE HISTORICAL LIBRARY OF THE AMERICAN YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.

REPORT OF J. T. BOWNE,

Custodian.

The library was founded in 1877, and in 1883 was given to the International Committee in trust for the American Young Men's Christian Associations.

The aim has been to gather from all lands whatever would in any way illustrate the efforts of individuals or societies for the welfare of young men, and the collection, in many languages, now represents such efforts for upwards of two centuries.

The year 1901 will mark the semi-centennial anniversary of the American work and will undoubtedly be a time of gathering up and publishing the history of many of our societies. The effort so feeble in its beginnings has grown to a great movement including over 1,400 well established associations, with net property aggregating upwards of $18,000,000, and making an annual expenditure of some $2,400,000 in this life-saving service. The Historical Library illustrates every step of this progress, and it is hoped that the accessions of the jubilee year may be many and valuable.

Since the close of 1896, when the last report was made, sixty-six volumes have been added to the collection, making the present number of bound 1,116, and unbound 1,205, or a total of 2,321 volumes.

There has been a gradual decrease in the number of bulletins published by the American associations since 1892, when we received from the United States 165 and from Canada 9; at the close of 1898 the receipts from the United States were 92 and from Canada 2. The receipts from all other lands are now 53, being about the same as in 1892. About one in five are published weekly, the others largely monthly.

All current receipts are promptly catalogued and some of the more important ones indexed.

While our very hearty thanks are returned for all gifts, we are under special obligations to the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, and to the World's Student Christian Federation for complete sets of their publications.

To the student of inter-denominational Christian work or of sociology during the past half century, or of any phase of our many-sided association work this library offers a laboratory the value of which can hardly be overestimated, and it has been a great satisfaction to those having it in charge to see the growing appreciation of it.

The following unsolicited testimonial has just been received:

At the Advisory Committee meeting held to-day the following resolution was passed in relation to the value of your library:

Resolved, That we place on record the practical value of the Historical Library of the American Young Men's Christian Associations at Springfield, Mass., as evidenced in the help this Committee has just received in the preparation of a list of the Provincial Conventions held since 1868, and we hereby tender our thanks to Mr. J. T. Bowne, Librarian, for his help in this matter.

(Signed)

THOS. J. WILKIE,

Chairman Provincial Committee, Ontario and Quebec.

The demand from association and public libraries for aid in completing sets of state reports, leads me to urge state committees to send us at least five, or better, ten copies of each issue, and also to see to it without fail that the principal public libraries in their respective states are placed upon their mailing lists.

It is hoped that local associations everywhere will send to us, for historical purposes, at least two copies of each publication, including newspaper reports. Address Historical Library of American Young Men's Christian Associations, Springfield, Mass.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

DEDICATED JUNE 24, 1897.

Dimensions, 60 x 102 feet. Cost, $21,000. Population, 11,000.

Gift of Mrs. Charlotte J. Nichols.

BIENNIAL REPORTS OF CORRESPONDING MEMBERS,

1897-1898.

AUSTRALASIA.

Association work has been prosecuted in the various colonies, but no new institutions have been formed during the past two years.

Melbourne, Victoria, which unfortunately lost its splendid building, has for some time had small rented rooms, but has experienced a very up-hill fight. Better premises have now been secured in the heart of the city and a more hopeful tone prevails than for some time past. Thornton Pearson has recently been appointed general secretary.

Sydney, New South Wales, has pursued the even tenor of its way. The short visit of the Rev. C. H. Yatman was much appreciated by General Secretary Walker, who, by the way, is just completing his twenty-first year of secretarial work. It is intended to mark the occasion with an effort to reduce the heavy debt which is a serious hindrance to progress. The gymnasium has continued to be a very great attraction.

Adelaide, South Australia, has still further decreased its debt and the general secretary at the conclusion of his twelfth year of office in December last, had the satisfaction of stating that fully £9,000 had been paid off the liability during that period. From the rents of the building an annual profit, after meeting all expenses, of £500 is available. The theatre gospel services have maintained their attendance, aggregating a total of over 400,000 during the past eleven and a half years.

His excellency Sir T. F. Buxton, showed his interest in the work last year by receiving four hundred of the members at Government House on one evening. The outlook for the association was never more hopeful.

Brisbane, Queensland.—Though in a better state than formerly, very little progress can be reported in the northern city. The association needs better provision for its work than the rooms at present utilized, and unfortunately it appears impracticable to secure the salary of a general secretary.

Perth, West Australia, association has had financial difficulties and has to contend with great apathy on the part of the public in the city. Several changes of secretary have taken place and the present officer is engaged at a very low stipend, but so far has been successful in bringing the institution into smoother waters. The membership, however, is very small and the need of visits from experienced association men is keenly felt.

Hobart, Tasmania.—A quiet work has been going on in the Tasmanian capital for many years and considerable activity has been displayed during the past two years. Before satisfactory progress can be made, however, a permanent general secretary is needed.

A few of the provincial towns have small associations. New Zealand can only report the possession of two associations; one at Auckland, still under the care of Mr. Brackenrig, and Christchurch, with no permanent officer.

We anticipate with great pleasure the coming visit of the Rev. Mr. Yatman, and hope that it may give a stimulus to the work generally ; and if this be followed by the appointment of a traveling and organizing secretary, we shall be able to report the progress which unfortunately for the past two years we are not able to do.

JOHN JAMES VIRGO, Cor. Mem.

FRANCE.

I am able to report marked progress of association work in France during the last two years ; not so much in the creation of new organizations as in the systematic education and development of the existing associations. Thanks to the reorganization three years ago of the National Committee, with Monsieur E. Sautter as general secretary ; the country being divided into association districts, the work has been systematized. Special efforts have been made to develop a central association for each district with encouraging success, except in the district of the Rhone, where, owing to ecclesiastical divisions and for other reasons, the Lyons association has lost ground.

Through the liberality of Madame Marraci a fine new building, completely furnished, has been erected for the association at Lille. The members of the association of St. Jean du Gard succeeded in collecting an amount of money sufficient to purchase a building for their use, which was inaugurated on September 25th, 1898. The Bordeaux association now has a general secretary giving all his time to the work, with spacious pleasant rooms, in which the next national conference is to be held. The association of Marseilles also has commodious quarters and at the same time has been able to secure the services of a general secretary.

It is especially gratifying to note that in Paris a number of associate members have become active members and are now helping the secretaries in the religious work of the association. The number of members has not increased perceptibly owing to the transitory nature of a large part of the membership ; many young men who come to Paris from the provinces remain but a few months, but we are now constantly receiving very encouraging letters from many, these testifying to the benefits received from former membership.

The great drawback to energetic and aggressive association work in France continues to be the lack of workers ; it is very difficult to find even the few secretaries needed by such of our associations as are ready for them ; even amongst the Protestants of France, who comprise but two per cent of its population, association work is as yet but comparatively little understood. Nevertheless very considerable progress has been made this last decade and we are greatly encouraged.

The question of organizing associations amongst the students congregated in such large numbers in our cities has been studied by the National Committee, but it has not yet seen its way clear to undertake this work. Some meetings of students have, however, been held during the last two years. France sent five delegates to the student conference at Eisenach to represent the universities of Paris, Bordeaux, Montauban and Montpellier.

The financial aspect of our work, whilst not yet brilliant, has progressed; the National Committee has closed its books for 1898 without debt. The Paris association disbursed during 1898 the sum of Frs. 81,597, its receipts were Frs. 74,103, leaving a deficit of Frs. 7,500 to be provided for. The expenditures included Frs. 8,000, interest on debt of Frs. 200,000; on building and grounds also over Frs. 10,000 taxes, which the government levies, classifying the association as a club; membership fees paid were Frs. 22,000; and income derived from letting sleeping rooms to members was Frs. 16,000; the balance of Frs. 31,000 was raised by subscriptions. It is now proposed to organize a list of 100 persons who will each guarantee one per cent of future deficits, and about half of this number has already been found.

Professor Allier, of the National Committee, represented the associations of France at the fourth centennial celebration of the Edict of Nantes; the associations were also represented at the 14th. world's conference at Basle by 46 delegates.

The National Committee, after having studied the proposition to erect a special association building for the Paris Exposition of 1900, has been obliged to abandon this project on account of financial reasons, and will be represented with the co-operation of many associations in the general section of social economy.

GERMANY.

All the German Young Men's Christian Associations show progress. There is an increase of associations and an increase in membership. More important than this is an internal progress, which shows itself in an increase of means used to attract young men and to bring them under the influence of the gospel. In this respect the example of the new associations on the most modern plan is very useful.

Such associations exist at Breslau, Leipsic, Dresden, Hamburg, Magdeburg, Gottingen, and other towns. Though they stand in no official connection with the Berlin association, the latter is strictly the mother association, and helps them by advice and by providing secretaries. In this respect our association has also been able to help at Brussels and Antwerp.

The success of the work is greatly dependent upon the efficiency of the secretaries. We had therefore once—and it will be repeated in the spring of this year—a training course for secretaries, which is attended by students of the work not only from Germany but from different continental countries, especially Holland and the Scandinavian countries, with which we stand in a very friendly co-operation.

Our association literature has been increased by a very valuable pamphlet by Lieut.-Colonel von Hassell, which describes the whole work.

The debts of our associations were diminished last year by special gifts received to the amount of 15,000 marks.

The work among boys and youths of fourteen to eighteen years proves a valuable preparation for the general work of the association.

The missionary spirit and the self-sacrifice which members have imposed upon themselves in the interest of the work have greatly increased, and are a sign of true spiritual blessing.

Our association has given up the principle of local extension and adopted the plan of concentrated work, especially by having special secretaries for the different classes of young men. We have, for instance, a secretary for soldiers, and hope to get others for other classes.

A. BERNSTORFF, Cor. Mem.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The past two years have witnessed considerable developments. The number of centres of representation has increased from 1,298 to 1,411. The membership has, within the same period, increased from 98,899 to 105,939.

Association building projects have been launched or completed at Burton-on-Trent, Buckfastleigh, Bedford, Birkenhead (junior department), Belfast, Blackburn, Cardiff, Dublin, Glasgow, Leicester, Nottingham, Newcastle, Northampton, Scarboro, Totterdown and Winchester.

Evidence of vitality is supplied in the large amount of special effort put forth by associations in the form of evangelistic missions to men, which has exceeded the amount of effort of this kind in any similar period. The services of well-known evangelists have been retained, including those of W. R. Lane, who throughout the whole of 1897, as the Y. M. C. A. evangelist, under the direction of the National Council, conducted special missions in a large number of the associations. Meetings for men, known as pleasant Sunday afternoons, or P.S.A's, are held regularly each week at numerous centres, and have been the means of gathering large audiences to listen to the gospel. The terrible prevalence of the evils of intemperance, betting and gambling, and impurity, has called for the adoption of extraordinary measures for awakening the moral sense of men generally in relation thereto, and for putting young men especially on their guard against these evils. Large men's demonstrations have been organized in many of the more populous centres, the largest public buildings available have been secured for the meetings, while many of the best known and ablest speakers have given the addresses. Social gatherings of the members and their friends form a feature of the work in most associations.

The work of the social, educational and physical departments is successfully maintained by all the larger city associations. The association rooms and buildings become pleasant and agreeable resorts for young men after business hours, where they form healthful companionships. Large numbers are helped in the matters of finding respectable lodgings and employment. Libraries, reading rooms and educational classes promote the useful occupation of such leisure as they can command, while the recreative, athletic and gymnastic agencies supply a much needed restorative, enabling those who use them to recuperate their powers, preserve health and develop a buoyant manhood.

A very large number of workers has each year been sent forth into the ministry and home and foreign mission fields.

During the two years we have witnessed a further consolidation of the work in the hands of the executive bodies, respectively for England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland.

In Wales a large number of new associations has been formed.

Considerable progress has taken place also in the work throughout Scotland. The British conference, held at Glasgow, September, 1897, was the largest and most successful of these remarkable gatherings which has ever taken place. In the Glasgow building, a wing of which was opened during the sessions of the conference, Scotland possesses undoubtedly one of the finest Y. M. C. A. buildings in the kingdom.

It has been a record period for Ireland, which has witnessed the opening of new premises at Belfast and Dublin. The department of work among soldiers has made considerable progress throughout the United Kingdom.

The English Council now has representatives in the foreign field as follows:

At Bombay City, R. D. Pringle.

At Bombay Presidency, Frank Anderson, B. A. (Student worker).

At Poona, T. A. Bailey (Hon.).

At Burma, Oliver H. McCowan, LL.B.

Scotland has its representative also in the person of J. H. Oldham, B. A., stationed at Lahore.

JAPAN.

I.—The General Work.

The years 1897 and 1898, though a time of considerable excitement and important changes in the world of Japanese politics, have been a period of quiet and steady growth in the world of Christian missions, and we are glad to be able to say that the Young Men's Christian Associations have shared in this growth.

Perhaps the greatest growth in the local work is to be seen in the membership of the Tokyo city association which has now reached a total of 825, including a sustaining membership of 129. This increase is proportionately more than it has been for some years past.

In the financial management of the Tokyo association economy has been carefully studied, but the finances are still one of the chief sources of anxiety. The principal sources of income are donations, hall rent, and membership fees, which are naturally increasing with the increase of membership.

The evening school, for giving instructions in English, still continues under the same efficient management, with a staff of three Japanese and two foreign teachers, the latter being graduates of the University of California and of Oxford. The total attendance last year was 1,834.

Another work which has been very popular is the evening lectures held during the winter months. These have been on various subjects,—social, scientific and religious, and they have been very greatly appreciated, having had an aggregate attendance of nearly 10,000 students, many of whom, for want of better evening amusement, might have been led away to places of the worst kind. We cannot help feeling that these lectures—even those which had no relation whatever, in themselves, to Christianity —have done Christian work in this way. Those young men who come to this great city in search of knowledge are often glad to attend them and having once come in the association building they are not afraid to come again for the other meetings.

A new feature is a coffee and "quick lunch" room, which has lately been opened in the basement of the building. This was started by some of the directors, influential business men, who were willing to bear any loss that might be incurred, but to allow any profits to go to the work. The room is comfortable, clean and quite inviting. The number of daily customers is slowly but surely increasing, as it can hardly help doing, being situated in one of the great student and business quarters of this great city.

The Bible classes and evangelistic meetings have been well attended, and the class of young men who come to attend them, especially the former, seem to be really interested in what they hear, and not to come out of mere curiosity. The Bible classes had an attendance last year of 1,200 young men, the sermons of 2,200; and young men who come principally to get out of the rain or cold, are thus brought into connection with the members of the association, and some have thereby been led to become church members. The Bible classes have been conducted by Rev. Mr. Tomeoka, Mr. Swift, Mr. Fisher, and Mr. Katamaya; and the Sunday afternoon meetings by Rev. Mr. Kozaki and Mr. Matsumura.

The library is getting more and more to be a favorite place of resort and is often full of industrious students. It contains at present about 1,425 Japanese and 500 foreign books, most of the latter being English and American works. The reading room has forty magazines and about twenty newspapers daily, for those who care to make use of them; the visits last year numbered 100,000.

The magazine, the Seinen, which the association published, has been merged into the Shinseiki, a popular, religious magazine, edited by Rev. Mr. Kozaki and other prominent Christians; this is distributed to about 700 people monthly, and thus the association work is given a wider hearing, and at the same time material assistance is rendered by it to the spread of good Christian literature.

The boarding house has been purchased and is now the property of the association. It admits young men who are of good moral character, and accommodates thirty. At present the rooms are about full.

It is with great regret that we have to announce the departure of our esteemed friend and secretary, J. T. Swift, who left Japan in May last. Mr. Swift has been associated with this work since its inception, and he of all others has its interests at heart, and has with rare tact guided its development from the earliest stages up to the time he left.

His name will always be connected with the two splendid buildings which he secured for Tokyo—the one for the city association and the other for the university association—and with the work that has gradually grown up about them as a centre and spread throughout the empire, as briefly set forth in this report. By us personally he will always be remembered as a loving friend and faithful counsellor.

Another whom the association has lost, though only for a time and that in the interests of the work, is Seijiro Niwa, who has been the secretary of the Tokyo city association since its beginning. He has gone for a year's training in the work in America.

The numerous local associations throughout the country still continue to make progress, and there generally seems to be a more real interest in the work and in Christianity in general than there has been for some years.

The cultivation and superintendence of these scattered local associations is one of the most urgent needs of our work, and for that purpose one or two helpers from America are earnestly desired.

II.—The Student Work.

The middle of January, 1897, marked the close of John R. Mott's tour among the chief colleges of the empire and the consummation of the purpose of his visit, the organization of the student union and its admittance to the World's Student Christian Federation. The general direction of the student union was placed in the hands of a representative central committee of fifteen members, one-third being missionaries.

The union was represented at the World's Student Christian Federation conference at Northfield and Williamstown in July, 1897, by K. Ibuka, who was honored by being elected chairman of deliberations of the committee and vice-chairman of the federation.

From the organization of the union until his return to America, Mr. Swift rendered valuable service as honorary general secretary. In January, 1898, Galen M. Fisher became identified with the union as honorary secretary, and in September, 1898, Y. Hara of the Imperial University entered upon his duties as traveling secretary.

Visitation of the widely scattered associations has been made by members of the Central Committee and by the secretaries. Each association has been visited at least once.

The first general convention was held in July, 1898, and attended by fifty delegates from twenty-two associations. From first to last a spirit of unity and evangelical earnestness prevailed. Among the platform speakers were several leaders of the Japanese church and also Secretary R. E. Lewis of China. An advance policy was adopted for Bible study, finances and a summer school. In accordance with this policy the first uniform course of Bible study has been published and generally adopted. Since the close of the convention the formerly independent summer school, founded in 1899, has been voluntarily transferred to the union, thus removing all danger of a division of forces. During 1898 three successful district training conferences were held.

Seven pamphlets, four of them for the spiritual life, have been published, and a bi-monthly magazine with a small English department was started in June, 1898.

Twenty-eight associations joined the union as charter members; subsequently three more were admitted and two others consolidated, making the present total thirty. In April, 1898, the membership was 837. Our chief concern now is to develop internally rather than to expand.

It is a cause for gratitude that the associations of the Tokyo Imperial University and the First Government College have recently completed a commodious student home, through the kindness of American friends.

Similar homes in other cities have demonstrated the important part they may play in promoting and conserving the Christian life of students.

Mingled with our thankfulness for the progress of the past two years, is a feeling of keen regret that our honorary general secretary, Mr. Swift, has been led to terminate his connection with the work in Japan. His far-sighted faith, his wise zeal, and his unselfish devotion have entered into the very fibre of the Student Christian Union of Japan, as well as into that of the general work.

TURKEY.

So great is the feeling of distrust on the part of the present government in Turkey towards any society of young men that its aims, however pure, are sure to be misjudged and its work, however disinterested, is sure to be misinterpreted. Under such conditions we cannot hope for any important advance in the work of the little bands of young men who keep the association name alive in many places in the empire. It is doubtless unwise to even encourage the young men to develop their work any further until such political changes occur as will allow of this without incurring the risk of official opposition to all association work.

It is a matter for thankfulness that there is, in so many places in the empire, a beginning made in the line of spiritual work for young men. These beginnings are of great value, for they will prove later on to have been the germ of association work in Turkey.

Those interested in this branch of Christian work ought to look with great hopefulness upon these little watch-fires, in which the spark of future association work is kept alive.

I place great value upon the visits made by the young men of this land to well conducted associations in America, England and Europe, and I count the practical knowledge gained from such visits of prime importance as related to the spread of association ideas and work in this needy land, when God shall open the way for its development.

W. W. PEET, Cor. Mem.

CANADIAN WEST.

The past year closed with the finances of all our associations in first rate shape, every one having a credit balance, and better still—a much deeper spiritual work reported than for many years.

We have eight associations—four town, three college and one Indian. Of these Portage la Prairie has just been organized, and is on a sound basis, the officers being chosen from the working members. We expect that other Indian Reserves will organize after the visit of your Indian international secretary.

R. C. Horn, late assistant secretary at Winnipeg, has been chosen as provincial secretary and is most acceptable throughout the country.

We thank the International Committee for the visits of the several secretaries who have been here since our last report.

MARITIME PROVINCES.

The number of active associations in the Maritime Provinces (Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island) is now thirty-four, with a membership of about 4,000. A number of others exist. The general work under the superintendence of the Maritime committee has been maintained, though not without a struggle, during the two years since our last report.

Regular work has been done and permanent advance made in every salient feature of association enterprise; only a few things can be noted:

A constitution has been prepared and carried into effect by which the work is tied together organically; the Maritime association thus formed has become incorporated. A county organization, with a paid county secretary, has been tried and with amazing results. Five county conventions have been held. A railroad secretary has been employed to visit railroad points, encourage associations, and lead up to better work. The railroad work is now a regularly organized department of the Maritime work.

Sixty corresponding members have been secured in towns where no organizations exist; these have proven a very great help to these places. The boys' work has been further developed. Two boys' conferences have met, at Amherst and Moncton, with about 200 delegates at each. Summer camps in two sections have gone out with a total attendance of 175. The Lever, an official organ, has been published for the last two years, and a growing and more intelligent interest is the result. A systematic effort has been made to reach the lumbermen with literature and gospel meetings. Our associations have given more attention to the educational work, and to Bible study. Topics for men's gospel meetings have been prepared by the Bible study committee.

At the militia encampments the association tents, well equipped and manned, did good service. A very real work was done at one of the camps especially. Four separate conventions or conferences have been held each year—boys', college, railroad, and the general Maritime convention. These have all been well up to the average and in some cases distinct advances on former gatherings. The last pentathlon contest was held at Amherst, August, 1897.

New buildings have been erected in Sydney, C. B., ($6,000); North Sydney, C. B., ($7,000); International Pier, C. B., ($800); Glace Bay, C. B., ($3,000); and Fredericton, N. B., ($7,000); Port Morien, Halifax, Truro, and other associations have improved their buildings.

Chatham and St. Stephen, two New Brunswick associations, have suspended work for the present. A live junior department at St. Stephen promises to grow speedily into an association again. Special evangelistic work for men only has been conducted in a number of associations with good results. There has been a steady growth in appreciation of the work on the part of young men, the pastors, and the general public that is very marked; though the pressure of the hard times tested every fibre of the cables holding our work together there has been no permanent loss. There has been a large growth over the entire field in the number of volunteer workers. The scarcity of secretaries has laid upon the active members increasing responsibility. We have now seventeen paid officers.

The members of the Maritime committee have been able in many cases to give a large amount of personal attention to the work intrusted to them. They have been loyal to the work, and in the midst of many discouragements from within and without, have pressed as best they could the work for young men. The experiment of a winter convention was tried, meeting at Amherst, N. S., February, 1898. It was on a par with the summer gathering both in numbers and interest.

The college association work has been strong in character and aggressive in missionary and Bible study features. In a number of places young men's Sundays have been held and other preparations made looking toward organization, or interesting communities in the work. The week of prayer has been very generally observed. A Maritime secretary has been employed during the last two years—the present officer has served the work for five and a half years. S. M. Sayford, college evangelist with his helper, R. G. Hooper, have just completed a series of meetings in four of our leading universities with good results. S. R. Vinton, secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, has visited four of the colleges, and with Harry Wade Hicks, international college secretary, and Messrs. Sayford and Hooper, assisted at the intercollegiate conference at the University of New Brunswick, November 24-27, 1898. D. A. Davy, office college secretary of the International Committee, assisted at the college conference at Acadia University in 1897. The Amherst convention had as outside helpers Secretary R. A. Jordan of Bangor, Me., representing the International Committee, and James Logan Gordon formerly of Boston, who has been doing special evangelistic work in the provinces for a year.

John F. Moore and H. O. Williams, international railroad secretaries, have visited some of our railroad points and helped at two railroad conferences—Charlottetown, P. E. I., August, 1897, and Campbelltown, N. B., August, 1898. Ten of our Maritime railroad men attended the Fort Wayne, Indiana, railroad conference.

The frequent changing of the secretarial force has been a great detriment. A number of good men and true have been taken away to the higher service: F. B. Robb, Amherst, N. S.; W. H. Clark, St. Stephen, N. B.; J. Arthur Sproull, Stellarton, N. S., and Heber Mumford, Richmond, N. S., from the Maritime committee force. But the work goes on, carrying much of the spirit of these and other men with it, perpetuating its helpful influence in the lives of the young men in the provinces down by the sea.

J. C. MACKINTOSH, Cor. Mem.

ONTARIO.

The work in this province during the past two years has gone forward with very little change. It is to be regretted that some associations in smaller towns have either ceased operations, or dispensed with the services of a general secretary through lack of interest in the work.

On the other hand, a number of the associations in cities and large towns have succeeded in securing funds to pay off their total mortgage indebtedness, putting these associations in a position not hitherto attained.

Good progress has been made in work among railway men, especially on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway; a new building has been erected at Niagara Falls.

There has been great activity in college work, and a number of new associations have been established.

In all these branches the International Committee has given most valuable assistance, much time and attention being given at these important centres of operation.

Educational work has been very prominent in most associations and much appreciated by those who have taken advantage of it.

Bible classes and Bible training classes have been well attended at many points, and much blessing reported at various associations.

JOHN J. GARTSHORE, Cor. Mem.

QUEBEC.

There are but five associations within the jurisdiction of Quebec—three city, one railroad and one college.

During the past year the association in the city of Quebec has erected, opened and equipped a gymnasium annex which is one of the finest in Canada. Through an arrangement with the city the association is able to procure its water supply at a very great reduction. This arrangement compels them to allow other than members the use of the baths at a nominal figure for each bath. The board of directors of the Quebec association hope that by this means they will be able to reach a large number of young men of that city. They have secured a physical director.

A secretary is employed by the Sherbrooke association, and an aggressive work is continued. They are anxious to secure either a building or better equipment.

During the past year a railway branch has been established at Point St. Charles, with Secretary F. S. Morrison in charge. They have secured the use of a building belonging to the Grand Trunk Railway, and this company is rendering every possible assistance. The secretary commenced work on the 1st of March, 1899. It is hoped that a strong organization will be developed at this point.

The McGill University association has continued an excellent work. It owns a building which is conveniently situated for the college men, and employs a general secretary.

The Montreal "central" has a membership of 1,741. During the past year an educational director was employed, giving his whole time to this department of the work.

The effort which was begun a year ago towards the extinction of the mortgage indebtedness of $51,000 has been so far successful. This amount has been reduced to $9,000, which it is hoped will be raised before the present year closes.

A large addition was made to the equipment of the gymnasium, the wooden baths replaced by marble and tile, and the gymnasium refloored, giving the association one of the most complete bathing equipments in the city.

H. B. AMES, Cor. Mem.

HAWAII.

If any one of the associations is fulfilling its mission the one in Honolulu, Hawaii, surely is. The present membership, including juniors, is 415. Two classes for study of the Bible continue and the spirit of the association is purely evangelistic and devotional. Since the organization of Christian Endeavor societies in Honolulu the Sunday afternoon prayer meetings have been for men only.

At the opening of the year 1899, the announcement that the association was free from debt created thankfulness. The educational classes are conducted with success. While the United States soldiers were for brief periods in the course of three months of 1898 resting in Honolulu en route to Manila, the association building became their headquarters. Some 7,500 registered at the hall where they were provided with facilities for letter writing, 105,000 sheets of paper and 46,000 envelopes being given out; about 3,000 soldiers had baths at the hall. The whole expense of entertaining them was $800. Many gospel services were held among the men and a camp association was established in the 1st New York Regiment, which was productive of great good. It was under the management of Mr. Tator of that regiment.

Rev. George C. Needham held a short series of services in the hall a few months since.

H. E. Coleman is general secretary, and A. T. Brock, assistant.

A. F. JUDD, Cor. Mem.

YUKON DISTRICT.

In November, 1897, when I was appointed corresponding member for the Yukon District, W. A. Reid, then general secretary at Kalamazoo, Michigan, was contemplating going to Dawson to engage in association work. This, after consultation with international secretaries and your corresponding member he concluded to do, with the understanding that he raise the necessary funds to secure his outfit and transportation. He was able to secure his outfit and transportation as far as Skagway. At this place there seemed such great need for the work that he set up his tent and through much personal sacrifice and effort supported the work for a time. Afterwards, with the aid of local pastors and others, he organized an association which was regularly incorporated; this now appears to be in a flourishing condition. If Mr. Reid is able to carry out his present plans he will proceed to other parts of the mining district and organize additional work. Mr. Reid also reports a desire of the railroad company to open an association for its employees. There are several points besides those already mentioned where a live association movement would do much good, viz.: Selkirk, Forty Mile, Eagle City, Circle City, Rampart City and St. Michael.

T. S. LIPPY, Cor. Mem.

ARKANSAS.

There are but four associations in this state—the city organizations at Arkansas City and Pine Bluff, and the student associations in Arkansas and Hendrix colleges. The only secretarial point at present is Pine Bluff, where the work is in fair condition. There has been no state convention since June, 1897.

FRED. FOX, Cor. Mem.

CALIFORNIA.

The work in our state has more than held its own during the past two years. No associations have disbanded and many have taken encouraging strides forward. In all respects the work is on a better footing, and has a stronger hold upon the young men and the community at large than at any time in our history.

The seventeenth annual state convention of the California associations was held at Riverside, February 23-27, 1898. The great distance to be traveled, a maximum of nearly one thousand miles, to reach the convention, and the consequent expense, had a tendency to somewhat diminish the attendance from the northern part of the state. Yet, the delegation was quite large and the convention one of the most spiritual ever held in the state. Secretary C. B. Willis, of Milwaukee, represented the International Committee.

The third annual summer conference for students and city association men at Pacific Grove, in May, 1898, was the largest yet held, and a special inspiration and help to the college work throughout this section. Every university and institution of higher education on the Pacific coast was represented at the gathering.

Nearly all of 1898 was devoted to work among the volunteer troops of the U. S. Army, this department receiving almost undivided attention from the state committee for the larger portion of the year. Nearly 30,000 troops mobilized at San Francisco en route to the Philippines. Eighteen tents were in successful operation among these troops, and nearly two hundred volunteer workers were engaged in the service. Over fifteen hundred men in the army expressed a desire to lead Christian lives. The sum of $6,302 was raised for the army work. Frank A. Jackson, assistant secretary of the San Francisco association, is on a year's leave of absence in connection with the army and navy work of the International Committee at the Philippine Islands, and his salary and expenses are paid by the state committee of California.

W. M. Parsons has been secured as acting state secretary for six months, under the auspices of the International Committee. The outlook for the work in California was never more promising than at the present time.

H. J. McCoy, Cor. Mem.

COLORADO.

The work of the Colorado state committee the past year has been quietly prosecuted by the officers of the committee in co-operation with the state secretary, whose time has necessarily been engaged almost exclusively in connection with the Denver work.

The year marks an era of good work for which we are profoundly thankful. The urgent call for more extended effort on the part of the state secretary than is now possible is everywhere apparent.

One of the associations, that at Victor, has been closed and one other is in a doubtful condition. Canon City, Pueblo and Colorado Springs have all conducted very successful membership campaigns, each of which has been instituted and aided very largely by Secretary T. P. Day, of

The railroad department instituted and supported by the D. & R. G. R. R. at Denver is continuing excellent service under the able management of Secretary LeRoy Burdick.

By far the most important event of the year in the Colorado work was the Moody meetings campaign. Not only did Mr. Moody co-operate with the association in Denver, but his helpful touch was felt throughout the entire state, as he visited all of the association points and many other places.

The college work is limited to four of the leading educational institutions of the state and has been directed during the past year by a special secretary, who made a visit to each of the colleges at the opening of the school year.

CONNECTICUT.

The Young Men's Christian Association in our state has so commended itself by its good works that it is everywhere recognized as an invaluable factor in fashioning the lives and characters of our young men.

Physical, intellectual, spiritual growth, and the promise of a royal manhood have been the manifest fruits of our efforts. The last two years have been years of progress, and the outlook for the future is most encouraging. The permanency of the institution has ceased to be a question of controversy and a warm recognition of the beneficent work accomplished is cheerfully acknowledged.

A specially gratifying feature among our progressive achievements, is the fraternal relations between the local associations and the state committee, extending also to a recognition, and hearty acknowledgement of the value and importance of the International Committee. This has been a work of education, accomplished largely by the wise direction of our state secretary aided by his associates in the state committee, and the general secretaries of the associations.

The magnificent work done by the International Committee in behalf of the soldiers in our recent war, has also served to popularize this committee and the organization it represents. Our state committee employed two men for five months last season in working for the soldiers encamped at Niantic, with excellent results.

We have not sought to enlarge the number of our associations, as much as we have sought to strengthen and make more efficient the associations already established. We have also endeavored to extend the scope and influence of our work through the earnest and efficient labors of our five district committees with gratifying success. Our aim is to permeate the entire state with the benign influences of our work.

Our organization is so complete that nearly every town in our state is becoming more or less familiar with the aims and object of the Young Men's Christian Association. Our more than one hundred corresponding members, scattered throughout the state, help to achieve this end. We have a state executive committee of fifteen, and an advisory committee of thirty-five, all representative men, so located as to represent all portions of our state. The advisory committee meets occasionally with the state committee in conference, thus keeping alive the interest throughout the state.

We have the same number of associations that we had two years ago, but with a largely increased membership, aggregating between eleven and twelve thousand members. We have also one "section."

We have two more buildings owned by the associations than when I last reported, one in New London and one in Norwich. Two associations have paid off their mortgages and other indebtedness, and the financial condition of the associations throughout the state is very satisfactory. The associations in our state own buildings and other property valued at more than $900,000.

Between three and four thousand men visit the rooms of our associations daily. Our educational classes are well sustained by an average weekly attendance of between eleven and twelve hundred. The physical department of our work was never more efficient than at present; 130 gymnasium classes, under careful physical directors, are held weekly. Twelve of our associations are greatly aided by women's auxiliaries, having a membership of 1,400.

The religious work in our associations is being emphasized more and more. Bible classes have multiplied, and a great interest has been awakened in the study of the Scriptures. Under the direction of a wise committee, a course of Bible study has been prepared for the purpose of unifying the study of the Scriptures throughout the state. The Hartford and New Haven associations each employ a religious work director, under whose careful guidance they hope for increasing spiritual results. Sunday afternoon meetings for men are more largely attended than formerly in many of our associations, notably in New Haven, where over a thousand men attend these services.

Greater attention is being paid to the junior department, and an increasing number of boys are being carefully trained along the same lines that we employ for adults.

In a careful review of the work done by our associations during the last two years, we find abundant evidence of progress in every department of our work. We are gratefully minded of the influence and helpfulness of the International Committee on various occasions in the prosecution of our labors.

W. R. BURNHAM, Cor. Mem.

GEORGIA.

Association work in this state has merely held its own. The general financial depression is only now beginning to lift, promising a better outlook than we have known in many years. Mainly for lack of financial support no new work has been undertaken, with the exception of the army work of the past year.

S. Waters McGill has been our state secretary for nearly two years, on an equal joint arrangement with Tennessee. These states are large, extending from the Atlantic to the Mississippi. At our recent state convention it was decided to discontinue this arrangement with Tennessee, because it is impossible for one man to cover so large a territory. During the greater part of last year, the extensive army work undertaken by our committee, received the greater share of the financial support of our associations and the time of the state secretary. Successful work was maintained under the supervision of general secretaries with the three Georgia regiments, the results of which were very gratifying.

Association work has a strong hold upon the confidence of the people of this state, and there is a better prospect for a wider work than heretofore. Most of the local associations have been greatly strengthened within recent months, and the work is being established on recognized association lines.

The Atlanta association especially is doing a broad and extensive work, and is on a sound financial basis.

We now have twenty-one associations—nine city and town, one railroad, and eleven college and school—with a total membership of 3,219. Five associations own buildings with a total value, including furnishings, of $220,000. Three of the buildings have debts upon them aggregating about $24,000. The state committee would express its appreciation of the valuable assistance received from the International Committee, especially in the hearty aid given at our conventions.

J. FRANK BECK, Cor. Mem.

ILLINOIS.

The past year has been one of the best years in the history of association work in Illinois. At the close of 1898, the list of associations contained the names of 119 associations and 11 organized bands.

In the railroad and city department, one new railroad building and two new city buildings were erected. A fine gymnasium building at Evanston which, with fitting, is to cost $30,000, and a new railroad building at Decatur are in process of construction.

In the college department five new associations were organized during the year. The membership of the college associations now exceeds 2,500. Unusual progress has been made in the Bible classes.

The town department has been for a number of months without the supervision of a secretary, and its gains and losses in the number of associations are about equal.

The corresponding membership has reached its highest point as to number and its greatest efficiency during the past year. The number of towns with corresponding members reached 540. Through the agency of these correspondents, Illinois young men were brought into contact with Christian influence in twenty-four states.

There has been an increase of interest in the educational work and in Bible study. During the convention year, closing in October, good spiritual interest was reported with more than 1,200 professed conversions.

A. D. WHEELER, Cor. Mem.

INDIANA.

Two years ago we reported thirty associations; at the last state convention (November 1898) thirty-four associations reported, though the total membership (5,889) is less than two years ago on account of the hard times and the loss of one of the branches at Fort Wayne.

The local current expenses for the past year were $55,958, while the state committee raised and expended in the state work $5,545, paying all the bills, as usual, besides raising over $1,000 for the army work, this being the amount obtained through the state office alone, there being more than that sent east by friends in various parts of the state.

Ten associations have buildings, only two of which have debts unprovided for. There have been distinct gains in educational work, in social affairs, lecture courses, and Bible class sessions, while special state work features as follows should be mentioned :

1. A special committee—with the help of the International Committee and others—thoroughly revised the articles of incorporation and the constitution, and we believe the new constitution adopted by the recent convention is more up-to-date and useful than such forms usually are. Among other features it provides for an active vice-chairman of the state committee, for the appointment of an advisory committee, and for the advance appointment of some of the convention officers in order to more effective convention committee work.

2. During each of the past two summers an association encampment has been conducted by the state committee during the Bible conference at Winona Lake, under the leadership of Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, which is probably the best yet established west of Northfield. The convention approved making this encampment, at Winona Lake or elsewhere, a permanent feature of the state work.

3. Holiday evangelistic work by college students has become a fixed feature of the winter's work. The first college general secretaryship (at Purdue University) has been established during the past year.

4. There has been steady development in what is known as "district work," though the committee has not yet been able to give as much attention as it desires to this department. There have been 115 corresponding members appointed during the past year and thirteen young men's Sundays held, while nearly twenty unorganized points have maintained young men's meetings—usually called "prayer bands."

By invitation of local and state officers, the international secretaries' conference, and the international railroad conference were held in Indiana during the past year for the first time.

We have steadily maintained the secretarial force of three men, and appreciate not only their efficient service but also the occasional co-operation of the secretaries of the International Committee.

O. M. GREGG, Cor. Mem.

IOWA.

Encouraging progress has been made in the work during the past two years. There are now in Iowa 24 associations in cities and towns, 22 college associations and three railroad departments, making a total of 49 associations. These have a membership of 7,655. Ten own buildings worth $333,000. The sum of $62,947 was spent for current expenses.

An annual summary shows forty-seven evening classes in our educational departments, 183 receptions and socials, and 171 lectures and practical talks ; 2,300 young men come together in the men's gospel meetings on Sunday afternoon ; 151 weekly classes for the study of the Bible are held with a total average attendance of 974. Forty men are giving their whole time to the work as general secretaries, assistant secretaries and physical directors. There are no vacancies at present. In towns not having associations 265 correspondents give information as to the young men who leave home for business and educational purposes.

The sum of $30,000 was subscribed at Keokuk for a building early in 1898. One-third of the amount has already been paid in, and a lot has been purchased. The contracts have just been let. The building at Waterloo will cost $20,000. It is now inclosed, and work is going forward rapidly. At Burlington the gymnasium has been finished, and the auditorium is expected to be finished this year. At Ottumwa an artesian well has been put down on the lot next the association building, and lot and well, worth $3 000, given to the association. A lady friend of the Dubuque association has put $1,000 worth of new furnishings into the building. The building at Sioux City has passed out of the hands of the association. They now occupy it as tenants, and the work goes forward with renewed vigor. A railroad department has been organized at Waterloo. J. T. Harahan, 2d vice-president Illinois Central R.R., says: "On a recent tour of annual inspection of this company's property the president and board of directors, together with other officers, were fortunately able to stop over night at Waterloo, Iowa, where they attended a meeting of the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association at that point. Everyone was highly pleased with what he saw, and I am sure all the gentlemen were very much impressed with the good influences exerted by your organization."

The work of the college department is encouraging. Strong delegations at the various student conventions guarantee strong and aggressive leadership of the association work in the individual schools.

At the Cleveland student volunteer convention there was a delegation of seventy-one, all but one of the institutions of the state in which there are associations being represented. The associations at the State Normal School and the State University have united to contribute to the support of F. S. Brookman in China. The Iowa volunteers were cared for at Camp McKinley, Des Moines, last summer, and the sum of $1,021 was collected and sent to the International Committee for the army work.

The counsel and assistance of the International Committee has been greatly appreciated.

KANSAS.

The year 1898 records slow but steady, healthy and permanent growth. With the return of commercial prosperity the association cause has received a new impetus. The state committee reported at the state convention held in Emporia, November 10-13, that $3,338.91 had been raised and expended in state work during the past year, all bills were paid and a balance of $5.59 on hand.

Andrew Baird was unanimously re-elected state secretary, with hearty expressions of good will and gratitude from all. During the first six months of 1898, the Rev. W. C. Veazie was employed by the committee as evangelist; good results followed his labors in ten city associations.

Twenty students, from six educational institutions, spent a few days during the Christmas vacation working in five bands in a number of small towns and country districts, and met with marked success. The entire expense of these bands was small, and all were paid by cash contributions cheerfully given in the meetings held.

The Santa Fe Railway Company, always a staunch and generous friend of this cause, quadrupled its appropriation to the Topeka railway association, and the building has been thoroughly overhauled, repaired and enlarged. This association now has comfortable and commodious quarters, thoroughly equipped for the work, and is without any indebtedness. At Argentine, $10,000 has been raised for a new building now nearly completed, the Santa Fe Railway Company contributing $7,500, and the men and citizens $2,500 of the amount.

The Kansas associations improved the great opportunities opened by the war with Spain, and the work in the army was very helpful and attracted widespread and deep interest.

The Topeka central association, for the first time in many years, has ample subscriptions to insure the payment of all its indebtedness.

Valuable assistance was rendered in the state convention by Messrs. Gates, Michener and Shipp, of the International Committee.

The state convention unanimously adopted a recommendation that all local associations co-operate with the associations of other states in the adoption of advanced Bible courses, and all their members were urged to subscribe for, and carefully read, the official organ, Men.

KENTUCKY.

Decided progress has been made in the state during the past two years. There are now thirteen city and town, thirteen college, and five railroad associations.

In 1898 the first city association building erected in Kentucky was opened at Owensboro, costing $25,000. The building is admirably adapted to the needs of the work. The Louisville association in 1897 purchased a handsome mansion, and added a new gymnasium building, complete in all particulars. The total value of the equipment is $100,000.

The college work has shown increased growth and usefulness. Six hundred and twenty-four students are members of the association, and one hundred and twenty-six are enrolled in association Bible classes. Lacy I. Moffett is the college secretary, succeeding T. Bronson Ray, who served the state committee in this capacity for two years.

The railroad work is steadily increasing in efficiency and numbers. A new department has been added during the past year at Lexington.

There have been several notable achievements in financial canvasses in the state recently removing the indebtedness of associations and placing them on a sounder financial basis than has been the case for some time.

Special attention was given during 1898 to the work among the volunteers. Each of the four Kentucky regiments, from the beginning of its enlistment in the United States service, was furnished by the state committee with association tents, equipment, and secretaries, which were maintained with the regiments in the state and national camps, in Porto Rico and in Cuba, until they were mustered out of the service. The results of the work have been remarkable, and have elicited the strongest testimonies from the chaplains, officers and men of the various regiments.

The last state convention at Henderson, February 16-19, 1899, was one of the most successful ever held, and among several marked features took an advanced step regarding the organization of county work. Kentucky offers a most fruitful field for this most important department of the association work. Representatives of the International Committee have attended our conventions and aided our work in other ways.

J. A. STUCKY, Cor. Mem.

LOUISIANA.

Association work in this state has made considerable progress during the past two years, in the way both of new organizations and increased interest in some of the older ones.

An arrangement was entered into whereby L. E. Buell, state secretary of Alabama and Mississippi, has devoted a portion of his time to the work in Louisiana, and with good results.

College associations have been organized at the State Normal, at Natchitoches, and the Industrial Institute at Ruston. The association at Centenary College has been doing efficient work along evangelistic and missionary lines. At the State University the interest is increasing. The organization at Straight University is doing a quiet but effective work among the young men by personal effort and its weekly meetings.

At the New Orleans association great good has been done through its religious meetings, educational classes, Bible study, boys' department, and other means of usefulness, under the supervision of General Secretary Sherrard, who has recently resigned his position after fifteen years of devoted and faithful service. He is succeeded by H. E. Cantel, from Brooklyn, N. Y.

An association tent was maintained by the New Orleans association at the soldiers' camp in New Orleans, and the state committee did effective work among the Louisiana soldiers at Miami.

The first state convention for many years was held in April, 1898, at Baton Rouge, with a good attendance and much interest.

CHARLES H. SHUTE, Cor. Mem.

MAINE.

Growth and progress of a permanent character have marked the two years just closed. The state convention held in Lewiston was a well attended and profitable meeting. The late Nelson Dingley was one of the speakers. Good work is being done by the college associations throughout the state.

September 29, the Portland association dedicated its new building. The railroad building and work appears to be fulfilling the expectations of its promoters.

A new association has been organized at the Nichols Latin School, in Lewiston.

The Bangor association endowment has recently been increased by a gift of $500 from one of the directors. The amount is now $12,170.

Waterville and Auburn are without secretaries at present. The Fairfield association ceased to exist last March.

An association was maintained in tents for soldiers at Augusta for fifteen weeks. By arrangement of the state committee, Secretary Garland, of Portland, spent ninety days in the field.

Several visits from International Secretaries have been useful to our work.

GEORGE H. HOPKINS, Cor. Mem.

MARYLAND GROUP.

Our associations now number 32—city and village 14, college 11, railroad six, and colored one. There are 31 employed officers.

It has been impracticable to secure a regular state secretary during the past two years, but W. B. Millar, C. M. Copeland and T. T. Hazlewood, of the International Committee's force, have rendered us much valuable help. H. B. Hawkins was acting state secretary for a brief period.

The Washington association has paid its floating debt, and just at the close of 1898 purchased the magnificent club house of the Columbia Athletic Club.

The Wilmington association has remodeled its building, making extensive alterations, and has paid all current indebtedness.

A secretary has been employed and a building purchased by the Baltimore colored branch as the result of an extended visit from J. E. Moorland, the new colored secretary of the International Committee.

Deputations from the Johns Hopkins University and the Medical School have visited several of our colleges, with satisfactory results.

Army work was vigorously prosecuted last year.

THEO. F. JUDD, Cor. Mem.

MASSACHUSETTS AND RHODE ISLAND.

The history of the past two years reveals changes, but perhaps less marked than might have been expected considering the business depression and the national disturbances. A comparison of statistics will show other and perhaps minor results. We mention the more important. Membership in the two states more than 27,000, an increase of about 2,000; 87 associations, an increase of seven; 128 paid officers, an increase of ten; buildings including state building 29, an increase of two; value $2,139,881, an increase of $319,381; 59 women's auxiliaries.

The associations in general report a healthy condition. Much increased attention has been given to special systematic Bible study. Religious work has been well sustained, and while the results are not tabulated because of the unsatisfactory nature of such attempts, the conviction is well grounded that the forces for good have been steadily at work. To actual professions of conversion to Christ must be added that preparatory work of instruction in truth that always precedes intelligent consecration to His service.

This work has not been confined to regularly organized associations, but has taken the form of "young men's leagues" in some places, while "deputation days," and similar work in small towns have given other opportunities. District work is pushed vigorously and successfully. Work among junior departments is stimulated by conventions and summer camps. Colleges are throwing wide open their doors of welcome and revealing thereby immense possibilities. The physical and educational work are well established in the association system.

That most valuable adjunct of our work, the women's auxiliary, is a constant inspiration as well as a substantial help. More than $45,000 raised by them during the past two years, included $800 for army work; most of the balance was expended in the interest of local associations.

Perhaps the most important new feature has been the army work in connection with the various Massachusetts and Rhode Island regiments, in camp and field. This work was commenced early in June, 1898, and $6,000 expended during the four months succeeding. A special secretarial force was in charge.

Under God, the success which has crowned effort in all these various departments of work, is attributable directly to efficient supervision. Devotion and painstaking are the characteristics of our state committee and their secretaries. Chairman Durrell still gives his time and counsel; Messrs. Moore and Sturgis are still spared to us; Secretary Armstrong is now in his twelfth year of service, ably supported by an efficient corps of four assistants. The personnel of the committee changes a little at each convention.

Our state building is gradually getting nearer to its aim and promise as an actual endowment of our state work. Through the faithful efforts of State Secretary Armstrong the debt is being gradually but surely reduced.

MICHIGAN.

The associations of Michigan during 1897 and 1898 have made steady progress. The problems confronting local work have been severe. The panic of 1893 has still left its imprint. The work in 1897 seemed in a sense to retrograde because many associations had unusual effort in caring for their current work. Detroit, however, early in 1898 started the ball moving by clearing off its floating debt of about $15,000 through an inspiring well-organized effort. This was followed by several similar movements at Jackson, Kalamazoo, Saginaw and other points, which have uniformly resulted in establishing the work on a stronger basis than ever, while new life has been put into the membership. The groundwork is being better established in all of the associations. More care is taken in entering new fields and the preliminaries are very carefully watched. The army work absorbed the attention of the state force in 1898, and the results fully warranted the effort. The association assumed a much higher place in the minds of many young men to whom it had been heretofore a matter of indifference. The changes in the secretarial force, while in some cases largely to the benefit of local work, have emphasized the need of permanency in such positions. Trained men equipped for the position of secretary should possess above all things pluck and perseverance, and should look upon their profession as a life work and not as a stepping-stone to some other occupation. The state work has gained in stability; it needs a more active support. State Secretary Copeland is conscientiously working along permanent lines, and the results are manifest. Secretary Rose, in the college work, has shown marked ability. The state is honored in 1899 with the holding of the International Convention at Grand Rapids, where careful preparations are being made to insure the comfort and welfare of her guests.

CLAY H. HOLLISTER, Cor. Mem.

MINNESOTA.

During the years 1897 and 1898 the association work in Minnesota has been active and varied. A discouragement in one line of work has been offset by a marked encouragement in another branch. The rearrangement of the Minneapolis debt and the payment of $25,000 on the same has been a most important feature of the work in that city, while the reorganization of the association in St. Paul on what seems a thoroughly practicable basis, is the most important and far-reaching event of the two years. In this effort C. S. Ward, representing the International Committee, rendered invaluable service.

State conventions were held in February, 1897 and 1898, at Redwing and Duluth, the attendance being 185 and 199.

There are employed two state secretaries and nineteen other paid officers.

The net valuation of property of the associations is $181,500, an increase of $32,000 in two years. The current expenses for nine city associations for 1897 were $27,600.

The state membership, which for so long a time was held in suspense, has begun to yield some results; we have this fall secured some fifteen members at $5 each, and it seems that this may become an important feature of our work.

For 1897 twenty-four associations reported 3,500 members. During the past year the associations at Faribault and Kasson have been discontinued, and there has been added to our list of town associations, Willmar, Montevideo, Crookston and Moorehead, also a college association in St. Paul College, making a total of thirteen town and city, eleven college and four county associations.

Among college associations very satisfactory conditions have existed during the two years, the most important advance step having been the adoption in most of the college associations of the graded course of Bible study. There has also been a persistent effort made to have each college association represented at Geneva during the summer conferences. The student vacation campaign has been continued each year, with very gratifying success.

In the railroad circle good advance has been made. A new association at Two Harbors owns a fully equipped building worth about $6,000, and has a membership of nearly 300; the association at Brainerd has made gratifying progress, the membership being about 400. Both of these associations are in good financial condition.

Last summer the state committee disbursed $1,500 in its work among the soldiers of the four regiments enlisting from Minnesota for the Spanish war, and employed most of the time of two men from May 6 to September 17.

The county work has been well maintained in the counties of Olmsted and Dodge, but in Fillmore and Rice counties difficulties in raising money have caused a temporary suspension of the work. The state committee is convinced that no work in this state has reached so directly the young men and with so little expense as this, and yet the problem of so interesting the people that they will support this branch of work has not yet been solved. In those counties where no secretary has been employed for a year, a visit from the state secretary finds the young men still banded together and enthusiastic.

G. W. LEWIS, Cor. Mem.

MISSISSIPPI.

The work in Mississippi the last two years has been full of difficulties, and at the same time there have been many encouragements. For nearly three months each year traffic has been largely suspended on account of yellow fever quarantine. During this time our mail and business were so interfered with that it was impossible to undertake any association work. From the effects of the first year's difficulties our associations and state committee rallied quickly. At present it is too early to prophesy what will be the outcome of the second year's work, which affected this state even more than the first; but our trust is in God, and we believe that these difficulties are but the forerunners of greater victories in the near future.

At the state convention in the spring of 1897, the first steps were taken looking to the union of Mississippi and Louisiana under the supervision of one executive committee. This was formally consummated at the convention held at Baton Rouge, in April, 1898. The two states unite in employing one-half of the time of the state secretary, Alabama employing him for the other half. We believe that this union will be of great advantage to the associations in these states. The convention at Baton Rouge was enthusiastic and well attended.

The first railroad department in Mississippi was organized at Meridian in March, 1898, and now has a membership of over 350. The five roads centering in that state contributed to the expense of fitting up splendid rooms and made a monthly appropriation for current expenses. Under the able leadership of Secretary H. W. Mixsell, the work is exceeding our most sanguine expectations. At Water Valley an effort is being made to organize a railroad department with good indications for success.

The state committee maintained association tents with the 1st and 2d Mississippi regiments from their enlistment to the final mustering out. While this entailed a heavy expense on our committee great good was done, and we feel that it will largely increase the interest in association work throughout the state.

Messrs. Andersen, Matthews and Williams, of the International Committee, have rendered very efficient service to our state committee at various times during the past two years. J. R. DOBYNS, Cor. Mem.

MISSOURI.

The twenty-first annual convention of the associations of our state held in 1897 found us with thirty associations—thirteen city and town, thirteen college, and four railroad—with twenty-three men devoting their lives to this department of Christian service. S. D. Gordon, who had been our state secretary, retired to enter evangelistic work, and the state work was carried on during most of the year by volunteer effort. Two college tours were successfully made, one in the spring by William J. Parker, general secretary of the association in the University of Minnesota; the other in the fall by H. A. Wilbur, college secretary of Ohio. College associations were thus reached at the most crucial times in their work, the beginning and close of the college year. Five leading colleges were represented by delegates at the summer conference at Lake Geneva.

In the railroad department the new building in East St. Louis was opened, and the work there given a new impetus. At Kansas City the railroad association showed marked progress, reaching a membership of about 500.

A successful county work, under the direction of the state committee, was carried on in Cass County by H. L. Markell, and a district conference was held in September at Monett, attended by delegates from all the associations in the southwest district of the state.

A well equipped tent was maintained during August while the 2d Regiment National Guard of Missouri held its annual encampment. The work there was very successful.

During 1898 the splendid new central building in St. Louis, costing with the lot nearly $200,000, was dedicated free from debt. This is one of the best arranged and finest association buildings in the world, and it promises to do large things under the efficient leadership of its general secretary, George T. Coxhead, with Walter J. Brown as educational director, and A. F. Kennedy as physical director.

At Kansas City, E. B. Pratt resigned as general secretary, and has entered the ministry. H. L. Markell is acting secretary, and the association is seeking a permanent officer. The indebtedness has been reduced, plans are on foot for enlargement of the building occupied, and the outlook for the work is bright.

At St. Joseph, W. A. Lloyd, formerly secretary at Colorado Springs, has become general secretary, organized a strong board of directors and is carrying on a successful work.

J. H. Banks, who had been very successful as secretary at Springfield, accepted a call to the army department of the International Committee. The association secured H. M. Giddings, and reports that they are entirely free from debt and doing a large and hopeful work.

The association at Joplin has continued its work, notwithstanding the entrance of its efficient secretary, Mr. Coulter, into the army work. Central Christian College at Albany, and the State School of Mines at Rolla have been added to the list of student associations.

Just prior to the convention of 1898, held at Kansas City, we secured two or three months of very efficient service from W. M. Parsons, formerly connected with association work in Iowa. We lost by death during the year 1898 S. A. Voorhees, of Kansas City, some time a member of the state executive committee, one of our most earnest and efficient men.

The international secretaries have rendered helpful service, especially in connection with the railroad work

H. M. BEARDSLEY, Cor. Mem.

NEBRASKA.

It would seem that the Nebraska associations have, like some of the western cities and towns, reached rock foundations, and that the outlook is for an upward movement. During the year the association at Auburn was temporarily closed while the work at Hastings was greatly strengthened, one of the results of the convention that was held there in 1897. The work at Lincoln has been very difficult; the association has lost its building, and is now in course of reconstruction. At Fremont the association, with a janitor secretary, has not only reduced its indebtedness, but is doing a splendid work, the strong point being the volunteer committeemen. The South Omaha branch has been having a hard struggle and had to curtail its work somewhat. The association is now, however, getting hold of more men and doing better work than heretofore, and with the financial backing of the packing houses, some of which is already secured, brighter days are expected. The Omaha association, which is in better condition than a year ago, made its work count for a good deal during the recent exposition, and has been quite a factor in the work throughout the state. Among the encouraging features here have been the putting of the association on a basis where membership fees and subscriptions meet current expenses, and the reduction of $1,000 of its indebtedness; also the splendid work of the evening educational classes, with an enrollment of 215 different men, and a large increase in the use of the gymnasium.

The railroad work has been carefully looked after by International Secretary McDill. Improvements have been made at North Platte and Grand Island; also an appropriation secured for the work at Chadron. This is the first appropriation made by the F. E. & M. V. Railroad.

At present there are twelve college associations in the state. The reports from the college work are very encouraging. E. W. Ellis has visited the colleges twice during the year. The state was represented by thirty-three men at the Cleveland convention and by eighteen at the Geneva conference. College Men, a paper published by students at the State University, was quite helpful to the work. The two features of special note were the securing of a general secretary for the State University, John Moore, formerly secretary at Cedar Rapids, Ia., with a remarkable development of the university association since his arrival, and the evangelistic work done by the students of the various associations during the Christmas holidays.

Without a state secretary it was not possible to do very much among the army volunteers, but in two of the regiments regimental organizations were formed, and a knapsack Bible or Testament put in the hands of every man who desired it. Two copies of Men were also furnished each company.

The state convention at Fremont in December, attended by 139 delegates, was one of the best held in the state for many years.

The state committee is now well organized, with an aggressive chairman and with a number of experienced men on the committee. The indebtedness was reduced during the year, and the committee begins work this year under more favorable circumstances than for some time. Through the courtesy of the International Committee C. S. Ward was secured for a month previous to the convention. The committee is also indebted to the International Committee for the helpfulness of C. C. Michener and George D. McDill. F. L. WILLIS, Cor. Mem.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The interstate committee of Vermont and New Hampshire has prosecuted a quiet, steady work during the past two years.

During the first half of 1897 Claus Olandt, Jr., was the state secretary. Since then we have been without a permanent supervising officer, but the International Committee, through its field department, has rendered valuable assistance.

The association at Keene has secured in pledges the $18,000 necessary to pay the mortgage on its property. Manchester has been fortunate in securing the Manchester Gymnasium property at $14,000, the original cost being $20,000. An enlarged aggressive work is now being carried on at this point. Nashua, Laconia and Portsmouth are making definite moves toward securing funds with which to erect buildings. Brattleboro has set an example for us all in securing, before the beginning of its new year, sufficient funds to carry on the work for 1899.

The physical and boys' departments have been markedly successful throughout the two states. The educational work has not received the attention it merits, and there is much room for improvement in this important department.

The college associations feel the lack of constant state supervision, though good work is being done by the students. Dartmouth suffered an almost irreparable loss in the death of Secretary Aiken.

The railroad departments at Concord and Rutland are recognized as successful by the railroad officials, and they are a blessing to the entire work. The Portsmouth association did an effective work for the soldiers and sailors during the past summer, and the Burlington association is actively interested at Fort Ethan Allen.

The 1898 convention at Montpelier was very profitable and the papers, deeply interesting and rich in thought, gave the delegates new ideas to take home for adaptation.

For the first two months of 1899 the interstate committee secured the services of T. T. Hazlewood, who visited nearly all of the associations in the two states, and rendered most efficient aid. The convention held at Laconia, in February, was one of great spiritual power, and was owned and blessed of God in the quickening of spiritual life and the conversion of souls.

For the new year Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont have formed an alliance for a united state work, which we believe will result in broadening our work and developing this field. GEORGE WINCH, Cor. Mem.

NEW JERSEY.

Since the last report there has been no increase in the number of associations. Several have ceased to exist, or are temporarily inoperative. The total membership is therefore less, although individual organizations show gains. The increase in 1897 was marked, some city associations reporting from 30 per cent to 100 per cent.

The educational work seemed to reach its height in 1897. The following year showed a general decrease of interest in this department, though there are notable exceptions. Doubtless the work has suffered from the absence of A. B. Clemens, secretary for this department in the state. He resigned in August, 1898, and his place has not been filled.

The college work shows constant development and gain in membership. Associations have been organized at Princeton and Drew theological seminaries.

The condition of the railroad work is practically the same as two years ago. The hearty, earnest spirit is still manifested and many hopeful conversions are reported. Preliminary steps have been taken toward organization at the Jersey City terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Much attention is given by the state committee to work in unorganized towns. The number of corresponding members is increasing, also the observance of "young men's Sundays."

In 1897 conferences were held in all the districts. Their place was taken in 1898 by department conferences with gratifying results. Each year a conference and dinner of directors is held. These have proved to be of great interest and profit.

The boys' work shows steady improvement both in numbers and methods. The foundation work done in our state by Sumner F. Dudley will bear fruit for many years.

The conventions of the past two years have been strong and practical. That recently held at Rahway was the largest for ten years, and the most spiritual in tone of any ever held. The personnel of the secretarial force in the state is stronger than ever and fewer changes are noted.

Arthur Lucas resigned the office of state secretary in August, 1897, after five years of faithful service, to enter the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church. He was succeeded by Donald MacColl, who has filled the office most acceptably, showing rare qualifications for it.

The building movement is on the increase. Long Branch has secured a lot costing $5,000; Madison one valued at $10,000; Montclair and Passaic will dedicate new buildings during the current year, the former association spending $55,000, the latter $25,000. Newark will erect the first section of a new building at an outlay of $60,000.

The financial condition of the state work is encouraging. In 1897 $4,200 was expended; in 1898 $10,200, of which $4,700 was for army work. The floating debt, which had been carried for several years was wiped out.

The work among the soldiers was maintained from May 1st to December 1st, 1898, at varying intervals at Camp Voorhees, Sea Girt, Fort Hancock and Pompton Lakes, N. J., Jacksonville, Fla., and Athens, Ga., nine different representatives being employed. The results, moral and spiritual, were gratifying. Upwards of two hundred soldiers professed conversion. Every facility for conducting the work was afforded by the authorities. The beneficial effect of it was made the subject of state and military official comment. The reflex influence of this special work upon the associations is manifest.

The secretaries of the International Committee have rendered valuable aid in many branches of the work. EDWARD P. HOLDEN, Cor. Mem.

NEW YORK.

The plan of holding our state conventions biennially, and in the alternate years holding section conventions, has been well received, while the results to the associations and to the general state work seem to justify the wisdom of the change.

The work during the past two years shows steady and substantial advancement. The burden is very great and State Secretaries Goodman and Hall and their assistants find their time fully occupied in visiting associations and counselling boards of directors and secretaries, in planning work for the weaker associations and raising funds for the prosecution of the plans when formed. The work in general, however, is constantly increasing, and our present force, already overworked, is inadequate to the pressing demands for help. There is need for an evangelistic and Bible secretary, and a secretary for village visitation; but this enlargement of the work, necessary as it is, must be deferred until the amount of money annually raised, and insufficient for present needs, shall be materially increased.

Associations are now organized in this state as follows: 75 city and town, 30 railroad, 37 student, 3 French and German, and 18 "sections" in small towns—a total of 163. In addition, 282 unorganized towns are represented by corresponding members.

Special boys' work is conducted by 58 associations; 27 of these have separate rooms, 29 conduct Bible classes, and 31 other religious meetings. In 1898 three boys' conferences were held. Boys' camps were more largely attended than ever before. At Camp Dudley, on Lake Champlain, (named in memory of Sumner F. Dudley, for so many years the beloved leader in boys' work), 135 boys were present, 24 of whom professed conversion before the close of the camp. Six other camps were attended by 178 boys, and it is gratifying to report no sickness or accident at any of these camps.

Bible study classes to the number of 166 are organized in 68 associations; 112 of these, or over 67 per cent, are pursuing courses of study suggested by the prospectus of the International Committee which was published in August, 1898, as the outcome of the action of our state committee in arranging a course of general instruction following the holding of four conferences in New York, Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo, in June, to widen the scope and to systematize the Bible study departments of our associations. The appreciation in this state of the work by the International Committee is further evidenced by the fact that 73 per cent of associations reporting personal work classes, and 65 per cent of associations reporting evangelistic Bible classes are following courses outlined in the prospectus. "Bible study day" was observed September 26, 1898; 50 associations reported its observance with attendance of nearly 3,500.

The work conducted for twelve years past at our Peekskill state military camp was, during the war with Spain, greatly increased. Tents in charge of experienced men were set up at Peekskill and Camp Black until the departure of the troops for the front, and re-opened upon their return and maintained until these camps finally closed. Tents also were maintained at Forts Wadsworth and Hamilton. The great work at Montank Point was provided for by the International Committee, but placed under supervision of our secretary, Mr. Hall. Much religious interest was reported at all the camps. Sunday services and week evening meetings were regularly held. Frank W. Smith, of Boston, and Robert L. Jones of Jamestown, and others, together with our own secretaries, conducted these services with wonderful response by the men. Our thanks are due to many churches and associations for gifts and volunteer workers, and to business firms for liberal donations. From five to thirteen tents were constantly maintained; as many as fifteen secretaries were employed. The work necessitated an expense of $3,000. Great quantities of literature and stationery with other necessary supplies were distributed.

During the past two years new buildings have been opened and occupied by the East Side branch, New York city (cost $100,000); Albany railroad association ($40,000); Lansingburg ($7,000); and the fine new building of the association at Troy ($100,000). At Kingston, Jamestown, Saratoga, Plattsburg, Binghamton R. R., West Albany R. R., Oneonta R. R., Watertown R. R., and 72d Street R. R., New York city, funds or buildings are in process of completion; the New York city association has purchased a plot at Lexington avenue and 26th street, on which to erect a branch building in the event of the sale of the present building on Twenty-third street. The association property in the state now consists of 56 buildings besides other real and personal property valued altogether at nearly $5,000,000.

The railroad work is prosecuted vigorously, and the outlook is encouraging. Of the buildings or funds now being completed about one-half are for railroad associations. The work among the student associations has been earnest and energetic, but it is so great and important as to need the entire attention of a special secretary. Ninety-four students from 27 institutions in this state were in attendance at the Northfield student conference in 1898. Many associations have been helped by women's auxiliaries. Conferences of two days each, held at Sing Sing and Auburn to consider the work of the auxiliaries, were attended by 110 ladies.

Every one who holds dear the work of the Young Men's Christian Association, not only on this continent but throughout the world, was profoundly grieved at the death of Robert R. McBurney, who was one of the founders of the work in this country, its greatest organizer, and throughout his life its master mind. But especially by the workers in this state and in New York city, is his loss most keenly felt. He practically organized the state work. During all the years his advice on important measures was always sought and carefully followed. Every association man was his friend, and he a friend to every man, sincerely earnest, constant and devoted. It was his selected life work. His every waking thought and moment were given to it. He injured his health and shortened his life through devoted attention to it, but willingly and gladly made the sacrifice for its master, Jesus Christ. W. H. MICHALES, Cor. Mem.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The work in North Carolina cannot be said to be in a satisfactory condition. Several changes in the state secretaryship during the last three years have entailed some disadvantages that have hindered the work.

These, however, are in a fair way to be overcome. The army work during the recent war absorbed the whole energy of the state committee for some months, and even yet the work is not quite finished. Three of our local secretaries gave a considerable part of their summer to camp work.

One secretarial point has been lost, otherwise these points have been more than usually prosperous. Many local movements giving greater efficiency to Christian effort for the young men have been introduced.

The work in the smaller towns and villages languishes in a measure. The college associations are in a strong and healthy condition. The International Committee has rendered frequent help to our work.

GEORGE B. HANNA, Cor. Mem.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Notwithstanding the fact that North Dakota has had no state worker for several years, no convention since the last report, and only an occasional visit from international workers, yet its agencies have proven so acceptable wherever known, that the general public has recognized, perhaps as never before, that the association work becomes a prime factor for good in moulding the state's manhood.

This has largely come about through the vigorous and successful efforts at the two secretarial points, Grand Forks and Fargo, in visits made by the secretaries to the leading cities and towns, and especially in the splendid camp work during the mobilization of North Dakota volunteers in Fargo.

Through these and kindred efforts the state's interests have been carefully watched over, young men's Sundays have been held at many points, correspondence and active efforts for early organization of several associations have been maintained, and a splendid foundation laid for future visitation and organization.

The railroad work has made rapid strides through a strong and effective railroad committee working along the main line of the N. P., and including in the Fargo membership nearly all the leading officials on the Dakota division.

A heavy additional financial burden of $1,000 was laid upon the Fargo association during 1898 through an imperative removal from its old site to its new location—the new depot requiring the site originally used for the Young Men's Christian Association. Still the board has taken hold and is pushing for an entire extinction of this and old debts.

Grand Forks has held its place as a strong religious centre, and though hampered by poor quarters, yet a steady, lasting work has been accomplished.

A change in the secretariat at Grand Forks—through the removal of Secretary Van Vranken to Grand Rapids, Mich.—and in Fargo—through Secretary Day accepting the Tacoma, Wash., association—put two new men in the field, both of whom, however, through loyal support from their directors have made the years marked and aggressive ones. College work is not strong. A visit of recent date from Mr. St. John revealed the fact that both the University of Grand Forks and the Agricultural College of Fargo had dropped their work, leaving Fargo College as the only college association in the state. Though not numerically strong, yet this association is doing a splendid work. Devil's Lake holds its place and work. Jamestown with 3,000 population, Wahpeton 3,000, and Carrington with 1,500, are moving for some line of work for men, and if a worker could give a little time to the state much better results could be obtained.

JOHN ORCHARD, Cor. Mem.

OHIO.

The aim of the Ohio committee during the past two years has been rather to build up strong associations by strengthening those that are weak than to organize many new points, which experience has shown us may come to be sources of weakness rather than strength.

Under conditions which could not be overcome, four points have closed during the past year, while two have been added, and we now number 31 city and railroad associations and 34 college associations, all of which show some development and strength, with a total membership of 17,459.

Permanent and eminently satisfactory buildings have been put up at Mansfield, Linndale, Newark and Lorain—the latter near the great steel plant, almost in the woods, a model building for a far larger town, and practically free from debt. In Marion a heavy indebtedness has been raised and their beautiful building is now their own. Another serious debt has been put out of the way, that of Cincinnati, $50,000.

There have been 34 secretarial changes during the year. At present our state is remarkably well manned.

The most conspicuous fact regarding our work during the past year has been the remarkable work among our soldiers here and outside the state. While this has cost much time and money, it has so bound the hearts of the people to us as to practically more than double the number of our contributors, nor will the grand opportunity thus seized ever be regretted, as our work will no doubt feel its influence for a generation to come.

Ohio has probably more colleges, in proportion to its acreage, than any other political division of the globe. Among these colleges the work has been one of careful development. We are gratified to report that Bible study is more intelligent and persistent, and that on the whole the religious feature of this branch of our work is more hopeful than heretofore. A conference between the newly elected presidents and the presidents of the colleges was recently held. It proved to be of unusual interest and profit.

On account of the plan of biennial state conventions, a conference of trustees, directors and secretaries was held at the usual convention time this year. It was attended by 117 directors and 48 secretaries. This gathering, affording strong papers and helpful discussions, is considered the greatest recent event in Ohio association circles.

PENNSYLVANIA.

In common with all sections of our country Pennsylvania has not escaped the influence of the business depression so prevalent during the past decade. However, in spite of the hindrances this has interposed to an aggressive advance in the state, we are grateful to record a steady and sure growth. This has not been so much in the direction of new work as in strengthening the associations already organized. With many there have been extremes of difficulty and extremes of success. Some have had unusual discouragements in financial matters, in service, or membership, or in the religious work. On the other hand many have been blessed in these very particulars, while all that have had difficulties to contend with in overcoming them have grown stronger in their trust in Him who ordereth our ways.

We now have in the state 150 associations, 77 of them being city and town, 20 railroad, and 53 college, one less than we reported two years ago. Associations to the number of 91 report a total net property valuation of $2,610,174; 121 associations report a total membership of over 28,000. A most gratifying gain is to be noted in the Bible and Bible training classes in the college associations both in numbers and attendance.

Executive officers to the number of 161 are employed in the conduct of the work; 4 as state secretaries, 121 as general and assistant secretaries, and 36 as physical directors and assistants, being a gain of four over the number last reported. It is most gratifying to note the greatly lessened number of changes among the secretaries. This bespeaks for the work added stability, and consequently better standing in the community.

Since our last report two associations have dedicated and occupied new buildings: Warren, costing $40,000, and Hazleton, costing $52,000. Lock Haven has purchased, remodeled and beautified an old building located in the very business center of the town. Total cost about $4,000. York has made improvements at a cost of $6,000; Scranton, whose building was destroyed last year, will soon erect one of the finest association homes in the east, building and lot to cost $225,000; the Harrisburg association has $22,000 pledged toward a new building. In addition, building improvements are being developed at Easton, Pittston, Bradford, Erie and Lancaster.

The educational work among the associations of the state shows a marked gain. Valuable service is being constantly rendered to this work by International Secretary Hodge, and by the valuable and timely printed matter sent out from time to time by the International Committee.

The work by bands of young men from different colleges and schools, who devote their summer vacation to evangelistic effort in the small towns, has been conducted with marked success, being helpful to the communities visited and to those engaged in it.

The Bible conference, of which mention was made in our report two years ago, has been conducted each summer since with increasing interest and helpfulness. In 1897 it was held at Bloomsburg, July 13-22, total attendance being 275; 162 men represented 45 associations. For 1898 the conference was held at Eagles Mere, September 3-11, total attendance being 334; 203 men represented 48 associations. Among the instructors have been R. A. Torrey, J. Wilbur Chapman, J. M. Buckley, F. W. Farr, Henry G. Weston, Robert E. Speer, Henry Varley and others. The conference for 1899 is already announced to meet at Eagles Mere, July 15-23. A new feature will be a normal training class for the instruction of men for Bible class teachers in the association.

Our college associations, under the leadership of our late lamented Hugh McA. Beaver, Charles W. Harvey and E. D. Soper, respectively, college secretaries during the past two years, have shown marked gain. In connection with the conference of college association presidents, valuable help has been rendered by secretaries John R. Mott and Gilbert A. Beaver, of the International Committee.

These years have witnessed our two largest state conventions, with an attendance respectively of 642 and 670. The enthusiasm and helpfulness of these conventions has greatly stimulated all our work.

Since our last report the following new features are to be noted : (1) The work among the lumber camps in the northern part of our state. Two men carrying a folding organ, hymn books, Bibles and hammocks, spent nearly two months in the summer of 1898 visiting the lumber camps in Potter County. Because of the exceptional need for such work, and the great desire of the men themselves for it, the committee has decided to continue this effort. (2) 1898 also witnessed the inception of "county work" in our state. Luzerne County was organized early in the year, with Thomas Thorburn as county secretary, the work being directed by a county executive committee. Effective work has already been done, and the plan will be extended to other counties as rapidly as it is feasible to do so. (3) Another new feature is the conduct of association work in small towns, two of them uniting to share the expenses of the work, and securing the services of a competent secretary to direct the work. The associations at Shippensburg and Mechanicsburg have been organized and operated on this basis with encouraging results. (4) The setting apart of a Sunday closely following the state convention each year to be observed as "state work day." Circulars descriptive of the state work and pledge blanks are sent to the various associations. At the usual men's meeting or a union meeting on this day, the state work is presented and subscriptions received for it. (5) The adoption of the "pooling system" by the college associations of the state in connection with the annual college association presidents' conference, which has accomplished two things at least: First, it has equalized the expense of the college associations sending their presidents; and second, it makes very much more certain the largest possible attendance of the newly elected college association presidents.

We are indebted to the International Committee for services rendered by Messrs. Morse, Williams, Hicks, Shipp and Moore, in addition to those already mentioned.

A wonderful opportunity was afforded the associations of Pennsylvania on the occasion of the mobilization of the soldiers at Mount Gretna. The state committee went on the ground immediately on the arrival of the troops, on the 28th of April, 1898, and work has been continuously prosecuted since then at Camp Hastings, Camp Alger, Camp Meade and Camp McKeuzie. God honored the work done among the soldiers in a marvelous way, especially during May. Face to face with the dread possibilities and uncertainties of war, the soldier boys during those early days were very open to the reception of the gospel, and at Camp Hastings hundreds of them, through the gospel meetings and by personal work, were led to accept Jesus Christ as their Savior. Hundreds more, already nominal Christians, but who had lowered their colors in the face of the temptations and laxity of camp life, were led to take a new stand. The total cost of this work for 1898 was $3,400; 38 different men assisted in the conduct of the work, 33 of them being association men.

CHARLES H. ZEHNDER, Cor. Mem.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

More than any previous year in our history the one just past should fill our hearts with profound gratitude to God for his wonderful work among the young men of South Carolina. Time and space will allow us to give but a few salient points. Among the encouragements we may note the following: (1) A better financial constituency; we have spent more than double the amount of money this year than last, but the increased amount has come with more ease than the pittance asked for in previous years. (2) The increased work carried to a successful conclusion during the year. (3) The greater interest in our work shown by the people all over the state. Following is a summary of the work in the several departments. It must be borne in mind that a state secretary is employed for only six months in the year, the rest of his time being given to North Carolina.

1. The work in small towns and country communities.—This work has been looked after as carefully this year as pressing duties in other directions would admit. While practically we are in the experimental stage in this line, we consider our work incomplete until some method is inaugurated that will reach the young men of our small towns and country communities. Experience has shown that where the proper man can be secured to give his undivided time and attention to the work of a county it can be made a useful and successful effort. The good results have been so apparent that we desire to see upon the executive force of our state a man giving his entire time to this branch.

2. The work in cities.—Our state being largely made up of small towns and villages, we cannot boast of numbers in our city work. The line of effort in the Charleston association is on a broader scale than ever before. The association at Columbia is now in the midst of a building movement. Some effort was made at Spartanburg the past year, and we trust will result in time in adding that city to the list of secretarial points. The work at Sumter has recently taken on new life, and bids fair to be a useful factor in shaping the lives of the young men of that place.

3. The student work.—Probably the greatest source of encouragement is the progress of the work being done in the colleges. The associations at Newberry College, South Carolina College, Erskine College, and the Citadel have permanent quarters assigned them in the college building and have furnished them in a comfortable manner. A larger number of the lower class men are being reached by the associations, and from the beginning of their college life are being led in paths of usefulness. This insures a continuous work, for as men graduate and leave college, well trained workmen are coming on to take their places. The membership is largely increased in most of our college associations and the interest taken in it by the leading students was never before equalled. The members of the faculties, with few exceptions, speak of this work in the highest terms and encourage it in every way. The student summer school, held last June at Asheville, N. C., was attended by representatives from nearly all the colleges in the state. Eleven college associations are in existence.

4. The Bible work.—The Charleston association and all of our leading college associations are now doing a telling work in the way of Bible study. Better trained leaders and courses of study especially adapted to young men, and gotten up with the greatest care by the state and international committees, are notable features of advance. More and larger classes are reported from most quarters.

5. Army work.—As soon as the call for troops was made in this state preparation was at once begun by the state committee for a definite work among them. A large tent was purchased and equipped with reading matter, correspondence tables, where free paper and envelopes were furnished, harmless games of different kinds, song books, Bibles, chairs, water barrels, and such other things as would tend toward the comfort of the troops. The tent was in charge of a trained secretary. Every night a gospel meeting was held and each day one or more Bible classes conducted. The tent followed the troops wherever they went. The work was spoken of in the highest terms of commendation by both officers and men in the line. Many openly confessed Christ and hundreds more had thrown about them influences that kept them from the open sin and licentiousness of camp life. More than thirty-five thousand sheets of letter paper were given out. The tent was crowded with men from morning until night.

6. Miscellaneous.—We have long seen the need of trained southern men for the southern work, and with that idea in view we have been successful the past year in getting three of our South Carolina young men into the general secretaryship. C. L. Gates, of the International Committee, has recently been assigned to the work in this section. For thirteen years Mr. Gates has been doing successful work in the south and southwest, and we welcome a man so well equipped and so successful in field work. During the past month he has rendered our committee valuable aid along financial lines. We have also to acknowledge the helpful assistance of the International Committee's representative in connection with our state convention.

A. T. JAMISON, Cor. Mem.

TENNESSEE.

While the associations in Tennessee do not show any increase numerically since our last report, the work throughout the state indicates increased strength and growth since the Mobile convention; for the first time for several years we have employed the services of a state secretary—S. W. McGill having divided his time with the Georgia associations. He has recently been engaged for work in Tennessee exclusively.

All the associations in the larger towns and cities show improvement. Chattanooga reports new rooms, the old indebtedness wiped out, and money provided for the budget for the new year. Knoxville has secured a valuable lot and reports increased activity in all departments—its educational work being specially deserving of mention. Bristol has paid off the building debt and hopes soon to call a general secretary. Nashville has made a much needed improvement in its building by the addition of a new gymnasium and splendid bathing facilities. The work at Memphis has been saved through the instrumentality of the state committee. A building admirably adapted for the work has been purchased and new interest and life have been manifested.

All the college associations, seventeen in number, are doing good work, while two of these associations, Maryville and the University of Tennessee, occupy their own buildings.

Our thanks are due the International Committee for the helpful services of W. K. Matthews, in his visitation to the college associations, and his attendance at the state conventions.

A large portion of the time of the state secretary during the summer months was devoted to the association work among the volunteers in the army. Work was undertaken with all the Tennessee regiments, under the direction of either the state or international committees. As a result of these efforts hundreds of these young men have been kept from temptation, and scores of them led to publicly profess their faith in Christ.

The first railroad association in our state has been organized at Knoxville. The Southern Railway has provided rooms and equipment, and a partial canvass has been undertaken among the railroad men to secure members for this department. H. O. Williams, of the International Committee, has rendered most effective service in establishing the work. J. M. Rice is the new secretary of this association.

JAMES H. COWAN, Cor. Mem.

There are now in the state seventeen city and fourteen college associations, making thirty-one in all.

These associations employ thirteen general secretaries, one assistant and eight physical directors, besides the state secretary and an army secretary, or twenty-three in all.

Two associations own buildings, the one at Galveston being the gift of Henry Rosenberg and costing $65,000, and the one at Dallas valued at $20,000.

A railroad association building to cost $12,000 is now being erected at Temple, and $10,000 for one at Cleburne has been subscribed.

W. E. Wayte, who served the state committee for seven years as state secretary, resigned March 1st to enter business, leaving the state work practically out of debt. The committee was without a secretary till September 15th, when J. B. Palmer, for twelve years general secretary at Galveston, entered upon the duties of that office.

The state convention was held in Galveston in April. An athletic contest was held on Saturday afternoon, and the general secretaries and physical directors held a conference on the following Monday. A very profitable conference of college men was held in Fort Worth in December.

We are grateful to the International Committee for the assistance rendered us by their secretaries, Messrs. Gates, Matthews and McDill.

J. P. JACKSON, Cor. Mem.

UTAH.

Utah has but one association, that at Salt Lake City, and it has required a great effort to maintain this work. We rejoice in the fact that each year sees a strengthening in all departments, and the outlook for the future is altogether encouraging. We appreciate to the full the support that the International Committee has given, especially by the frequent visits of field secretaries.

FRANK PIERCE, Cor. Mem.

VERMONT.

The last two years have been hard years for association work in Vermont owing to the financial depression of the country. No new associations have been formed during that time. One association, Bellows Falls, has been discontinued for want of financial support.

The Rutland association has wiped out its indebtedness and is doing a cash business, with a live secretary and physical director in charge, and in probably as fine rented quarters as any association in New England.

Nearly every association in the state has changed secretaries within the two years, but the present outlook seems very hopeful for nearly all associations now in existence.

We have had the services of a state secretary only about two or three months in the last two years, but expect very soon to share a field worker with Maine and New Hampshire.

The indebtedness of the state committee at the present time is about $500, but an effort is being made to wipe it out.

Very valuable assistance has been from time to time rendered our state work by the International Committee.

G. F. NORTH, Cor. Mem.

VIRGINIA.

At present there are forty-seven associations in Virginia—nineteen city and town, twenty-one college, five railroad, one army, and one mining. At the suggestion of the state committee, State Secretary L. A. Coulter made investigation of conditions in the southwest of the state, secured the support of the company operating mines, and organized an association at Pocahontas, which is steadily increasing in usefulness. We lost two railroad associations by change of division points—Radford and Shenandoah. New organizations have been formed at Medical College of Virginia and the University College of Medicine, both of Richmond. Portsmouth has secured a building fund of $15,000, purchased and remodeled building, and will add gymnasium. Debt on the Petersburg building decreased from $34,500 to $16,500; current debt of $2,100 also paid.

State committee did successful work among volunteers at Camp Lee, Richmond; Camp Cobb, Fredericksburg; and 1st Maryland Regiment, Fort Monroe, with gratifying results.

The 21st annual convention was held at Petersburg, February 24-28, 1897, with 241 delegates. E. L. Hamilton and W. K. Matthews represented the International Committee. The 22d met in Lynchburg, February 17-20, 1898, with 247 delegates. The International Committee was represented by H. P. Andersen and John F. Moore. L. A. Coulter and W. Reginald Walker have continued as state secretary and office secretary respectively.

The association work in the state has been strengthened through the services of H. O. Williams and W. K. Matthews, of the International Committee, and Robert R. Gailey, of the Student Volunteer Movement.

The membership of the Virginia associations numbers 6,775. Number of professed conversions for year 1898, including those among volunteer soldiers, 595.

JAMES B. GREGORY, Cor. Mem.

WISCONSIN.

The past two years have been very largely occupied in "holding on," with decided advance at some points, averaging, however, only slight increase. Eleven city associations and three railroad departments occupy buildings of their own, out of a total of thirty associations, nine of which are in colleges and normal schools. The college work is in fine condition at all the points and the work most promising. Our state conventions have been meetings of great helpfulness, not largely attended but spiritual and blessed in results. The Baraboo association has succeeded in lifting a mortgage which had hindered its work for years; now the building is free. Janesville has also made a strong effort on the same line which bids fair to be a success. At Baraboo, Kaukauna and Milwaukee, railway work has been well sustained. There are twenty-six men employed, including our two state secretaries, with two vacancies. The Wisconsin secretaries find their semi-annual conference at Milwaukee, in April each year, a great blessing. We have been specially favored in the representatives sent to our state conventions from the International Committee. At Waukesha, in October, 1898, Messrs. Weidensall, Michener and Hamilton were present and gave most valuable aid.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, PORTLAND, ME.

DEDICATED SEPTEMBER 29, 1898.

Dimensions, 90 x 100 feet. Cost, $133,000. Population, 40,000.

STATEMENT REGARDING THE WORK OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE.

I.—The Convention—The Jubilee.

1. The 33d International Convention.—The year 1899 has been made memorable in the history of the North American association movement by the important and far-reaching action taken by the 33d International Convention at Grand Rapids. The convention was noteworthy for the presence of an unusually large number of the representative business men connected with the management of the North American associations. The unexampled exhibit, noticed elsewhere, was a most remarkable feature. Among the important decisions reached may be mentioned the enthusiastic approval of the army and navy work, the opportunity and demand for which had occurred since the former convention. This action has placed new responsibility upon the International Committee, and adds greatly to the volume and usefulness of its work. The convention also authorized further enlargement in the other departments of the committee's administration.

2. The Jubilee Convention.—But what chiefly signaled the Grand Rapids convention was its important decision to celebrate the jubilee year of the North American associations in 1901, by making the program of the International Convention of that year, in all its features, commemorative of this jubilee.

To fitly and adequately accomplish this commemoration a preparation is needed which must tax seriously both the treasury and the working force of the committee. Already a special committee of its members and secretaries has been appointed; conference with the Boston association, which is to entertain the convention, has been opened; and the raising of one special fund by that association and of another by the committee has been found necessary in order to carry out the broad and comprehensive program which is being prepared. The co-operation by prayer and effort of all interested in the best welfare of the associations is earnestly solicited that the great objects of this convention may be so realized as to prove a blessing and stimulus to the entire association brotherhood on this and all the continents. The date decided upon is June 11-16, 1901.

3. The Jubilee Fund.—As part of the commemoration of the jubilee year the Grand Rapids convention urged upon the associations and their friends securing for the international work, A JUBILEE PERMANENT FUND OF ONE MILLION DOLLARS. Already this appeal has met with some response.

(a) One friend has given into the custody of the board of trustees of the committee in good interest bearing securities, $25,000, to form part of the general fund, the proceeds of which are appropriated by the committee each year to that part or department of the work most in need.

(b) Another friend offers to provide an administration building in New York for the office accommodation of the international work.

(c) $50,000 is offered by another friend, provided an equal amount is subscribed to complete a fund of $100,000—the proceeds of which will be specially devoted to the administration of the student department.

(d) A fourth friend offers $5,000, provided $10,000 more is subscribed, toward the support of the colored department of the international work.

All these generous friends are already giving annually and liberally for the carrying on of the committee's work. There is urgent need of the speedy co-operation of many more if this important fund is to be happily completed during the jubilee year.

II.—Committee Meetings—Women's Auxiliary—Association Men.

1. Committee Meetings.—The past year has been one of steady and substantial growth in every department of the work entrusted to the International Committee. This work has been faithfully administered by the eleven sub-committees whose reports have been carefully reviewed and acted upon at the regular monthly meetings of the working quorum in New York city.

The regular fall conference of the committee and its secretaries was held at Long Beach, N. Y., September 2-5, 1899. At this time the policy and plans for the year were fully discussed. This was followed by section conferences of the respective sub-committees with the various departmental secretaries. Special attention and instructions were given in each department concerning the mutual relationships of comity and conference between the International Committee and the state or provincial committees as, "established by usage hitherto," and as emphasized by the action of the Grand Rapids convention, and the committee in all its work has endeavored to meet the needs of each field in accordance with the spirit of these instructions from the convention.

The annual dinner meeting of the committee and its friends in New York, November 17, was attended by an unusual number of guests and was improved as a valuable opportunity for the review of the entire work.

2. Association Men.—In the discretion granted to the committee by the Grand Rapids convention, the association paper has been leased from the Young Men's Era Company for one year from October 1st, 1899, with the privilege of renewal for another year, and the paper is being published under the name of "Association Men," with Frank W. Ober as editor. The officers, members and friends of the association have so co-operated with the committee, its editor and secretaries, that the paper seems to be giving increasing satisfaction to its constituency.

3. Women's Auxiliary.—To the Mobile convention the committee reported the appointment in the spring of 1897, of a "WOMEN'S AUXILIARY of the International Committee." The officers of this auxiliary are:

President, First Vice-President, Second Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. E. A. McAlpin. Mrs. R. Sage. Miss H. M. Gould. Miss L. C. O'Neill.

These officers, with Mrs. John P. Munn and Mrs. O. B. Potter, comprise the executive committee.

The past year has witnessed a marked growth in the auxiliary, and a most gratifying interest on the part of the members.

The Spanish-American war, and the inauguration of the association movement in the army and navy, called attention to the great need and the large possibilities of effort by the auxiliary, and its aid has resulted in an efficiency in the work which otherwise would have been impossible.

Through members of the auxiliary there have come large gifts of money for the maintenance of the committee's work on the army transports, in the Philippines, and at other points. There have also been given libraries, pictures, games, gramophones, stereopticons, music boxes and other equipment, all of which have been very helpful and greatly appreciated.

The largest result of the year's work is in the promise and planning through the auxiliary of a commodious and well-equipped association building soon to be erected near the New York Navy Yard. It is a generous beginning of a provision at the United States navy yards for the needs of the enlisted men of the navy which will greatly increase the reach and usefulness of this department of the international work.

III.—Business Department.

In this department the steady growth of the work has called for incessant and vigilant effort that the financial resources of the committee might be equal to the demands upon its treasury. W. E. Lougee, with the co-operation of his fellow secretaries, especially T. K. Cree and the general secretary, has made encouraging progress in systematizing and increasing the efficiency of the correspondence and visitation connected with this important department. The associations, the general secretaries and other employed officers, and many other friends have responded generously to these efforts and enabled the committee to meet successfully all its financial obligations for the fiscal year 1899. Though by faithful and diligent exertion a larger number of donors had been enlisted than in any previous year yet during the last month a special effort was required to secure $30,000 in order to close the year free of debt. Owing to the very generous response of friends, some of whom had already given liberally, this large sum was happily obtained.

IV.—State and Provincial Conventions.

At these conventions for 1899, twenty-seven in number, representatives of the committee were present in response to urgent invitations. Their names are given in the tabulated report of these meetings. The many hearty letters of thanks that have been received indicate that the aid thus rendered has been greatly appreciated.

V.—The Field Work.

Field Secretaries C. K. Ober, C. L. Gates, W. B. Millar and C. S. Ward have continued in their respective fields, the central west, the south, the east and the northwest. In the fall of 1899 C. C. Michener was added to the force of the field secretaries, with special reference to the work in the southwest.

T. T. Hazlewood has worked in the east under general direction of the committee, but the expense of his work has been entirely met by the state committees and associations aided.

In connection with the field work F. B. Smith, spent the year in effort to promote religious interest in the associations. This addition to the committee's force was made possible by a generous friend, who has provided the fund necessary to secure it.

In all parts of the field substantial progress has been made. Valuable assistance has been given to state and provincial committees. In important cities associations have been strengthened, and in some cases effectively reorganized. Timely aid has been rendered in many critical emergencies. State committees temporarily without state secretaries have been served by the field secretaries, state conventions arranged for, and state work continued which otherwise would have been abandoned. Several states have also been helped to secure permanent state secretaries. Association work in the Yukon district has been continued under the direction of W. A. Reid, who is developing the association at Skagway, and is in correspondence with the friends of the work in other parts of the district.

Robert Weidensall, the senior secretary of the committee, has continued his efficient labors in the promotion of county organization and work, and in enlisting young men in Bible study and direct personal effort.

VI.—Work for Special Classes.

1. The Student Department.—This department has made decided progress in all phases of its work, under the general direction of John R. Mott and H. P. Andersen. Mr. Mott has continued to act as chairman of the executive committee of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions and as general secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation. He has also shared with C. K. Ober the home administration of the foreign work of the committee and the special provision for Mr. Mott's support has been continued.

The secretaries of the department have visited institutions of higher learning in the United States and Canada with great thoroughness and have conducted presidential conferences, deputation conferences and the four student summer conferences. The attendance upon the last named at Northfield, Lake Geneva, Wis., Asheville, N. C., and Pacific Grove, Cal., was in each case greater than ever before in the history of the movement. In all 381 institutions were represented by 1,187 delegates.

H. W. Hicks has worked chiefly in the colleges and universities of Canada and the east, W. K. Matthews and his successor, H. M. McIlhany, Jr., in the south, and C. O. Michener in the west, and on the Pacific Coast until September, 1899, when he was succeeded by H. W. Rose. George Gleason has worked among preparatory and high schools. R. P. Wilder, until September, and his successor, S. Earl Taylor, have worked among the theological students jointly for the committee and the Student Volunteer Movement. The Bible study department was under the direction of H. B. Sharman until October. G. A. Beaver has had leave of absence because of ill-health, and W. J. Parker, the intercollegiate secretary of Chicago, has rendered valuable service as a temporary substitute in the professional schools.

A remarkable advance has been made in the quality and amount of Bible study in the colleges through the work of the department. This is largely due to the standard courses of study which have been prepared and the close supervision through correspondence and attendance at conventions and conferences by the Bible study secretary. A Bible study cycle to provide for the four years of the college course has been planned, and the courses for the first three years are already in use.

The work in the theological institutions is meeting with hearty response. Already 46 seminaries representing 19 denominations have been organized. Special conferences for the officers of these associations were held last fall in Oberlin, O., and Madison, N. J.

2. The Railroad Department.—The supervision of the Railroad Department has occupied nearly the entire time of six secretaries, among whom the work has been divided as follows: C. J. Hicks, general administration, headquarters at the New York office; E. L. Hamilton, central west, headquarters at Chicago; H. O. Williams, southern New England and the south-east, headquarters at Richmond, Va.; John F. Moore, northern New England and Canada, headquarters at the New York office; G. D. McDill, the north-west and the Santa Fé Railroad, headquarters at Omaha, Neb., and F. B. Shipp, the southwest, headquarters at St. Louis, Mo.

J. M. Burwick has devoted seven months of the year to evangelistic work among railroad men under the direction of the committee, the expense of his work being borne entirely, as in previous years, by the railroad men.

The year has shown the most substantial and extensive growth of any in the history of the department; nineteen new associations have been added—an increase of five over the total of any previous year. Twelve new buildings have been erected and opened. This growth has not been restricted to any one section of the country. Sixty-five buildings valued at over $1,000,000, are now occupied exclusively by railroad departments or associations. The total cost of maintenance during the year was $325,000; about $180,000 of this amount was contributed by railroad corporations.

The most remarkable developments have been in the south-west on the Santa Fé and the Gould systems, where six new buildings have been erected. Bible study in the railroad departments has received a strong impetus through two conferences of secretaries and leaders from seventy associations where a special introductory course of Bible study for railroad men entitled "Main Lines in the Bible," prepared by Fred S. Goodman, was introduced.

Mr. Hicks was granted leave of absence for three months during the early part of the year without expense to the committee for either salary or expenses. He visited Russia to aid in promoting the interests of work among young men in that empire.

3. Army and Navy Department.—Decided advances have been made in the work of the Army and Navy Department, though much of the work in 1899 was necessarily of an emergency nature. Twenty-five secretaries were employed in the service of the committee. W. B. Millar has continued to have general direction, J. H. Banks sharing the supervision of the work in the army and F. L. Smith, since August, that in the navy. Chaplains R. E. Steele and W. O. Holway, U. S. N., have given valuable co-operation in the development of the work in the navy.

The army work in Cuba which, during the year, touched nearly twenty thousand men in the volunteer and regular regiments, has been directed from Havana where headquarters and store room have been maintained. In San Juan, Porto Rico, a building was secured which has been and continues to be a center of moral and religious influence on the island. In the Philippines where the larger part of the army has been operating, the authorities gave a notable testimony to the value of the association work by granting two commodious and well adapted buildings for its use. One is at Manila and the other at the Cavite naval station. Warrant for this action was given in October by the War Department which enjoined commanding officers "to facilitate the efforts of International Committee to provide helpful social and unsectarian religious influences by providing such suitable quarters as are available." Further evidence of appreciation and confidence on the part of the War Department was shown by a request for secretaries, who should have direction of religious and social work with the troops to be sent to the Philippines on transports carrying soldiers thither. Through the generosity of a friend the committee has been enabled to meet this request, with very gratifying results. At points in the islands where work has been carried on for the soldiers and sailors, English-speaking young men in government employ have also been allowed the privileges of the associations. Work at posts in the United States has been promoted by visitation and correspondence. Eight forts now have organized work, all but one of them being attached as departments to the city association near which they are situated. Temporary work has been done at a number of other posts. A system of travelling libraries, containing about sixty volumes each, has been inaugurated, twenty-six being already in use. Libraries of a more permanent character have been provided for the San Juan and Manila buildings. A series of lectures on appropriate subjects to be illustrated with the stereopticon have been prepared for use in both army and navy.

In the navy, a beginning has been made in the organization of work on shipboard. Plans have been approved by the navy department for the organization of the "Temperance League of the Naval Young Men's Christian Associations," having for its object the promotion of total abstinence among sailors. The Naval Branch Young Men's Christian Association building on Sands Street, Brooklyn, opened in March, 1899, soon proved inadequate to the need and the adjoining building was secured and equipped for additional dormitories. Even this enlarged provision does not meet the requirements of the work; it is therefore gratifying to note that a commodious building, 75 by 100, especially adapted to the needs of the association in the navy, is soon to be erected on Sands Street, Brooklyn, near the navy yard entrance. The entire cost of this building, including the furnishing is provided through the Women's Auxiliary of the committee.

4. Work for Colored and Indian Young Men.—W. A. Hunton has labored very effectively among the associations for colored young men which have made decided progress when all their difficulties are taken into consideration. In caring throughout his wide field for both the city and the student associations, Mr. Hunton has been ably seconded, especially in the city work, by his associate, J. E. Moorland. The annual conferences at Orangeburg, S. C., and Norfolk, Va., were reported by several experienced association men who participated in them as remarkable meetings. Methods of work were carefully studied, deep spiritual impressions received, and a considerable impulse given to the work of the department.

The work among Indian young men has been prosecuted under the care of the field secretaries, and the fourth summer school for the training of leaders in the Indian associations has been held.

VII.—Educational, Physical and Bible Study Departments.

1. Educational Department.—George B. Hodge has devoted himself chiefly to developing and strengthening uniform courses for evening class work, the high standard of which is maintained by international examinations. Six new subjects of study have been added, making twenty-four in all, and the needed examiners have been secured. The annual international examinations, held April 3-9, 1899, were participated in by one hundred and two associations, and certificates were won by 972 men. These certificates, which three years ago received official recognition from only ten colleges and universities, are now recognized by more than one hundred institutions. Eleven of these are state universities, fifteen are state colleges, forty denominational colleges and universities, and the remainder are leading technical, industrial and professional institutions.

Commendable progress has also been made in improving the work of the literary societies, by means of new pamphlets on that subject.

The fourth international educational exhibit, at the Grand Rapids convention, was by far the most practical, extensive, and helpful one ever arranged.

In connection with it, exhibits were made for the first time by the physical, army and navy. Bible study, and junior departments; to these were added pictures and plans of association buildings.

2. Physical Department.—In the Physical Department information and help have been rendered by Dr. Luther Gulick and George T. Hepbron to many associations regarding the equipment of gymnasiums and athletic grounds, the securing of competent physical directors, and many other features of the work. Mr. Hepbron has responded to numerous calls to present the claims of regulated sport. Rules for the registration of athletes and sanction of athletic events have grown in favor. One hundred and ten associations are members of the Athletic League. Thirty other associations have adopted the registration and sanction features. 1,493 men are registered by the league and 362 sanctions have been granted. George W. Ehler of Chicago, has rendered highly valued volunteer service in that section of the country.

3. Bible Study Department.—E. F. See, general secretary of the Brooklyn association, has continued his effective and gratuitous co-operation in the promotion of Bible study, preparing the annual prospectus for 1899, and undertaking the needed correspondence and visitation. He also conducted a conference of Bible workers and leaders who co-operated with him in the preparation of the Prospectus. Very desirable results have been accomplished, giving promise of a yet better prospectus for the coming year.

VIII.—The Central Office.

Upon the careful and thorough administration of the multiplied and multiplying work of the central office depends very much of the efficiency of what is attempted by the committee and its secretaries upon their wide and varied field. To aid Mr. Uhl, its veteran office secretary, in his ever increasing work, the committee has recently appointed as a secretarial office committee, C. J. Hicks, W. E. Lougee and John Glover.

Mr. Glover has been given the title "Associate Office Secretary;" he also continues at the office his quiet and invaluable service in the secretarial bureau, receiving needed co-operation from all his associates on the international force. During the year, at a larger number of points than ever, effective aid has been given in the location of association secretaries.

The publication department, under the careful management of G. L. Leonard, continues to serve efficiently all departments of the work.

Fifty-three new publications or revisions were issued during 1899.

The historical library maintains its usual growth, under the vigilant care of its founder, J. T. Bowne.

Cheering reports were received of the value of the observance of the November day and week of prayer. The office and traveling force of the committee united in extended effort for its promotion.

IX.—Committee Membership—Trustees.

To fill some of the vacancies in the membership of the committee, created by resignation and death, the following gentlemen have been elected: from New York city, Messrs. J. H. Canfield, J. G. Cannon, Cleveland H. Dodge, W. F. McDowell, and from Ohio, S. P. Fenn, of Cleveland.

The committee mourns the grievous loss, by death, among its active membership of Messrs. Gratwick of Buffalo, McAlpin of Cincinnati, and Angell of Detroit, and among its advisory members of Messrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt of New York and Russell Sturgis of Boston. Equally they mourn and feel the loss of Dwight L. Moody, once a leader, always a generous friend of the whole association brotherhood and of the international work.

The board of trustees held its annual meeting March 14, 1899, at which the officers of the preceding year were re-elected.

X.—The Foreign Work.

The year has been an especially gratifying one in the work of the Foreign Department. The return of Mr. Clark to Brazil from his year of rest at home in 1898, was marked by a new interest and activity in the Rio de Janeiro association. This advance has been evidenced in a steady increase in the membership, in the attendance at meetings and Bible classes, and in the publication of a weekly paper. One of the members has shown his interest by devoting his life to the work, and is at present taking the three years secretarial course in the Springfield Training School.

In Ceylon both the city and intercollegiate work of the Colombo association have been well maintained. During the encampment for 1899 of the troops stationed in Ceylon, the association inaugurated with gratifying results, a work similar to that maintained in our own camps under the auspices of our army department.

The year has seen the completion and dedication of the building for the association in the Imperial University of Tokyo, Japan, and the practical completion of the building in Madras. The general secretary of the Tokyo association, Mr. Seijiro Niwa was given a leave of absence of several months, which was devoted to the study of the associations in the United States and Canada, the influence of which is already manifest in the Tokyo work.

With gratitude the committee reports an increase in the number of secretaries on the field from twelve to eighteen. This reinforcement was made possible largely through the hearty response of the friends of the foreign work to the statement of its needs which was made at the Grand Rapids convention in May. The new secretaries have been appointed to the following fields:

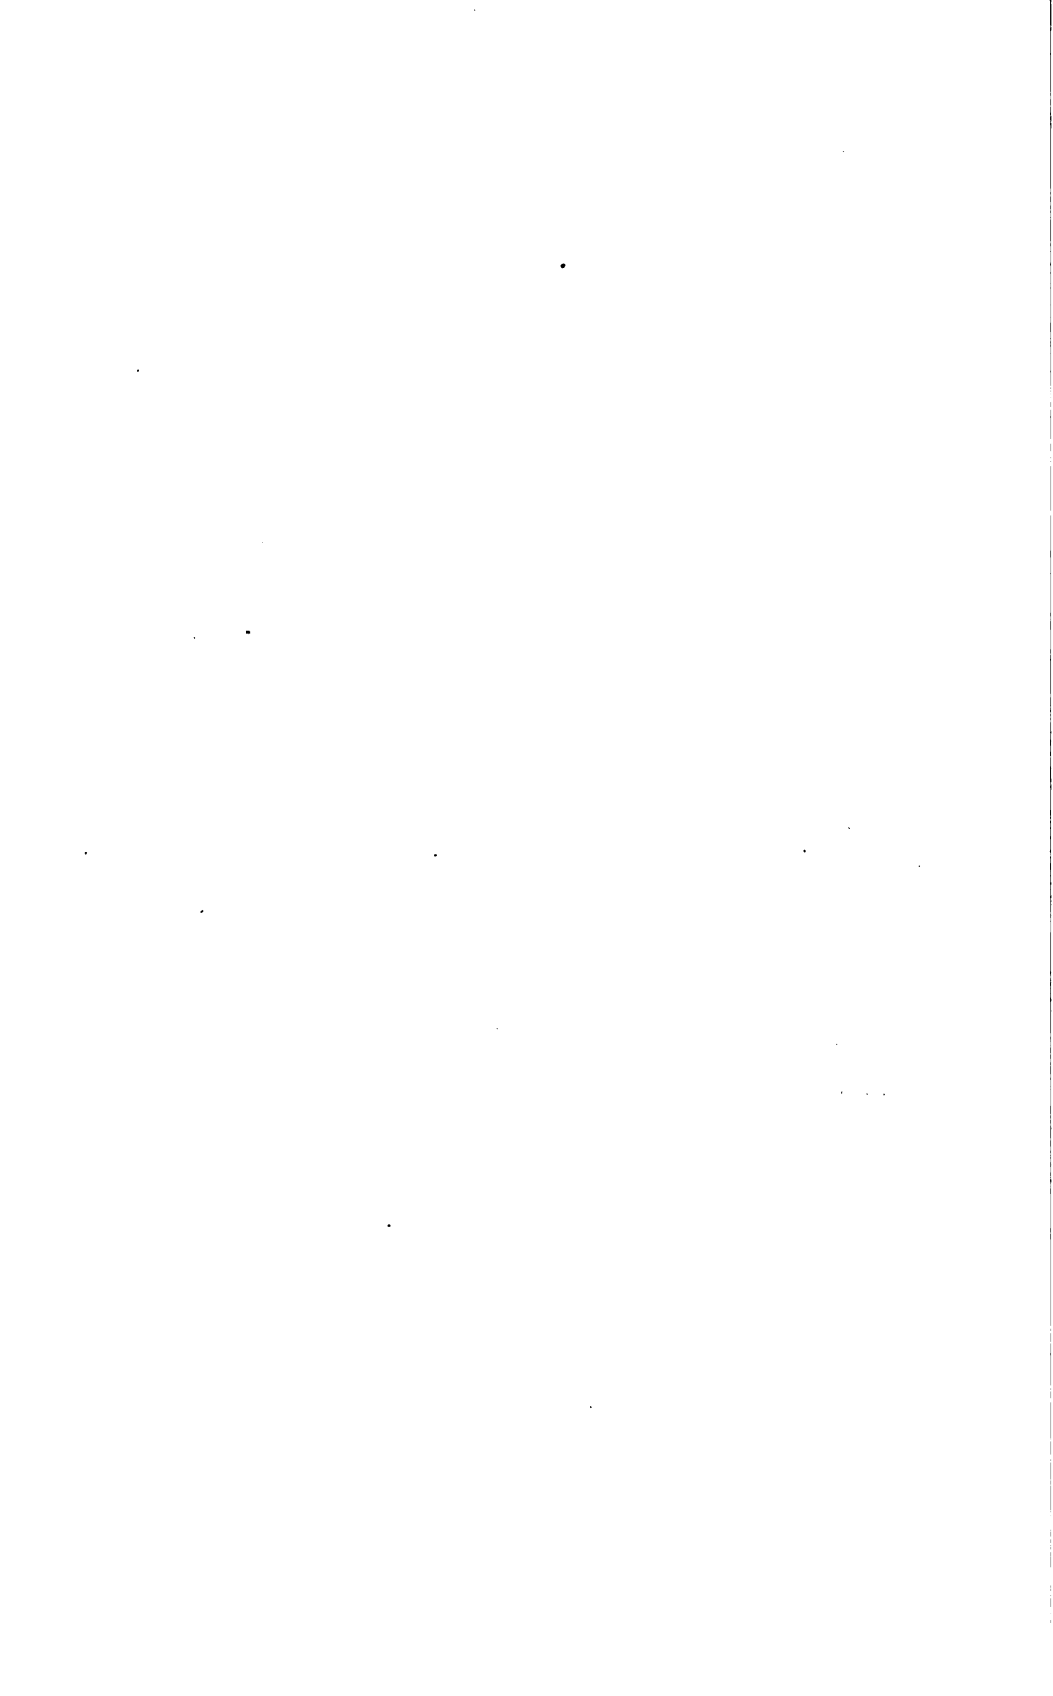

Robert P. Wilder, traveling student work in India; B. R. Barber, student work in Calcutta; L. P. Larsen, student work in Madras; J. B. Williamson, M.D., city, student and medical work in Poona; Walter J. Southam, city and student work in Hong Kong; V. W. Helm, city and national work in Japan; L. H. Beals, M.D., city, student and medical work in Madras.

Reports of an increasing spiritual interest have been received from all the fields occupied by the committee.

Early in the year L. D. Wishard, for twenty-one years a secretary of the committee, ten of which had been given to the interests of foreign work, resigned from the service of the committee to enter upon work of a similar character for the American Board. Grateful recognition of the long and invaluable service he had rendered in both the student and the foreign fields was made in the report of the committee to the Grand Rapids convention and in the resolutions adopted by that convention. For the supervision of the work the committee arranged that Mr. Ober and Mr. Mott representing the field and student departments, should enter into a special relation to problems of a similar character arising upon the foreign field.

The increased interest in the work on the part of North American associations and individual friends is marked and gratifying. The opportunity offered through the volunteer league and the committee's publications for the study of the different fields is proving helpful in the promotion of an intelligent and prayerful interest, and the development of a sense of responsibility for its maintenance and extension.

Temporary quarters were fitted up in the Bay View Hotel, Tompkinsville, S. I., N. Y., "for Dewey's men," and were visited by nearly 1,000 enlisted men.

No special quarters were fitted up to meet the Squadron during its visits at Philadelphia, New Orleans and Galveston, but the privileges of the Associations in these cities were cheerfully extended to officers and men. Thirty-eight sailors from the "Texas" attended a reception given by the New Orleans association, Feb. 21.

At San Diego, Cal., Naval Y. M. C. A. tickets were honored when presented; several of the crew of the "Iowa" used the association gymnasium and baths while training for an athletic contest. Members of the crews of the "Marblehead" and "Philadelphia" attended social gatherings at the rooms.

Special courtesies were extended to the crew of the "Hartford" by the association at San Francisco. A big reception was tendered to the officers and men of the "Iowa," with other entertainment, such as baths, lectures, etc.

When the "Olympia" returned from Manila last year, a large number of her crew were sent across the country to San Francisco. They were provided by our Naval Branch with a generous outfit of games, fruit, nuts, etc.

A large amount of reading matter and other equipment was sent to our naval stations at Guam and Cavite.

* Other sleeping accommodations, 63.

† By State Committee of Maine.

‡ "Big hotel had to be renovated—new plumbing, water piping, electric lights, and all fixed over."
